Final Festival Concert Slated This Afternoon

Ashland - The final Oregon Shakespearean festival Sunday concert will be today at 4:30 o'clock at the festival theater. The festival choreographer, Mrs. Amanda Taylor, will present the festival dancers in a program.

The concert is designed to show how many different types of dance may be arranged to Elizabethan music. The program will include "dances-on-the-green" and an Elizabethan suite. Dances-on-the-Green will present "Four Men A-Leaping," "Quaint Device: Trio," "Not Mad, But Merry," "Sarabande for Eight," "Hobson's Choice," and "End Without Tears."

Other numbers are "Allemande Royal," "Courante Sylphide," and "Design for Three Levels," and "Suite for Three Levels," and "Suite Galante et Gaie." A solo number by Festival Dancer Virginia Bowman, "Variation of the Queen's Theme," is on the program.

The festival musicians will be featured in the finale from "The Tempest," "Pavane of the Strange Shapes," and the finale from "The Taming of the Shrew," "Heavenly Music."

Miss Oregon for 1960 had to leave her brother and sisters behind when she left for Portland and Atlantic City to enter the annual Miss America contest, but they constitute a stay-at-home cheering section for their sister, Miss Rosemary Doolen. Pictured here are David Doolen, 12, Rosemary Doolen who will represent this state in the 1960 Miss America pageant, her mother, Mrs. Horace M. Doolen, who will be in Atlantic City with her daughter, her older sister, Sue Donna, and her younger sister, Margaret Alice. The family home is at 612 West Second street.

1960 Miss Oregon is 'Family Girl'

When Miss Oregon left Medford Thursday morning for the beginning of an exciting adventure as a contestant in the annual Miss America pageant, she left behind two sisters and a younger brother who will be eagerly watching and listening for news about their beautiful sister.

Miss Rosemary Doolen may have officially won her title as Miss Salem, but she nevertheless makes her home in Medford and here is where her family and most of her friends are living. Her mother, Mrs. Horace M. Doolen, will leave later to join her daughter in Atlantic City for the excitement and adventure of the Miss America contest and pageant.

Rosemary's sisters are Sue Donna and Margaret, and her brother is 12-year-old David. When she arrived in Portland last week, Miss Oregon began a series of fittings for a fabulous $1,500 wardrobe to be supplied by Meier and Frank company. Selecting the clothing and accessories, and advising Rosemary are Mrs. Edie Wright, bridal consultant for the store and also consultant for the Portland Rose festival princesses and queens each year. Also helping is Miss Karlyn Mattson, Miss Oregon for 1959.

Most important article in the wardrobe is Miss Doolen's "competition gown." These evening gowns are always as fashionable and as luxurious as can be, and Rosemary's gown is being designed for her by Cahill of Portland. The competition gowns are those worn for the final judging, and are always white, fine for Miss Oregon's ash blonde coloring. Two other evening gowns will be in the collection, another white and the third, an electric blue satin, she will wear for the traditional "board walk parade."

A Meier and Frank beauty salon hair stylist will give her a new hair style before she leaves for the East.
