

BURDETTE PITCHES NO-HITTER

Brave Star Allows One Man on Base

By FRED LINDECKE
United Press International
Milwaukee - Lew Burdette, the guy with the ever-present quip and wise crack, knows today what it takes to leave him stunned and speechless—his first no-hitter.

The 33-year-old righthander from Nitro, W. Va., circled aimlessly and bumped into people in the Milwaukee Braves dressing room after stopping the Philadelphia Phillies, 1-0, Thursday night. "I never thought I'd ever do it," he repeated again and again.

But soon he was the old irrepresible Burdette again. "When did he first think about pitching a no-hitter? 'Right with the first pitch.' And then with a job at Braves' treasurer Fran Leary, 'be sure to make those checks bigger from now on.'"

Near Perfect Game
Burdette came within just one batter of hurling a perfect game. He faced only the minimum of 27 men, but he hit center fielder Tony Gonzalez with a 1-1 pitch in the fifth inning.

Gonzalez became the only Philadelphia baserunner of the game, but he was erased immediately in an unusual doubleplay. The next batter, Lee Walls, grounded out third to first, and Gonzalez was out trying to go all the way to third on a relay back to Johnny Logan covering the bag.

Serious for just a moment again, Burdette compared the thrill of his no-hitter with winning three games against the New York Yankees in the 1957 World Series.

"I rank this right up there with those," he said.

Nice Hitting, Too!

Standing right next to him, Warren Spahn - a veteran who has had 10 20-victory seasons without a no-hitter - said, "The hell with your pitching. It was the hitting that did it."

Spahn referred to Burdette's second hit of the night, a double down the left field line to open the eighth inning. Billy Bruton followed with another double over the first base bag off losing pitcher Gene Conley to score Burdette with the winning run.

It was the second no-hitter of this season. Don Cardwell pitched one for the Cubs against the Cardinals on May 15. It was also the first nine-inning no-hitter by a Brave pitcher since Jim Wilson pitched one against the Phillies on June 12, 1954.

The spectacular performance recalled the night of May 26, 1959, when Pittsburgh's Harvey Haddix pitched 12 perfect innings at County Stadium, only to lose, 1-0, in the 13th and ironically to Burdette.

Burdette said he was worried about every one of the Phils' batters. "I told myself at the start of the ninth inning, 'You dumb guy, this could never happen to you!'"

But Burdette was wrong, it did.

Roy Campanella, Wife Trying To Save Marriage

New York - (UPI) - Paralyzed ex-baseball star Roy Campanella says he and his wife are attempting to patch up their marital differences and "get together for the kids."

Campanella said Thursday night there will be no formal announcement of whether he will drop his suit for legal separation from his wife, Ruth, until he returns from dedicating a rehabilitation center in Baltimore Sunday. But he said, "for my children, I'll gladly drop it."

Mrs. Campanella said Thursday she was "willing to have the suit withdrawn, not only for my husband, but for the children as well."

The former Dodger catcher who was paralyzed in a 1958 auto accident had sued for separation on grounds his wife neglected him and their three children.

Bend - (UPI) - Klamath Falls, Ore., Fresno, Calif., and Roswell, N.M., scored first round victories as the seven-team, double-elimination Western Region American Junior Legion baseball tournament got underway here Thursday.

Klamath Falls scored a thrilling 5-4 come-from-behind victory over Salt Lake City in the day's final game while Fresno dumped Phoenix, Ariz., 11-1 and Roswell trounced Las Vegas, Nev., 25-1.

Bucky Wilson slammed a two-run double down the third baseline to cap a three-run Klamath Falls eighth-inning rally that erased a 4-2 Salt Lake City lead and gave Klamath Falls a hard-earned victory.

Wilson's game-winning hit followed a single by John Bianchi, a double by Don Gresdel, a single by Don Willey and a stolen base by Willey.

Salt Lake jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning and added another tally in the fourth to take a quick 4-0 lead. Klamath Falls battled back to score two runs and narrow the gap to 4-2 and set the stage for the game-winning rally.

Klamath Falls pitcher Wally Palmberg settled down after a shaky start to chalk up the win while Salt Lake reliever Ken Ingley was handed the loss.

"Clem put his hand in the horses mouth to see how many teeth it had, and the horse closed his mouth to see how many fingers Clem had."
