Boundary Board Has Final Say On Suggestions

The Jackson county school boundary board has the final responsibility of accepting or rejecting the county school reorganization committee's recommendations, District Attorney Thomas J. Reeder said this morning.

Reeder gave that as his interpretation of an attorney general's opinion received by mail this morning, affecting an area in the Phoenix school district south of Barnett rd.

"The district boundary board may exercise its discretion to determine whether the proposed boundary change is for the best interests of the district or districts concerned, and may act accordingly," the opinion stated.

"In our opinion," the letter stated, "the district boundary board before acting upon or taking cognizance of the petition, must receive the consent of the county reorganization committee and secure a finding from the committee on desirability of the boundary change and if it will conflict with any contemplated reorganization."

Summing up, the opinion stated: "If a finding or concurrence with the proposed change is received, the district boundary board can then enter its own determination as to the desirability of the proposed change of school boundaries and enter its order accordingly."

The boundary board will decide Wednesday afternoon on whether the area south of Barnett rd. will be shifted from the Phoenix school district to the Medford school district.

Security Council Endorses Dag's Policy in Congo

United Nations, N. Y. - (UPI) - The Security Council, ignoring Russian opposition, endorsed Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's Congo policy early today without a formal vote.

A Russian resolution proposing the creation of a consultative committee to "aid" Hammarskjold in the Congo, the only concrete proposal advanced at a marathon council session that lasted well past midnight, was withdrawn in the face of sure defeat.

During the 9 hour and 23-minute debate, all of the council's 11 members except Russia and Red Poland supported Hammarskjold's refusal to involve the U.N. in the Congo's internal affairs.

Ambassador Armand Bernard, the council's French president of the month, summed up the consensus in two sentences.

Clarification for Dag

"We have heard different views and questions," he said. "We are convinced that the secretary general will have a few days to clarify the clarification he required, and that no doubt will help him in the continuation of his task."

Hammarskjold summoned the council to an extraordinary session when his policy of neutrality toward the secession of mineral-rich Katanga province was challenged by Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Burglars Caught In Act in City

Two jail escapes from Maryland were apprehended by Medford police and sheriff's deputies early Sunday morning in the act of burglarizing Dunham's Inc., 1951 North Pacific highway.

Arrested on charges of burglary were Riley Filmore Jones, 21, and Guthrie Edwin Jones, 25, both of Tulsa, Okla. They are lodged in the county jail.

The two were caught after sheriff's deputies spotted them in Dunham's shortly after midnight and requested assistance from city police. Officers from the two agencies surrounded the building.

One of the men attempted to break out of the cordon of officers by throwing a step ladder through a window and then jumping out after it. But he was met by a police officer with drawn gun, and gave up saying, "please don't shoot."

The other burglar was captured inside the building, police said.

Before being apprehended the two men allegedly took some $1,000 from the safe by opening it with a cutting torch. The money was recovered. Entry to the building was gained by cutting a hole in the roof, police said.

The two men are also reported wanted by Pikeville, Md., police for escape from the Hagerstown jail, and by Tulsa, Okla., authorities for a burglary there.

Trail Man Killed In Accident on Butte Falls Road

George Ersal Myers, 50, of Elk Creek route, Trail, Ore., was killed almost instantly in a one-car accident on the Butte Falls highway about 6.2 miles east of Crater Lake highway, early Sunday morning, state police reported.

Myers evidently died of head injuries when he threw himself in front of his wife when the car in which they were riding failed to make a right curve.

State police said Myers must have hit his head against a rock bank which tore away the car's front and side and damaged the top. He was sitting in the center of the back seat with his wife on his right side, officers reported.

Myers' wife, Beulah Darlene Myers, 43, was reported in fair condition today in Sacred Heart hospital where she is being treated for a broken collarbone and fractured ribs.

Treated, Released

Treated and released were the driver, Edward Victor Gurska, 1205 Coling ave., Richmond, Calif., U. S. Navy, who had minor cuts on his arm and other passengers, Shelby James Gurska, 18, same address, minor abrasions and bruises and Ersal Gene Myers, 18, Elk Creek, Elk-Trail, lacerations and bruises. Passenger Thomas Leroy Porcher, 18, Elk Creek route, Trail, was reported uninjured.

