Reader Reactions To My Columns on Heredity

Some eight years ago when, in this column, I began to speak of the tremendous importance of heredity in making us either able and sane and well-adjusted, or good-for-nothing, or psychotic, or unable to adjust well to life with our fellows. I would get many letters, sometimes from prominent people, attacking me violently. Many, who did not know that I had spent most of my life studying neuroses and minor psychoses, and writing text-books on the subject, accused me of ignorance, and told me to stick to something I knew about; others wrote in the vein of "how could you do such a cruel thing as to talk to us of heredity?" Others said, "You doubtless are right in what you say, but you should not say it, because it hurts us so; with our family full of queer ones, we do not want to hear a word about mental troubles."

Interestingly, so far as I can remember, no single physician ever wrote to disagree with me, and only one or two analysts ever wrote to remonstrate. Many of the old-fashioned, pre-Freudian psychiatrists, as well as the modern, scientifically-trained psychiatrists, wrote to say, "Blessings on you; keep it up;" and some of the psychiatrists made me a member of their big association!

What has pleased me much in the last few years has been the stream of letters from mothers who have been so very grateful for my discussion of heredity which they say has rolled away a terrible weight of guilt from their hearts. From time to time I shall publish some of these letters.

Here, for instance, before me is a letter from a woman who says that although her family is one of the most distinguished in the United States, her mother had two feeble-minded sisters and one aunt who committed suicide. The mother early married a good-for-nothing man who soon ran through her fortune. It is the daughter of that couple who now writes me. As she says, she is very fortunate to have escaped unhurt, and to be normal in mind and character. But she married a handsome chap who, she soon discovered, was an alcoholic with a nervous heredity almost as bad as her own. By him she had two sons, one of whom at 17 eloped with a girl, who also had a bad nervous heredity. Their first child had little ability to use his muscles and but little intelligence. He still wets the bed, and often, during the day, he wets his clothes. The second son was brilliant but epileptic.

As the woman now writes, "For years my heart was heavy with guilt. I blamed myself terribly, feeling—as many do today—that the great love I had given my grandsons must have hurt them badly. The psychiatrists whom we consulted broke my daughter's heart by accusing her of having ruined the children by having lavished too much affection on them. These doctors assured us that it did not mean a thing that my son had a poor heredity and my little daughter-in-law had an aunt who was a maniac and a cousin who is a drunkard."

"I am only a laywoman but I used to breed dogs, and so I felt sure that when there is a bad heredity in both parental strains, there should be nervous disease in several of the offspring." As my correspondent went on to say, "Today, thanks to your writings, my old terrible guilt-feelings are gone. They have been wiped away, and a great load has been taken off me. After reading your articles, I no longer blame myself for the way my grandchildren have turned out."

Two Helpful Prayers

Someone, the other day, when she picked up my book, "Live At Peace With Your Nerves," said "Tell me briefly how do YOU live at peace with YOUR nerves?" And I said there is a little prayer once written by Robert Louis Stevenson that sums the problem up very well. It's a prayer which I think thousands of people will find helpful and will want to keep by them for frequent use. "The day returns and brings us the petty round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the man; help up to perform our duties with laughter and kind faces; let cheerfulness abound with industry. Give us to go blithely on our business all this day; bring us to our resting beds weary and content and undishonored, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep."

Another wonderful prayer is that of St. Francis. "Lord, make me an instrument of your peace. Where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy. . . ."

Autopsy Slated In Doctor's Death

Portland—(UPD—An autopsy to determine the cause of death of Dr. Robert A. Coen, 47, of Portland, has been scheduled by the staff of Providence hospital here.

Dr. Coen was killed Monday in a one-car accident in the northeast outskirts of Portland. His death was the 17th of the year in Multnomah county outside Portland.

Dr. Coen's car smashed into a concrete abutment at 122nd ave. on the Banfield freeway. Dr. Coen was pronounced dead on arrival at Providence hospital.

Actress Tierney Returns To Work

Hollywood—(UPD—Gene Tierney, Academy award-winning actress who hasn't performed in eight years, was back at work Tuesday in filmland and loving every minute of it.

"It's wonderful!" said the recently married actress. "I'm interested in seeing major motion picture scripts and I'm open to any and all offers."

Miss Tierney, 40, who underwent psychiatric treatment periodically at the Menninger clinic in Topeka, Kan., is appearing in a half-hour television play that will be shown in November on the General Electric theater.

NO NEWS CONFERENCE

Washington—(UPD—The White House announced Tuesday that President Eisenhower will not hold a news conference this week.

80 Dead, Missing In Japan Typhoon

Tokyo—(UPD—Typhoon Della swirled northward Tuesday, leaving more than 80 persons dead, missing or injured in the swath of destruction it cut across the main Japanese home island of Honshu. The missing included the American skipper-owner of a yacht wrecked in Ise Bay.

Still incomplete reports listed 6 known dead, 27 missing and more than 50 persons injured.

Near Osaka, Japanese rescue workers were racing against time to dig out 25 construction workers buried by a typhoon-triggered landslide.

The missing American was identified as Thomas Jefferson Alford, a civilian radio officer with the U.S. Military Sea Transport Service who listed his home as Maywood, Calif.

MSTS officials in Yokohama said they could not confirm Japanese reports that three or four other Americans were aboard the yacht whose anchor was ripped loose by the storm-lashed seas and wrecked when dashed against the rocks.

Ailing Judge To Return To Bench

Portland—(UPD—Judge Charles W. Redding announced Monday he will return Friday as the presiding judge of Multnomah county circuit courts.

Redding has been out since April 19 for treatment of a heart condition. He is currently in Washington, D.C., attending a national meeting of state trial judges.

Moscow—(UPD—Premier Nikita Khrushchev is planning to leave Thursday night for Helsinki, it was learned Tuesday.
