Small Powers Seeking UN Compromise on Congo Issue

Initial Efforts Produce Little Success Chance

Ceylon Appeals To U. S., Russia

United Nations, N.Y. — (UPI) — The smaller powers worked today to avert a showdown between the United States and Russia over the United Nations Congo effort but their initial efforts brought small promise of success.

Ceylonese Ambassador Sir Claude Corea called for a U.N. committee to seek to reconcile the feuding political factions in the Congo. He appealed to Russia and the United States to scrap their opposing resolutions before the Security Council and get together on a "united approach" to the Congo problem.

But Ambassador James W. Barco, deputy chief of the U.S. mission, told the council: "The United States stands for continuation of the U.N. efforts in the Congo. The representative of the Soviet Union has made it clear that the Soviet Union does not. And that is the issue. 'Paramount Issue'.

"It is something that must be faced. It is a paramount issue on which there can be no compromise if this organization is to survive."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin stood behind the Russian resolution — in effect a no-confidence motion on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and his Congo policy — which called for dismissal of the U.N. command and an end to U.N. "interference" in Congolese internal problems.

"If the United States stands on the platform of the resolutions adopted by this council in July and August," Zorin said, "then the United States should not object to the draft resolution which has been introduced by the Soviet Union."

Barring a successful compromise effort by the smaller powers, Russia seemed bound to veto a U.S. resolution giving full support to Hammarskjöld and calling for an end of direct military aid to the Congo, such as the Soviet Union afforded ousted Premier Patrice Lumumba.

$115,200 Damage Suit Filed Here

A complaint has been filed in circuit court here seeking $115,200 in general damages and $192 in special damages from Robert Lynn Jolliffe, 806 West Main st., as a result of injuries received by Norman Kubli, 832 East Pine st., Central Point, in an automobile accident.

According to the complaint, Kubli's vehicle was northbound on South Riverside ave. when it was hit at the intersection of Ninth st. by a log truck operated by Jolliffe. The accident occurred Sept. 29, 1959.

Kubli is reported to have suffered back injuries in the incident and due to the injuries had to discontinue his job as paving foreman for an asphalt company here.

Embarrassed British Admirals End Search for 'Missing' American Sub

London — (UPI) — Embarrassed British admirals called off a search early today for a "missing" U. S. atomic submarine that had been sighted there under their ships all along.

Everyday Okay

The whale-shaped, 2,700-ton sub Scorpion radiated from "somewhere in the northwest Atlantic" that the ship and everyone aboard were "perfectly okay" — running silent and deep, as they would in wartime, and simulating attack on other vessels engaged in current Atlantic Pact maneuvers.

The U. S. Navy said the Scorpion submerged Thursday on a "deep submergence" drill that was to have lasted until midnight Saturday. No word was expected from the sub during that time.

"It's Scorpion's job to be missing," an American spokesman said.

However, somebody apparently forgot to cut the British navy in on the submarine's plans, although the pact maneuvers were being run by British admirals.

Orders from London late Thursday alerted radio operators on land and sea and in the air to listen for signals from the sub. The British naval radio began broadcasting "Where are you?" queries.

Lt. Cmdr. Norman B. Bessac, skipper of the Scorpion, and the ship's 100-odd officers and men, ghosting along somewhere deep down, weren't listening.

Headlines Shriek 'News' "A 10m Sub Vanishes!" shrieked the headlines here. "Radio SOS for Sub!" American warships which presumably knew approximately where to look for the Scorpion, managed to get in touch with it and learn that "all is well."

Hiker Injured in Fall on Mt. Hood Brought To Safety

Timberline Lodge — (UPI) — A California man who spent the night injured at the 10,000-foot level of Mt. Hood was brought safely off Oregon's tallest peak today by a rescue party.

Ben Cook, an account executive from Los Angeles, suffered a dislocated shoulder, cracked ribs and a sprained ankle. His condition was not considered serious.

Cook and a friend, Bill Leitzel, 29, also of Los Angeles, had climbed the 11,245-foot peak Thursday. They were on their way down when Cook slipped and fell on loose rock about 2:30 p.m. He was carried down the slope in a rock slide.

Leitzel lifted Cook to a rocky shelf, gave first aid, started a fire and then made his way 2 1/2 miles to Timberline lodge for help. He said Cook slid about 50 feet and "some large rocks rolled over him as he fell."

One rescue team reached Cook about 1 a.m. today and a doctor in the group treated his injuries. The doctor decided to wait until daybreak before starting the descent with the injured man. A 10-man group brought Cook here shortly after 8 a.m.

Cook was brought down in a ski patrol rescue sled. The rescue team was made up of six Forest Service men and four from the Mountain Rescue and Safety Council of Oregon, led by Dick Pooley.

The mishap occurred near the lower right hand side of Crater Rock.

