Dag Calls Russ Envoy In Try To Patch Rift

UN Policy in Congo Subject Of Discussion

Congo Delegation's Arrival Awaited

United Nations, N.Y. — (UPI) — Secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold called in Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov today in an effort to heal a developing rift with the Kremlin on United Nations policy in the Congo.

Kuznetsov Tuesday night placed Russia firmly behind Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba's demand that the U.N. policy of neutrality in his government's troubles with the mineral-rich province of Katanga be dropped.

Plans to take the latest Congo crisis before the Security Council Thursday were dropped. Hammarskjold consulted with French ambassador Armand Berard, council president during August, and informed sources said later they had agreed it would be impossible to hold the council meeting Thursday morning as originally planned.

It was reported the council would meet Friday. Lumumba has dispatched a delegation from the Congo to present his denunciation of Hammarskjold's policies.

Hammarskjold, in sending the U.N. force into Katanga which has formally seceded from Lumumba's central regime — to replace Belgian forces, ruled that it could take no part in settling any internal problems.

Seeking Endorsement
Hammarskjold returned from Leopoldville Tuesday night to seek a clear-cut endorsement from the Security Council for his action in sending white troops of the U.N. force into the secessionist province of Katanga without Lumumba's blessing or the help of his Congolese troops.

The council was expected to meet Thursday morning, but Hammarskjold was giving Lumumba plenty of time to get a Congolese delegation here before officially setting the date and time.

Hot Weather Complicates County's Mosquito Control Program; Plane Used

Going to people's homes to spray for mosquitoes is not the answer in mosquito control, according to County Sanitarian Orin Moore.

"Spraying the adult mosquitoes does no good," he explained. "We are trying to find the water where the larvae or the unhatched mosquitoes are."

Current county funds do not allow for a thorough county-wide mosquito control program, Moore said. By establishing mosquito control districts other counties have financed programs costing annually from $45,000 to $70,000. To establish such a district the voters must petition for it, then they are assessed

CABIN DESTROYED—As if to complete the job, flames went to work on a wooden walkway after destroying the cabin (background) and burning over about three acres of grass and brushland in Hopkins gulch, near Sterling creek, yesterday afternoon. The fire was brought under control by three state forestry department crews. Owner of the cabin was Harold DeVoss. A forestry department spokesman said the fire apparently started about 3:30 p.m. when burning material that was being used to smoke out bees got into dry grass. It was brought under control about an hour later. The spokesman said Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McCraw had been reading the cabin as a residence. Forestry department crews were still 'mopping up' the fire area this morning.

Brazil's Horaci Lafer was formally designated moderator in the thorny Venezuelan-Dominican Republic dispute.

County Grand Jury Issues Indictment

The Jackson county grand jury returned an indictment at 11 o'clock this morning charging Keith Duane Adams, 32, Medford, with first degree murder, according to District Attorney Thomas J. Reeder.

Adams is accused of strangling his ex-wife, Mrs. Hazel Jean Adams, in her Medford residence Aug. 4.

Two of the Adams' children were reported in the bedroom at the time.

Boise — (UPI) — Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon has pledged his efforts in obtaining freight rates favorable to both Pacific Northwest ports and wheat growers.

additional millage, he said. With the growing feeling against increased taxes, the sanitarian said he doubted if Jackson county people would want to do this.

Complicating the problem has been a long series of hot nights starting in July compared to the usual two weeks in August, Moore explained. Water temperatures must be up to 70 degrees before mosquitoes start hatching.

Heavily infested areas have been reported in the Pioneer subdivision and the Dark Hollow rd. area.

The immense number of logs moving through log ponds for stacking has made it difficult to get any residual

Ashland Hospital Board Increased To 7 Members

Council Approves With Revel Against

Ashland — The Ashland city council last night increased the size of its hospital board from five to seven members, but only after Councilman Glenn Revel had made it clear he thought the action was "premature."

Appointed by Mayor Richard Neill were Gerald Wenner, retired banker, and Ernest Tischhauser, certified public accountant.

The action came after the present five-member board, which was created only about three weeks ago, recommended adding two members. Appearing before the council were Robert Flynn, hospital administrator, and Mrs. Virginia Westerfield, secretary-treasurer of the board.

The council seemed generally receptive to the recommendation, but Revel pointed out that "the ink is hardly dry" on the present ordinance creating the five-member board. He said he felt it would be "wholly premature" to add two members before the board gave a membership of five a fair trial.

Selection Method
Revel cited the difficulty the council experienced in arriving at a method of selecting the present board and said he thought it would be "silly" to change the number of members so soon.