State police said the car was travelling west on the Butte Falls highway when it entered a right curve, crossed to the shoulder on the left and back across the highway where it struck a rocky bank.

Funeral services for Mr. Myers will be held at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at Hillcrest Memorial chapel on the North Phoenix rd. Conger-Morris funeral home is in charge of services.

Russia Demands Action on Flights

Moscow - (UPI) - Russia has demanded that the United Nations debate the U2 and RB47 airplane incidents and "take appropriate measures."

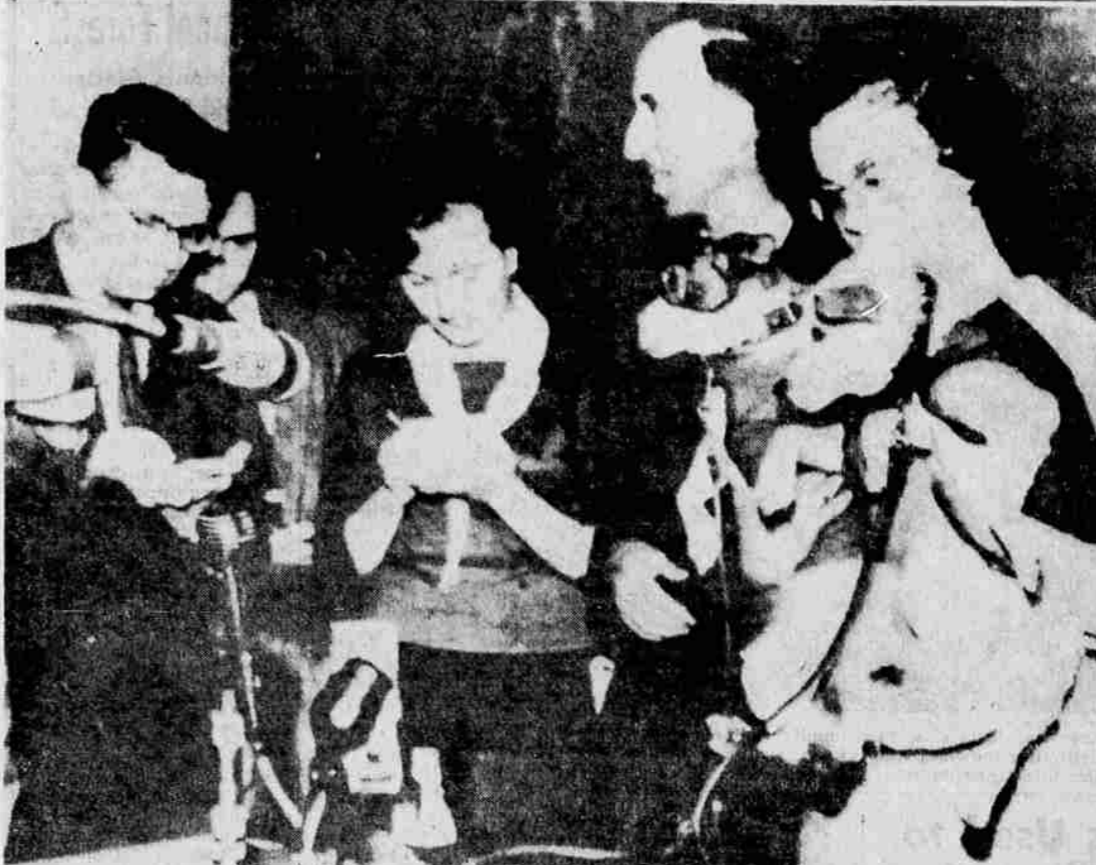

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, in a letter to U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, said that American flights over and near the Soviet Union were "aggressive actions" which constituted a "menace to general peace."

The letter, released Sunday, demanded that both flights be "considered" by the coming session of the U.N. General Assembly.

