

LODGE CONSULTANT—Mrs. Jewel Rogers of Chicago, first Negro woman ever appointed as an assistant U.S. district attorney, has been named by Henry Cabot Lodge as his special consultant on civil rights during his campaign as the GOP vice presidential candidate. Law Assists in Rehabilitation Of Alcoholics

Washington—(Science Service)—Good legal aid can make the therapy and rehabilitation of alcoholics successful, Dr. Ebbe C. Hoff, medical director of the division of alcohol studies and rehabilitation of the Medical College of Virginia, told delegates to the 83rd annual meeting of the American Bar association here.

In a panel discussion on alcoholism, a and alcohol-induced offenses, Dr. Hoff said that more than a decade ago Virginia became the first state legally to recognize alcoholism as a disease rather than a crime. He reported on the success of Virginia's pioneer effort in the rehabilitation of alcoholics under his division, which was established in 1948 by the Virginia Assembly.

The legislation placed the alcoholism rehabilitation program under the state health department and within the setting of a teaching medical center.

Five and a half per cent of the patients accepted for care by the division have been referred from the courts. Most of the court referrals are from the judges of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court. Discussions Beneficial

Discussions and conferences between the judges and the physicians have proved very beneficial, as demonstrated by the remarkably high rate of clinical success in the rehabilitation of court-referred alcoholics. Care is taken to avoid the implication that referral to the division by the court is a substitute for, or an alternative to, sentence.

"The division receives a certain proportion of homeless, chronic court offenders but the plan of long-term rehabilitative care in a clinic setting has not proved a satisfactory method for the 'skid row' personality," Dr. Hoff said.

Therapy begins with a period of hospitalization and a complete medical and psychological examination and diagnosis. A social worker also contributes to the investigation. In talking to the professional staff, the patient is assured of a confidential relationship. Only with his consent are members of the family, Alcoholics Anonymous, and others who may be concerned with his welfare brought into the program plan.

First Spaceman To Land in Ocean

Washington—(Science Service)—In spite of the successful snagging of Discoverer XIV by aircraft, the first U.S. man in space will drop into the ocean.

Discoverer XIV was a project of the Department of Defense, and a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official told Science Service NASA is "interested in their recovery techniques" and "interested in their retro-rockets."

But NASA has no plans, he said, to snag the manned Mercury capsule as it plunges to earth. The big, heavy capsule is "specifically constructed for sea landing."

Discoverer XIV's capsule was the second object the U.S. has successfully returned to earth from orbit. The second capsule was caught by an Air Force cargo plane 8,500 feet above the Pacific. NASA has a manned non-orbital shot planned for the end of this year and manned orbital flight by the end of 1961.
