

Defectors Linked To U2 Flight

Probe Narrowed To Room Where Pair Employed

Washington—UPI—Two turncoat U.S. code clerks, branded as sex deviates, were linked today with an investigation of how the Russians were alerted to the ill-fated U2 flight.

This was certain to be a key topic in two congressional investigations of the defection to Russia of Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin, employees of the top secret national security agency.

Mitchell and Martin, long-time bachelor pals, were said in a published report to have fled to Moscow when a U.S. and NATO investigation of the U2 episode narrowed down to the cryptographic room where they worked.

Tipped on Flights

The New York Mirror said it learned from intelligence sources that the inquiry looked into the possibility that someone told the Russians how to break U.S. codes so they could find out where U2 planes were flying or that someone tipped the Russians on the reconnaissance flights.

A U2 was downed far inside Russia May 1. The pilot, Francis Gary Powers, confessed to spying and was sentenced by a Moscow court to 10 years confinement. Russia used the incident to wreck the Paris summit conference and step up the cold war.

The Mirror said in a dispatch from Washington that Martin and Mitchell complained to a congressman before the May summit conference about U.S. spy flights over Russia. Rep. Wayne L. Hays, (D-Ohio) indicated he probably was the lawmaker involved.

Reports Visit

The newspaper said the congressman reported the visit to the State Department which relayed the story to the U.S.-NATO investigators.

Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) of the House Committee on un-American Activities, which will hold one of the Martin - Mitchell investigations, linked the men with the U2 case last week.

Walter said Thursday Mitchell and Martin were known to their acquaintances as "sex deviates."

for six hours. About 1,000 flights will be canceled or delayed.

Private pilots have been warned to stay out of the air, coast to coast, and from the Mexican border to the Canadian arctic and Alaska.

ADDRESSES SECURITY COUNCIL — Newly-appointed U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, James J. Wadsworth, is shown as he addressed a Security Council session Thursday. Discussing the possibility of serious negotiations on disarmament at the coming session of the General Assembly, Wadsworth said there should be a lot of serious talks and perhaps some ingenious suggestions made. But the Assembly is far too large a forum and the issue is too involved for serious negotiation, he said. (UPI Telephoto)

Airplanes Ordered Grounded for Huge SAC Defense Test

Colorado Springs, Colo. — Fourteen million square miles of sky will be "off limits" to all civilians for six hours tonight and Saturday morning while the Air Force tests its ability to save the continent from a nuclear bomber attack.

The Strategic Air Command will provide the attacking "Sky Shield" — the biggest air defense exercise ever attempted by the North American Air Defense Command.

Norad, and the Army's missile-armed Air Defense Command, both are headquartered here on the edge of the Rocky Mountains, and will be prime targets for the mock enemy.

Norad will order an estimated 2,000 fighter-interceptor missions against SAC attackers. Ground-to-air missile units will simulate firings of such weapons as the Army's Nike against the hundreds of bombers.

The exercise will be as real as Norad can make it, without actually firing weapons or dropping nuclear warheads.

Beginning at 10 p.m. (pst) the nation's commercial airlines will go out of business

Campaign Quotes

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Vice President Richard M. Nixon (views relayed by press secretary Herbert G. Klein, while Nixon remained in a Washington hospital): "We don't regard religion as an issue. The vice president has taken the attitude that the best way to keep it from becoming an issue is for the candidates not to discuss it."

Nixon "doesn't believe a man's religion is any bar to public office. He doesn't believe anyone should endorse him on the basis of the religious issue."

Nixon (letter to Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.): "I wholly support the present tobacco program and if elected president, I will recommend that it be continued without change."

Sen. John F. Kennedy (aboard campaign train in California): "There is no new Republican party and no old Republican party. There is only the same Republican party which, for half a century, has opposed every single progressive measure which has been designed to improve human welfare and reduce human misery."

"This is the party that tried to block the New Deal, that tried to have the Fair Deal and that is trying to keep us from new frontiers. But they have never succeeded in the past and with your help they will not succeed in 1960."

Turncoat Invites Parents To Visit Him in Russia

Eureka, Calif. — UPI — A turncoat U. S. code clerk has invited his parents to visit him in Russia.

The invitation was contained in a cable which Bernon F. Mitchell, 31, Thursday sent to his father, Emery F. Mitchell, 65, attorney.

Mitchell said it was the first message he had had from his son since he and another code clerk, William Martin, Ellensburg, Wash., went to Russia several weeks ago.

Text of the cable: "Dear father, if I have any regrets in leaving the United States and defecting to the Soviet Union, they only concern the resulting harassment and suffering you and mother must be enduring.

Speaks of Courage
"Your refusal to join in the chorus of public condemnation led by the United States administration until you have had a chance to hear from me directly speaks of your faith and courage. No son could ever hope to know a more loyal father. Yet the continuance of such loyalty without an understanding and acceptance of our differences would, I feel, be needlessly painful to both of us.

"Your trust in the United States administration and equal distrust of the Soviet Union is not shared by me. Your honest efforts in the accumulation of a small fortune in common stock all seem to me consistent with your unfailing support of the Republican party.

"My sentiments are expressed in the statement I have prepared to explain our actions.

Extends Invitation
"If these differences in our outlook are understood, then please accept my invitation for you and mother to visit me in the Soviet Union. I shall meet you half way in the cost of the trip. This can be arranged by writing me. Love Bernon."

The elder Mitchell indicated he and his wife would not visit their son. Nor was he decided whether to answer the son's cable. He refused to give the son's address.

"What can we say? What can we do?" the distraught father said.

Welfare Asks Reconsideration

Portland—UPI—The Legislative Interim Committee on Welfare voted Thursday to ask Gov. Mark Hatfield to reconsider his action in ordering the State Public Welfare Commission to move from Portland to Salem.

The vote was unanimous. The committee also asked that Hatfield give more study to information the committee has gathered on costs and effects of the move.

Rep. Ed Benedict, who made the motion asking Hatfield to reconsider, said he believed efficient administration of the public welfare program was more important than a governor's whim. He said the committee should not stand idly by and see the efficiency of the department "scuttled."

Sen. Richard Groener of Milwaukie said the committee had proof the move would cost the taxpayers money.

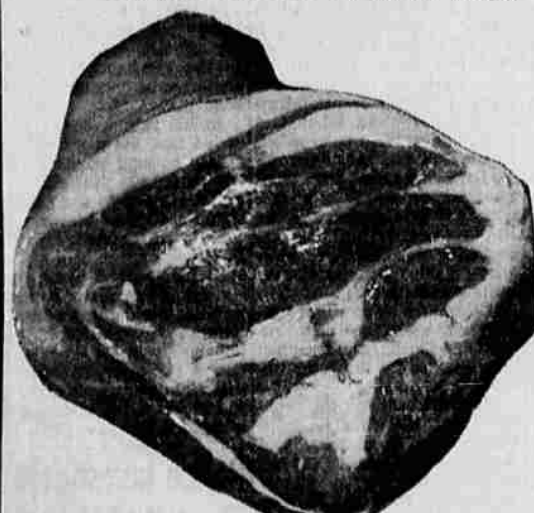

The committee also voted unanimously to recommend that a program be set up to make possible rehabilitation of vocationally-handicapped recipients. It recommended that $75,000 be earmarked for the program.