Sheriff Checking Lead in Murder

Jackson county sheriff's department today is checking another lead in the murder of Mrs. Marian Stella Hamilton, 40-year-old Ashland rancher's wife, March 15 in her ranch home.

Jackson County Sheriff Joe Walsh and Deputy Lee Rice left by plane this morning for the Fairchild Air Force base at Spokane, Wash., to question an airman as a suspect in the shooting.

The airman was reported arrested Sept. 8 at Moses Lake after being AWOL since November, 1959, the sheriff was told. Questioning by Air Force authorities revealed the airman was in this area when the shooting occurred, and that he is charged with stealing a .22 caliber pistol similar to the one described in the Jackson county sheriff's office bulletin.

According to the bulletin, Mrs. Hamilton was shot by 22 caliber guns. Five of the nine shots fired came from a revolver having a poor cylinder alignment. The other four shots were fired from a pistol with six lands and grooves of equal width with a right hand twist.

Josephine County DA Going To Klamath

Klamath Falls — (UPI) — Max L. McMillin, 42, Josephine county district attorney since November, 1950, will become assistant Klamath County district attorney Oct. 3.

O & C Group Plans Additional Funds For Recreation

The Association of O and C counties has approved a plan which will provide more funds to develop recreational facilities in "controversial" O and C grant timber lands.

Meeting in Portland this week, the association initiated the plan, but did not pinpoint any particular recreation projects. Some under consideration include boat basin at Diamond lake and ski facilities at Mt. Ashland, or Brown mountain, which is west of Lake of the Woods.

"Controversial" O and C grant timber lands are areas over which there was a controversy between the bureau of land management and the forest service concerning administration. The controversy was settled by Congress, which passed a law that they are national forests, but that timber receipts be distributed among the counties on the basis of the O and C formula.

Returned to Counties

Under the O and C formula, 75 per cent of the receipts from timber are returned to the counties from which the timber is sold. Of that 75 per cent, the association has set aside 25 per cent for development of access roads. Some money also is set aside for campsite and picnic site development.

The plan adopted by the association Wednesday for forest service management is similar, and the recreational money being set aside will go for road construction, maintenance, reforestation and research projects.

Darrell Jones, president of the association, who outlined the new program, said the forest service anticipates an increase in earnings from the converted lands to about $1.5 million annually during the next few years.

Jones said that "with additional funds, we can continue our road building program and still have sufficient financing to enter into extensive public recreation development programs."

The association authorized a special committee to work with the forest service to develop specific plans. In addition to the Diamond lake boat basin and ski facilities in southern Oregon, also mentioned as possible projects were access roads to Cascade range lakes, and rehabilitation of Timberline Lodge on Mt. Hood.

Jackson County Commissioners Chester Wendt and Ralph James attended the meeting.

Value of Child Care Agencies Is Noted for UMC

G. R. (Spike) Durham, executive director of the Oregon United Appeal, discussed the value of the appeal's child care agencies to this area at a meeting of about 50 members of the 1960 United Medford Crusade "Over the Top Committee" yesterday.

The committee is under the direction and leadership of the Rogue Valley Life Underwriters association.

Durham, who was in charge of the Salvation Army in Medford some years ago, noted that OUA child care agencies receive part of their support from the United Medford Crusade. Although most of the agencies are located in the Portland area, they serve many children from this area each year, he pointed out.

The orphaned, the homeless or deserted children from throughout the state are cared for by such organizations as Albertina Kerr Homes and Christie school, both of which receive OUA funds.

Children Helped

Durham said an average of 8,000 children each year are helped by the 10 child care agencies included in the Oregon United Appeal. More than 15,500 days of care was provided for Jackson county children last year, he noted.

Hal Gardner, UMC campaign chairman, stressed the need for additional funds this year to meet the inclusion of two new agencies and increased services by other agencies.

He said this year's goal of $147,850 meets only the minimum needs of the agencies.

The campaign will get under way at 8:45 a.m. Monday, Sept. 19, with a kick-off breakfast for all campaign volunteers. The breakfast is being sponsored by the Medford Elks lodge and will be held at the Elks club.

Near-Collision in Berlin Corridor

Berlin — (UPI) — A Soviet jet fighter almost collided today with a Western charter airline transport bound for Communist-harassed West Berlin.

The incident occurred in the Frankfurt-Berlin air corridor. Some of the 36 passengers described it as a "near miss."

The Soviet jet almost hit a British-run Overseas Aviation twin-engine Viking carrying passengers to West Berlin from Innsbruck, Austria. The pilot of the British plane said the jet "buzzed" him.

The incident took place as the jet was making a tight turn to land at the Soviet Union's Zerst airfield astride the air corridor, one of three leading into Berlin from the West.

Reed College Gets $809,923 in Grants

Portland — (UPI) — Reed College said today a total of $809,923 in gifts and grants were recorded for the 1959-60 fiscal year.

