

Harper Edwards To Attend Bend Parks Conference

Bend - Harper Edwards, Medford, was named recently the Jackson county chairman of a parks and recreation conference here tomorrow. Edwards is chairman of the Jackson County Democratic party.

The meeting here is designed to encourage better knowledge and closer support for more adequate park and recreation facilities in Oregon.

City-county and state park and recreation needs and plans will be discussed in the morning and the afternoon session will be devoted to a discussion of federal and private enterprise planning in these areas. Floor discussion will follow all presentations to determine the unmet needs in park and recreation facilities in Oregon.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) will keynote the conference at 9:30 a.m. The panel program will begin at 10 a.m. with a discussion of the metropolitan park plan.

The afternoon session will begin at 2 p.m. with a discussion of federal recreation and planning activities.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas will address a 7:30 p.m. banquet on the importance of wilderness areas. Mrs. Maurine Neuberger will introduce Justice Douglas.

Sen. Robert W. Straub, state Democratic chairman, noted that a political party has an obligation to make all citizens familiar with the important problems that face the state.

Representatives from the major recreation and outdoor groups will be invited to participate. Included will be spokesmen from the National Forest service, Bureau of Land Management, State Park department, Metropolitan Park plan, Oregon Recreation and Parks association, Governor's Committee on Children and Youth, and the Senior Citizens group.

The public is invited to the nonpartisan conference, as-

WATCH FOR BEETLES

Salem - An Oregon Agriculture department spokesman said today that the department's watch at Oregon airports for possible entry of the dread Japanese beetle has yielded 11 of the insects at Portland airport. But they were all dead when they arrived on inbound planes.

Skeleton Found In Oregon May Be Prospector's

Baker - A skeleton discovered on an eastern Oregon butte is believed to tell the tale of the last, lonely days of a snowbound prospector, more than 60 years ago. The skeleton was found Wednesday in a cave-like crevice on top of Bear butte in the Anthony Lakes region of eastern Oregon. It has been sent to the Oregon state crime laboratory for an age determination.

But Union County Coroner Thad Beatty, who examined the bones, said the skeleton appeared to be about 70 years old. Found with the skeleton were an 1876 model 40-60 caliber repeater rifle, remains of a saddle and bridle, cooking utensils, and an 1883 coin.

Beatty speculated that the skeleton probably was that of a traveler or prospector who spent his last days snowbound on top of the butte and died there more than 60 years ago.

Beatty said the remains of a strip of leather tied around a shoe may have been used in an effort to gain traction in the snow.

Prison Escapee Was An Honorable One

London - Mrs. Zoe (Zippy) Progl is an honorable jail-breaker.

Holloway prison officials received in a brown paper bag Thursday the "trusty's" armband and uniform she wore when she went over the wall last week end.

Increase in Job Chances Expected

Portland - Portland job opportunities can increase by 40 per cent over the next 15 years, according to a report submitted to the Metropolitan Planning commission yesterday.

The report said there is room for considerable industrial development in the Portland area. But it warned that growth will require planning for industrial land site development.

The report said industrial development in the next 15 years will require about 2,700 acres of land. The report added, however, the land is available - if it is set aside and improved.

If the predicted growth occurred, the report said the average employment figure in 1975 would be 88,300. Last April it was 65,700.

Clearance Asked On Sale of Bonds

Washington - The Securities and Exchange commission said Thursday the Pacific Power and Light company of Portland has requested clearance on a proposed sale of $20 million of first mortgage bonds maturing in 1980.

The bonds would be part of the company's construction financing program.

SEC said P P and L would use the net proceeds of the bond sale to retire $18 million in bank loans for construction, and would place the balance in a construction account.

The company, in requesting clearance, said its construction this year will run to about $3.7 million.

Vale Boy Struck, Killed by Auto

Vale - Jerry Knudson, 8, Vale, Ore., was killed Thursday when he was struck by a car.

The boy was riding his bicycle six miles north of Vale, Oregon state police reported. The car involved was driven by Howard Griffin, Vale. The youth was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Knudson.

Third Candidate For Legislature Drops From Race

Salem - Ross Hearing of La Grande, GOP candidate for state representative from Union and Wallowa counties, advised Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr. Thursday he is withdrawing his candidacy.

Hearing was nominated for the legislature in the May primary with write-in votes. He is the third person to withdraw for the legislature race after being nominated.

Hearing told Appling he could not run an active campaign because of business matters and "I am not in a financial position to engage in such a campaign, or if elected, to serve, because of the present remuneration received by one serving in such office."

The electorate rejected a measure on the primary ballot to increase salaries of state legislators.

Appling's office said the 24th district nominating committee will be called upon by the State Republican organization to choose another candidate.

The Democratic candidate is incumbent Don McKinnis of Summerville.

Labor-Management Committee To Meet

Salem - The Legislative Interim committee on Labor-Management has scheduled meetings in Bend and Eugene next month.

The group will meet Aug. 8 in the Deschutes county courthouse, Bend, and Aug. 9-10 in the Lane county courthouse, Eugene.