Replying to Revel, Mrs. Westerfield said the board has "already seen the need for help" and added that the board feeds "the more people on it, the better."

Flynn said he thought a seven-member board "would be a little more representative of the community" and stated that the American Hospital Association recommends a board membership of nine for a hospital of the size that Ashland's will be.

Goes Along With Board
Councilman D. S. Kerr conceded that "we just more or less pulled the five out of the hat" but added that since the board had studied the question, "it seems to me we should probably go along with the request."

"I think the board can probably see the need better than we can," agreed Councilman Emmett Witham.

"It seems to me," commented Councilman George Ward, that we're giving more time to adding two members than we did to the original selection of five."

The motion to pass the ordinance adding two members was passed with only Revel voting against. He abstained when Mayor Neill asked approval of his appointment of Wenner and Tischhauser.

The new board members will draw lots to see who serves a three-year term and who serves for two years.

Other board members are Dr. Arthur Kreisman, chairman; I. F. Andres, vice chairman; Ned Mars, Walter Bossard and Mrs. Westerfield.

Ike Assails Soviet Union For Violation

Washington — (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today he sees no evidence that U2 pilot Francis G. Powers was brainwashed, but he assailed the Soviet Union for violating international custom in Powers' espionage trial.

Powers, at the opening of his trial in Moscow today, pleaded guilty to the charge that he flew over the country on his ill-fated high-level reconnaissance mission May 1.

The President, at his news conference, said he did not see the Powers' plea as evidence that he had been brainwashed by his captors.

But the President said under international custom, any foreigner arrested anywhere is entitled to consult with officials of his own country. He said the United States has asked repeatedly to see Powers. This request was denied.

Rejects Soviet Claims
Asked about the Powers case, the President rejected as groundless the Soviet propaganda line that the United States itself, rather than Powers, is on trial. He denounced this Red contention as just propaganda.

He defended again the U2 flights over Russia and pointed to the record of numerous arrests of Russian spies in this country and elsewhere.

In other highlights of his news conference, the President said he knows of no mistakes made by this country that contributed to the current pro-Russian and anti-American political picture in Cuba. He said he has no reason to apologize for anything we have done in Cuba.

Challenged the Democratic Congress again to enact the broad legislative program he submitted to the pre-election session. He said he has no intention of paring his long list of legislative requests down to a few must bills. He recalled that Congress in one two-week period last year passed 436 bills and he sees no reason why they shouldn't act now on some of his.

Will Not Recall Congress
Declared that no matter what Congress does in its bottled session, he has no intention to call the lawmakers back for a further try at his program. He would call a special session, he said, only in event of some great, new national emergency.

Pointedly said that despite the campaign and the November elections, he will be President until Jan. 29 and will bear the responsibility for American decisions in that period. In the meantime, he said, he won't be actively campaigning too much, although he now has one avowed political speech on his schedule and will make more.

Cuba Naval Bases Under Surveillance

Havana — (UPI) — Naval bases throughout Cuba were under army surveillance today following a series of raids which were said to have crushed a "counter-revolutionary plot."

Informed sources said hundreds of navy men, including some of the nation's highest-ranking naval officers, had been arrested.

Premier Fidel Castro himself was said to have led a dawn raid by elite troops of his own special guard Tuesday on the Casablanca naval arsenal, across the bay from Havana. Everyone on duty at the arsenal was said to have been placed under arrest.

Area Residents Report UFO Here

Another report of unidentified flying objects over this area was made Tuesday by Mrs. T. R. Florey, Old Stage rd.

She reported that she and her daughter, Mrs. Judy Hoyt, watched a "longish red object" move across the southern sky about 7:57 p.m. Monday.

According to Mrs. Florey, they watched the "large red blinking thing with metal below" bob around in the southwest before disappearing, perhaps into a cloud bank.

Both women said they thought they were watching the new United States satellite Echo 1 until they read in Tuesday's Mail Tribune of the mystery object sighted near Red Bluff Saturday.

Mrs. Florey said they then realized the object they had seen was completely unlike the satellite and much more like the other thing.

Another UFO was said to have been seen by Mrs. Florey's nephew, Dick Florey, Monday night.

DIRECTING SEARCH—Heading the search for a Cessna aircraft with four persons aboard, missing between Medford and Modesto, Calif., are Brian Douglas, left, local search and rescue chief for southern Oregon, and Ralph W. McCintin, aviation safety supervisor with the state board of aeronautics, Salem. The two study a map of the mountainous area where the craft is being sought by about 20 planes. (Knackstedt photo)

Search Continues For Missing Plane; Old Wreckage Seen

Ten Medford planes continued in the search this morning for the Cessna aircraft, missing since Monday, carrying four Californians. The craft disappeared after refueling in Medford on a flight to Modesto, Calif., from Bellingham, Wash.