The Soviet demand was sent to Hammarskjold a day after a Moscow court sentenced U2 pilot Francis G. Powers to 10 years in prison for spying.

Gromyko accused the United States of "continuing its policy of violating the airspace of the Soviet Union" and said this "constitutes a direct act of aggression."

KATANGA OFFICIALS PREDICT LUMUMBA OUSTER IN 15 DAYS

CANNIE PRESS CONFERENCE—As reporters take notes, a woman displays space dogs Strelka and Belka at a press conference in Moscow today. The canines were successfully returned to earth after a rocket trip to outer space. The dogs wagged their tails and scampered about during the press conference, showing no ill affects of their satellite ride.

'Determined to Overthrow' Him, Says Secessionist

Congo Premier Makes Appeal to Nation

Leopoldville, The Congo - (UPI) - Premier Patrice Lumumba was confronted today with a warning from secessionist leaders now meeting at Katanga Province that he cannot last more than two weeks.

Leopoldville, The Congo - (UPI) - The government of Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba announced today it "once again has confidence in the United Nations" and has decided against asking for military help from "other friendly countries."

"We are determined to overthrow Lumumba..." said opposition leader Paul Khatanga at the secessionist meeting. "I can assure you that Lumumba will fall within 15 days."

The Congolese premier appealed to the nation by radio not to heed the secessionist meeting in Elisabethville at the invitation of Katanga President Moise Tshombe.

The most important faction at the meeting was a group of officials of Congo President Joseph Kasavubu's A b a k o party.

The Puna and MNC-Kalonji parties also were represented in talks aimed at reorganizing the Congo Republic as a confederation with a strictly limited central government.

There was little Lumumba could do to break up the conference short of carrying out his recent threat to invade Katanga.

U.N. Force Aloof

The United Nations police force has remained aloof from the secession agitation on the ground that it is strictly a matter of internal politics. It was this policy or neutrality that inspired Lumumba's heated denunciations of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and the continuing harassment of U.N. personnel by Congolese police and soldiers.

The premier sent an emissary to negotiate with Tshombe Sunday but he was promptly arrested on arrival by Katanga authorities. The Tshombe government said it would hold Congo Justice Minister Rene Mwamba as a counter-hostage for the wife and four children of Albert Kalonji who are now in custody of the Lumumba regime.

Other Arrests

Kalonji heads the dissident faction of Lumumba's MNC party which bears his name.

There were unconfirmed reports that Tshombe's police seized other persons on the same Belgian airliner, which was rerouted on his orders from the U.N.-patrolled main airport at Elisabethville to Belgium's Kamina military base.

Fire Danger Gets Relief, Snow Falls In Mountain Areas

Showers late yesterday and early today brought a temporary end to southern Oregon's forest fire danger, cooler temperatures and the first snow of the season to the higher elevations.

Curtis Nesheim, warden of the southwest district of the state department of forestry, said the rain brought only temporary relief, and that forest lands will dry out soon after showers stop.

Forest service officials said the storm was not general, although some relief is apparent in precipitation and lower temperatures. Dutchman peak, officials said, reported about a half of an inch of snow, while Robinson Butte lookout, at a lower elevation, reported about two inches of snow during the night.

Nesheim estimated the showers lowered the fire danger from extreme to moderate. This, he noted, is a temporary condition only.

Huckleberries May Be Sparse This Year

A few ripe berries have been reported in the Huckleberry mountain area, the forest service said today, but the crop is expected to be sparse.

Many berries will not ripen, according to the report, probably because late March snow delayed the growing process. The berries normally would be in full harvest peak at this time of the year.

Green huckleberries seen on recent trips into the area by forest service personnel numbered considerably fewer than during a normal year.

Six Inches of Snow

Crater Lake National park officials reported about six inches of snow at the rim during the night, and about four inches at park headquarters. It was snowing lightly there this morning.

Snow was reported on the ground this morning at Four Mile lake, but it was not expected to remain long.

Irrigation district officials said the rain this morning will have little effect, if any, on the irrigation picture. Continued showers could benefit the irrigation districts, officials said.