The gift sum, the highest in the history of the college, included $592,936 in restricted gifts and $216,987 in unrestricted gifts.

Sports Bulletin

Bob Smith, Portland golf club, won the class AAA championship of the Oregon Senior Golfers Association tournament at the Rogue Valley Country Club today by defeating Roy Hixson, Eugene, 5 and 4.

Khrushchev May Make Move for Private Meeting

May Seek Meetings With Nixon, Kennedy

By K. C. THALER
London — (UPI) — Soviet diplomats hinted today that Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev wants a reconciliation with President Eisenhower. They raised the possibility that Khrushchev will make an indirect approach to set up a private meeting with Eisenhower during the United Nations General Assembly.

This correspondent asked whether Khrushchev now felt he had gone too far in his personal attacks on Eisenhower at the Summit conference in Paris last spring.

"Mr. Khrushchev was very angry at the time," was the reply, implying that the Soviet premier now was ready to take another look at the situation.

There were hints there might be another intriguing aspect of Khrushchev's visit to the United Nations—that he may make overtures for personal meetings with presidential candidates Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Will Avoid Politics

That apparently would depend on whether things go well after he arrives in New York on Monday. In any event, he is expected to avoid any action that could be interpreted as an attempt to influence the course of the U.S. presidential elections this fall.

Meetings with Nixon and Kennedy would have to overcome some obstacles of geography. Khrushchev's movements have been restricted to Manhattan Island by the U.S. State Department. But there appears to be some desire on the part of the Russian to get first-hand impressions of the two men who are running for the presidency.

Recalling that Khrushchev referred to Eisenhower in strong language in Paris ("a thief caught red-handed in his theft"), the question was asked how the overture for a reconciliation would be put to the American president.

"There are various ways in which it could be done," was the reply.

Moves Toward Meeting

The implication was that the Russians were not overly concerned about the method to be used and might even already have worked out the procedure.

The Soviet leader made a significant move when he recently specifically exonerated Eisenhower from responsibility for the U2 plane incident which he used to torpedo the summit conference in Paris.

The President intimated in Washington recently that among the conditions for a meeting would be the release of the two American fliers of the downed RB47 plane, held captive in Russia.

The sources here were non-committal on this point. They merely said there was a strong feeling inside Russia that the Americans should stand trial.

Ashland Youth Accidentally Killed by Gun

Ashland — Phillip Riney, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merwyn Riney, 1530 Oregon st., Ashland, was accidentally shot to death this morning at the home of a friend.

According to Ashland city police Riney, David Brown, and David Weaver met at the Weaver home, 831 Garden Way, en route to junior high school. About 8:40 a.m. the trio went into a bedroom at the Weaver home and examined two rifles and a revolver.

The Weaver boy was holding the 38 calibre revolver when it discharged. The bullet hit Riney in the neck. He died a few minutes later.

Police said that the revolver had been loaded with only the single bullet.

Assisting Ashland police in the investigation is the Jackson county sheriff's office.

Log Truck Ties Up Bridge Traffic

Yreka — A log truck crashed into the side of the Klamath river bridge on Highway 99 north of here Thursday evening, causing traffic to be slowed for nearly two hours. There were no injuries.

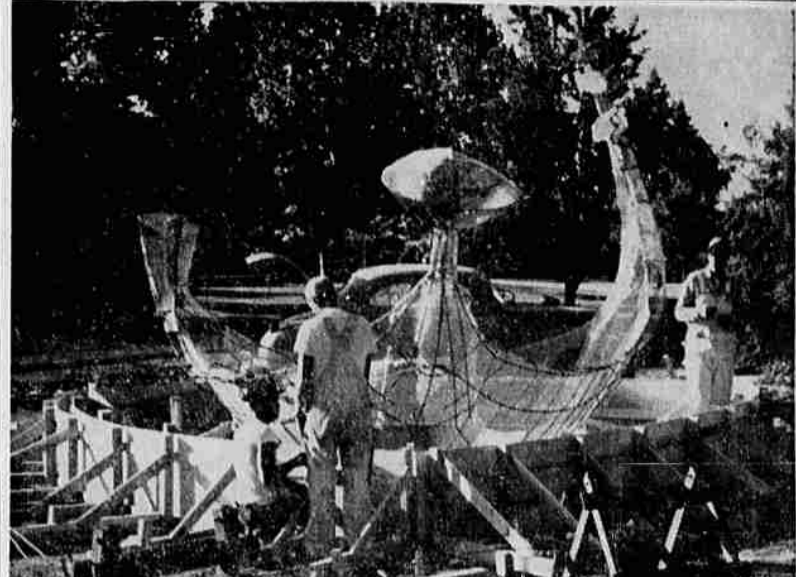

Witnesses to the accident said the truck, operated by Jay Williams, Yreka, was approaching the bridge from the Klamath river rd., about 7 p.m. when the "reach" connecting the truck and trailer snapped, and the truck tumbled over onto the east side of the bridge.