Brian Douglas, local search and rescue chief for southern Oregon, reported that the wreckage would continue throughout the day. If the plane is not discovered this afternoon, the search is expected to be discontinued, he said.

Douglas added that about 20 planes have been covering the area south of Medford to the Lake Shasta area in California. He said that today's search includes part of the area covered Tuesday, "just in case we missed something."

Tuesday afternoon, searchers located the wreckage of a military plane about 10 miles west of Trinity Center, Calif. Douglas said that the wreckage was of an unidentified military craft, believed to have crashed about 10 years ago. Helicopter crewmen removed some bones and clothing from the site in an attempt to identify the craft.

Aboard the missing aircraft were two couples identified as Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Klefecker, all Hawthorne, Calif.

Six cadets of the Medford squadron, Civil Air Patrol, are actively participating in the search. The local squadron was officially called into the search this morning by the wing commander in Portland after CAP assistance was requested by the Air Force.

The cadets ride in the planes conducting the search as observers. This is the first time that cadets of the Medford squadrons have actively participated in a search, CAP officials here reported.

U.S. Waits Soviet Reply To Proposal

United Nations, N.Y. — (UPI) — The United States sought a "considered reply" from Russia today on its proposal to withdraw 68 tons of fissionable materials from the world's nuclear weapons stockpile.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov called the proposal "nothing new" in Tuesday's opening session of the United Nations Disarmament Commission. But U.S. sources believed he was impressed and would ask further instructions from the Kremlin.

Eight nations, including neutralist Sweden and the United Arab Republic, were slated to speak on the armaments issue at the commission's second session today. Their reaction could bring a good indication of the impact of the American plan on world opinion.

U2 Pilot Says He's Sorry for Part in Flight

Detailed Recital Of Mission Given

Moscow — (UPI) — Francis Gary Powers pleaded guilty in open court today to spying for the United States against Russia and said he was sorry now he had any part in the U2 flight over the Soviet.

The handsome pilot, appearing in good mental and physical condition, said he was given a military order to go on the May 1 mission on which he was downed.

The handsome pilot, appearing in good mental and physical condition, said he was given a military order to go on the May 1 mission on which he was downed.

TV Cameras Hum
The lights in the Hall of Columns flared up and the Russian television cameras hummed as Powers added:

"Now that I know something more of the consequences of my flight—I don't know all by any means... the summit conference, the increase of world tension—I am sorry I had any part in it."

Powers, on trial for his life on his 31st birthday, gave a calm and detailed recital of the mission. He revealed that he had made two previous U2 flights from Turkey to Norway, along but not over the Soviet borders, prior to the one on which he was downed.

He said his plane was hit at an altitude of 68,000 feet as he carried out instructions to turn on "designated equipment," the purpose of which he did not know.

Powers said he was a $2500-a-month employee of the Central Intelligence Agency. He said American laws provide a 10-year prison sentence for revealing such a top-secret contract.

An Air Force officer identified as Colonel Shelton of the Adana, Turkey, base was named by Powers as the man who ordered him to make the flight.

Powers said Shelton had told him it was "absolutely safe to fly over the Soviet Union at that altitude"—68,000 feet.

Attorney General's Opinion Delayed

An attorney general's opinion regarding the school district boundary dispute involving the area south of Barnett rd. probably will not come until next week, District Attorney Thomas J. Reeder said this morning.

The county boundary board has been waiting for the state attorney general's opinion on whether the board may overrule a decision of the Jackson county school district reorganization committee which had previously approved the boundary change bringing the area into the Medford school district. The area includes the Rogue Valley Manor.

County Judge Earl Miller said previously that the boundary board hoped to meet on the question at the end of this week and reach a decision. Miller plans to take his vacation next week. However the boundary board is reluctant to make a decision before receiving the opinion.

The district attorney said the delay in receiving the opinion is due to "a mixup and delay involving letters," but did not say specifically what the cause was.

"Pray Keep Moving, Brother"

Lower Income Tax Proposal Approved

Salem — (UPI) — An income tax program which would cut the amount the state receives 10 per cent and would add a 3-cent a pack cigarette tax and have self-employed persons pay their income tax in advance quarterly was approved by the Legislative Interim Tax Committee Tuesday.

The new income tax package was part of the changes which the committee will recommend to the 1961 legislature.

The committee favors elimination of the present inventory tax and its replacement with a 1 1/2 per cent tax on net profits.

It also is asking for a tax on railroad piggyback transportation similar to that on other types of comparable property.