The greatest benefit to irrigation districts from the storm front which moved across the area over the week end was cooler temperatures, which reduce considerably the amount of evaporation from irrigation canals and lakes, they indicated.

The Medford weather bureau station recorded .02 of an inch of rain up to 10 o'clock this morning.

Continued cool weather is forecast tonight and tomorrow, and the five-day weather outlook for western Oregon is for temperatures below normal and precipitation more than normal. The precipitation is expected in one or two showery periods, the weather bureau said.

FULL SCALE PEAR HARVEST - The Rogue valley pear harvest is expected to enter full scale tomorrow providing rainy weather doesn't interfere with operations, according to pear industry spokesmen. This picture was taken in the Indian Springs orchard north of Medford last week when picking was still light. Rain nearly shut down the pear harvest today in many orchards. Myron Root and company owns the orchard in which the above picture was taken.

Riot Involves 100 Persons Near Club In Medford Sunday

Medford's police department, the sheriff's office and fire department joined forces Sunday morning to quell a riot involving more than 100 persons at the 21 club, 1909 North Riverside ave.

Several police officers were roughed up during the melee which started when two officers tried to break up a fight. There were no reported injuries.

One man, Carl Gilbert Dusenberry, 22, of 1906 Hazel st., was arrested at the scene of the riot, and more arrests may be forthcoming, according to Police Chief Charles P. Champlin.

The riot was of short duration, from 2:18 to 2:40 a.m.

Explosive Situation

Chief Champlin said it was a "real explosive situation" and "could have been much worse." He attributed the riot to "mob psychology" and "excessive drinking" on the part of much of the crowd, most of them early Sunday morning patrons at the tavern.

The riot started when Officers Richard Hamilton and S. R. Reese attempted to break up a fight at the club.

Officer Reese said a large crowd was gathered around two men who were fighting. He was able to get one of the men to the police car without incident but the second man refused to come.

The man backed off with a belt wrapped around his hand, Reese said, and Reese tackled him, forcing him up against the side of a parked car.

Several persons then grabbed him, Reese said, and the fight was on.

Reinforcements were requested and several sheriff's deputies, eight police officers and two pumpers from the fire department responded.

Several police officers were roughed up and had their shirts nearly torn off. Officer Richard Hurner was hit in the face by one of the rioters, and his glasses were broken.

Officer Dennis Perkins, who was in plain clothes, but had a badge on his shirt, said he saw Dusenberry draw back his fist during the melee to start to strike one of the officers, and he (Perkins) grabbed him by the neck and threw him to the ground. Perkins said he did it in a manner "not to hurt him, but to restrain him."

Dusenberry is believed to have been one of the instigators of the riot, and, according to one officer, he was "cursing at the police and yelling for the crowd to get us."

Rioters Handcuffed

Police at first had four of the rioters handcuffed and in patrol cars, but someone gave an order to release them. Chief Champlin said today he is still trying to find out where the order came from. Champlin emphasized however, that the "main thing is to break up the riot and not wanting to arrest a lot of people."

The chief said he talked to Dusenberry this morning and he was "very definitely" sorry about the incident and blamed the whole thing on "too much drinking."

The two pumpers from the fire department were not used at the riot, because, according to officers, when the crowd saw them it quickly dispersed.

Dusenberry was sentenced to 30 days in jail each on charges of disorderly conduct and interfering with duties of a police officer. He appeared in municipal court this morning.

Space Dogs Meet With Press; Both Okay After Jaunt

Moscow - (UPI) - Strelka and Belka, the two dogs the Russians successfully returned to earth from outer space, held their first news conference today. They wagged their tails, nuzzled newsmen and scampered about, showing no ill effects of their trip in a space ship.

Pravda said the payload of the Soviet "flying zoo" satellite fell in two parts into a "peaceful meadow" somewhere in Russia.

Prepared for Year

A Soviet scientist said it took a year to prepare the two mongrels for their historic trip. The two dogs sat on a table under the bright lights of the conference, dressed in their space suits and occasionally scampering about and nuzzling newsmen, according to the Soviet news agency Tass.

