

Quotes From the News

BY UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Moscow—Oliver Powers, after the opening session of the espionage trial of his son, U2 pilot Francis G. Powers:
"That's my boy right down the line. Every word was his."

Caughnawga, Que.—Iroquois Chief Ro-Ya-Nor Ras-Te-Wen Se-Roh-Thah Diome, criticized a parliamentary speech which hailed giving Indians the right to vote:
"... I see no reason why an Iroquois should . . . forsake his nationality as a North American Indian and become a Canadian citizen."

Los Angeles—Circus boss Hugo Schmitt, complaining that elephants are getting soft:
"They can't seem to wait until the train stops so they can head for the air-conditioned arena."

Moscow—Reporter Alberto Ronchey of the Italian newspaper Las Stampa, agreeing with other Western correspondents that Powers has given no sign of having been brainwashed:
"I don't think there's any brainwashing. I think he's just afraid."
