

NUCLEAR REACTOR — The first nuclear reactor ever to be carried aloft in an airplane was retired last week and soon will be shipped to radioactive waste disposal facilities in California. Convair Division of General Dynamics corporation officials said the pioneer aircraft shield test reactor has served its purpose in providing mountains of data to be used by Convair-Fort Worth in the design, development and production of a prototype nuclear-powered bomber for the U.S. Air Force. Mothers Picket 'Death Trap' at Drive-In Theater

Portland —UPI—The Sandy Blvd. Drive-In theater Friday night was picketed by two dozen mothers in protest against what they call a "death trap," which has taken one youth's life and seriously injured another boy Friday.

Dale McEachron, 9, was reported in serious condition Friday night at Providence hospital with bad skull injuries after falling 50 feet while crawling up a ladder to catch a pigeon.

The mothers claim a "child proof" fence should be built around the drive-in so that neighborhood children won't be attracted to a child's play land of sand hills, and an old sump hole.

Dave Medina, 7, drowned last April 6 in the sump hole while playing with his brother.

The mothers and their children marched in front of the theater's two entrances at 9345 NE Sandy Blvd.

The McEachron youth climbed through a hole in the drive-in fence, climbed up a ladder between the picture screen and the fence. He fell while stretching to grab a pigeon.

Ray L. Mills, 34, theater manager, told investigating sheriff's deputies that the fence is a constant problem can be repaired.

Paper Boy Saves Teen-Ager's Life

Salem—UPI—An alert paper boy was credited by police Saturday with probably saving the life of 16-year-old Charles Lineberry Friday.

Lineberry's car crashed just south of Salem and rolled into a ravine, pinning the injured boy.

Jeffrey Hogensen, 15, Salem, was delivering newspapers later and spotted the wreckage, notifying police.

Young Lineberry was rescued from the vehicle and rushed to a Salem hospital where his condition Saturday morning was listed as good.

Officers said he may have laid there for two hours and at the time he was found, had lost a considerable amount of blood.

Union Asks City For Measure to 'Ban' Newsboys

Portland —UPI—A striking newspaper union Friday asked the Portland city council to put a measure on the November ballot which would prohibit use of minors in delivery and distribution of products involved in a labor dispute.

Such a measure would stop newsboys from delivering papers.

Joseph J. Cereghino, secretary-treasurer of Portland's Web Pressmen Union Local No. 17, presented the request to the council.

The proposed law would prohibit any person, knowingly or unknowingly from employing child in the sale, delivery or distribution of products of a business where there is a labor dispute.

The measure defines child as any boy or girl under 21 years old.

The measure would be included in next Thursday's session if backers get permission from four of the commissioners.