Oleg Gazenko, a spokesman for the Soviet Union's Academy of Sciences, conducted the conference for the dogs and explained that they were chosen for the flight because of their tranquil nature and equilibrium.

Fed Twice a Day

Strelka (Little Arrow) and Belka (Squirrel) were fed automatically twice a day during their space trip, Gazenko said.

One Moscow radio reporter held his microphone up in front of one of the dogs but he was ignored.

Moscow radio correspondent Vladimir Tregubov, broadcasting on the home service, told his listeners later: "Comrades, I have just returned from the most amazing press conference I have ever attended."

Former Oregon Governor Oswald West Dies at 87

Portland - (UPI) - Oswald West, 87, colorful former governor of Oregon who led the battle to make Oregon's beaches publicly owned, died in his sleep at his home here today.

West, a lifelong Democrat, was governor of Oregon from 1911 to 1915. He would have observed his 63rd wedding anniversary had he lived another 30 days.

Although he suffered a series of illnesses during the last several years after a heart attack in 1945, he remained alert and kept up correspondence with many friends in all parts of the state with handwritten notes.

Wrote Many Articles

In recent years he was known for many articles, editorials and letters to the editor. He was known for his biting, to-the-point phrases.

Survivors include his widow, Mabel, and two daughters, Mrs. Helen West Stone and Mrs. Frank J. McHugh Jr., of Portland. Funeral services are pending.

Served One Term

West served only one term as governor, quitting politics for law practice in Portland. He was born May 20, 1873, in Guelph, Ontario. He attended public schools in Portland and Salem and started his business career at the age of 15 with a job at the Ladd and Bush bank in Salem.

Although well known for his fight to keep Oregon's beaches public, West also was a prime influence in prison reforms, strengthening of state institutions and creation of the game and highway commissions, the Board of Control, and for industrial welfare measures including workmen's compensation and child labor laws.

Ballplayer Sued For $1 Million

Chicago - (UPI) - Pitcher Jim Brewer and the Chicago Cubs in a joint legal move, today filed a $1,040,000 damage suit against Billy Martin, Cincinnati second baseman, for his attack on Brewer during the Cub-Cincinnati game Aug. 4.

The complaint, filed in the Circuit Court of Cook County, asked for damages to be divided equally between Brewer and the Chicago National League baseball club.

Brewer, 22, a southpaw, has undergone two operations as a result of Martin's attack and still is hospitalized. Martin, claiming that Brewer had thrown a beanball at him, walked out to the mound and punched Brewer in the eye.

Attendance Records Are Being Set at Ashland

Ashland - Attendance records are being set almost nightly at the Oregon Shakespearean Festival's current 1960 season.

On Sunday evening, Richard Rizzo's staging of "Richard II" established a new mark for chronicle history productions by selling out and playing to standees. Total audience for the night was 1,172, or 28 over seating capacity. This broke the record set by the same show Aug. 13 this year when 1,117 attended.

This was the first time in Festival history that a chronicle play has sold out, and it happened on a traditionally low-count night, with unseasonably cool weather, festival officials noted.

Sunday was the fourth sell-out in a row for the successful Festival season. Never before have productions sold out consecutively at the Elizabethan theater. Heavy advance sales indicate more to come, with 10 over-capacity nights already in the books, officials said.

Patrons who have not made arrangements are advised to do so immediately. Best selling is still for the last round of plays, starting Aug. 30. The final "Taming of the Shrew" performance, however, has been sold out. Standing room tickets for $1.20 are available on all sell-out nights.

After seven complete rounds of productions, audience totals have reached 28,098. This is 2,678 more than last year at this time. The 1959 total of 36,593 was a new all-time high for the theater.

"Shrew" still leads at the box office, having now reached a total of 8,328. Second is "Julius Caesar" at 7,217. "The Tempest" has moved into third with 6,323 and "Richard II" has been seen by 6,250. All four major productions have now sold out at least once. The season continues nightly through Sept. 3.
