Farm Leaders Liked at Ike's Quota Request

Washington–(UPI)–House and Senate Democratic farm leaders bristled Wednesday at President Eisenhower's request that Congress cancel the "windfall" sugar quota it granted two months ago to the Dominican Republic.

One clash occurred when Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon appeared before the House Agriculture Committee in support of the legislation which the President asked in a special message to Congress Tuesday.

Dillon argued that if Congress fails to act the United States will be handicapped in its relations in Latin America. He noted that the Organization of American States has found the Rafael Trujillo regime guilty of attempting to assassinate the president of a friendly country, Venezuela.

Tampering

But the Committee Chairman Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., complained of what he called administration tampering with sugar quotas and said it already has boosted sugar prices in the United States to a 40-year high.

He questioned the wisdom of the United States invoking such "economic sanctions" against the Dominican Republic.

Meanwhile, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee, denounced the proposed curb on sugar imports from the Dominican Republic and said the administration policy will "create another Castro dictatorship in the Caribbean."

Fears Bankrupicy

"I urge the Congress to refuse to knuckle down to the bankrupt foreign policy of the Department of State–a policy not only bankrupt of new ideas, but a policy whose apparent objective is to bankrupt the United States," he said in a Senate speech.

Ellender said the Senate Foreign Relations committee should investigate the new policy and find out "who had a hand in it."

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said it was "probably the same group which handed over Cuba to Castro."

Condensation of Planets Supported By New Eidence

Chicago – Science Service) – New evidence has been reported here to support the theory that the earth and other planets were formed by condensation of material once a part of the sun.

Dr. Thomas Gold, head of the astronomy department at Cornell university in Ithaca, N.Y., said the high amounts of lithium on earth compared to the sun suggest that the solar system planets were previously part of a far-flung disk of the sun.

He believes that a careful search of the heavens might reveal a star and its surrounding material in a state corresponding to that before the sun's planets condensed.

Dr. Gold's theory is based on a recent observation by Dr. W. K. Bonsack of California Institute of Technology and Dr. J. L. Greenstein of Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories that certain stars whose brightness varies irregularly are abnormally rich in lithium.

They estimate there is at least ten times as much lithium per ounce of material on the surfaces of these stars as there is in the surrounding material.

Abundance of Lithium

Because of this high abundance of lithium, Drs. Bonsack and Greenstein suggest that these stars must be capable of manufacturing this element, the lightest of all known metallic elements. One such manufacturing process could be through high-energy magnetohydrodynamic processes in the star's atmosphere, resulting from the release of energy residing in the original magnetic field.
