Thornton Gives Opinion On Bill

Salem—UPI—Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton said today he sees no serious question of constitutionality of a bill introduced in the 1959 legislature to control trading stamps as a result of a Washington Supreme Court decision.

The measure which called for cash redemption of trading stamps and a $6,000 fee for firms using them, did not get out of committee during the last session.

The opinion had been requested by Rep. Fred Meek (R-Portland).

Babies Can Lose Immunity To Polio When Vaccinated

Copenhagen (Science Service)—Infants protected against polio at birth from antibodies due to their mothers' immunity may lose their protection when given polio vaccine shots, Dr. Gordon Brown, professor of epidemiology of the University of Michigan School of Public Health Ann Arbor, Mich., told the Fifth International Poliomyelitis Conference here.

He said that these studies as well as those of other workers in the field suggest that serious consideration should be given to delaying polio vaccine injection to infants until their passive immunity to the disease has reached a very low level or has disappeared entirely.

No Added Immunity
It has been known for some time that newborn babies are protected for several months from polio through their mothers' immunity, Dr. Brown said. However, recent studies of two to four months old babies showed that most babies who had detectable antibodies, and therefore immunity, before the first injection failed to show any added immunity when given a multiple vaccine against polio.

Jack's On-and-Off Talk To VFW Meeting Now 'On'

Washington—UPI—Sen. John F. Kennedy's off-again on-again talk to the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention was on again today.

He will fly to Detroit to deliver a speech Friday to the veterans group.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, announced that the Democratic presidential candidate also will address the Miami, Fla., convention of another veterans group by telephone from Detroit Friday.

Kennedy had planned to use the telephone to speak to the VFW Tuesday. But that organization turned him down on grounds that such a practice would set a "precedent" for their convention.

Salinger said that officials of the second group, the Amvets, called Kennedy Tuesday and said they would be happy to have the candidate talk to them in Miami by telephone.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential candidate, went to Detroit today to talk to the VFW.

Salinger said that Kennedy talked with VFW officers Tuesday night after the Senate voted a medical care bill.

Kennedy, who took a reverse from the Senate Tuesday, was talking about taking his legislative program directly to the voters in his campaign.

The Senate handed Kennedy a setback Tuesday night by killing 51-44 the proposal he and the party platform supported to provide medical care for the aged under the Social Security program.

Kennedy told newsmen that Congress should go home and let the voters voice their feelings if medical care and minimum wage legislation were to be "hopelessly inadequate."

The Massachusetts senator pushed through the Senate last week a bill to hike the $1 an hour minimum wage by 25 cents. But it appeared likely that Senate-House conferees would lean more toward a 15 cent boost approved by the House.

Kennedy said defeat of the Social Security approach to medical care for the elderly would be an indication that the Senate could not act at the politically charged pre-election session.

The lawmakers, he said, should "put these things over until January—and then do it right. I don't see any sense in cutting these bills down to nothing."

Kennedy declared in a statement after defeat of the Social Security proposal: "This vote demonstrates that if we're going to have effective legislation in this and other fields, we're going to have to have an administration that will provide leadership and a Congress that will act."

Kennedy, meanwhile, let it be known that once Congress adjourned and he began campaigning in earnest, he would live out of a suitcase while playing the political trail almost without stop.