Some 60 feet of railing was knocked down by the impact, according to witnesses, and it took California Highway patrolmen nearly two hours to clear the bridge. Traffic was routed around the wreck. The truck is owned by the B and L Trucking company, Yreka.

Holdover Lightning Fire Reported

A holdover lightning fire broke out above Goolaway gap on West Evans creek late yesterday morning, the state department of forestry reported.

The blaze covered three acres in timber. Seventeen pickup firefighters were on the scene yesterday. A forest patrol crew was mopping up today.

SAND POOL—A "sand pool," one of four concrete play structures being erected in the Hawthorne Park playground area, is shown above as it appeared recently, following completion of the framework but before the first application of concrete surfacing. The "pool," a fanciful structure by Charles H. Forrester, Ashland, a sculptor well-known throughout the Pacific northwest, is designed to stimulate the imagination of children who can play in and around it. Both the surrounding area and the structure itself will contain sand, and bridges and ramps will lead in and out of it. Completion of the structures, which also include a turtle, a horse, and a climbing wall, is expected in the next few weeks. Forrester is doing the work virtually at cost, using funds donated for the purpose by Medford civic organizations.

Eisenhower Passes Medical Checkup With Flying Colors

Washington — (UPI) — President Eisenhower today passed the first of his annual series of medical tests with flying colors.

As the President left Walter Reed Army Medical Center, newsmen were told that the chief executive's health "continues excellent."

A smiling Eisenhower immediately departed for a week end at his Camp David, Md., mountain retreat where he will work on the address he will deliver to the United Nations next week.

The report on Eisenhower's health was given to waiting newsmen by Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, Army surgeon general who supervised the examination.

The President had cardiovascular and respiratory checks during the routine examination and the results, Heaton said, were "well within normal limits."

He said that Eisenhower probably would return to the Army hospital in late November or the first part of December for the remainder of his examination.

Park Operations Being Curtailed

Superintendent Otto M. Brown of Crater Lake National park announced today that park operations are being curtailed for the winter season.

The lodge, cafeteria, store and cabins are now closed, he said, but the "warming hut" is open daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Light refreshments, including sandwiches, hot and cold drinks and ice cream, are available. The warming hut will be open only on week ends and holidays when week day visitation decreases later in the year, he said.

The National Park Service has closed Sinnott Memorial overlook building and the Rim Village exhibit building. The north entrance road, Rim drive and Mazama campground will remain open until closed by winter snow.

Summer construction and maintenance projects are closing down as many seasonal employees return to school. Seasonal park naturalists, all being students and teachers, have left.

The park is open all year with access to Rim Village through the Annie Spring entrance station via Highway 62.

1,594 Citations Issued by Police

Salem, Ore. — (UPI) — Oregon State Police issued 1,594 citations last month for violation of the basic rule. Also tripping up motorists was failure to stop at a stop sign or light. A total of 1,326 citations went out for this violation.

Ninety arrests were made for driving while intoxicated.

Religious Issue Boils; Dr. Peale Quits Group

Washington — (UPI) — Republicans and Democrats indignantly accused one another today of playing on prejudice by deliberately injecting the religious issue into the presidential campaign.

Democratic National Chairman Henry M. Jackson called on GOP presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon to "personally repudiate" those responsible for "carrying on a campaign of religious bigotry."

Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton charged the Democrats were keeping the issue of Demo-

Polaris Missile Hits Target in South Atlantic

Cape Canaveral — (UPI) — An Air Force Atlas missile carrying a new nose cone flew more than 5,000 miles to a target in the South Atlantic today.

The Air Force said the thunderous pre-dawn shot "proved successful" in its test of an all-inertial guidance system—the most advanced set of steering "brains" ever installed in a U.S. rocket.

The Atlas shot followed 12 hours on the heels of another success by the Navy's submarine-launched Polaris ballistic missile. The Atlas is already combat ready, and the Polaris soon will be.

The Air Force said the inertial guidance system makes the missile "completely independent of ground guidance." The guidance system worked on information fed into a computer on board the missile before launching.

A submarine captain's unexpected decision 50 feet below the Atlantic surface Thursday was credited with putting the Polaris several days closer to a war-ready date sometime in October.

The move by Capt. H. E. Shear of the nuclear sub USS Patrick Henry sent the first combat model of the Polaris hurtling 1,150 statute miles to a mid-Atlantic target.

This was a test that had not been expected until next week.

Hatfield Predicts Slight Budget Hike

Lakeview, Ore. — (UPI) — Gov. Mark Hatfield predicted Thursday the budget increase he would recommend to the 1960 Oregon Legislature would be "the smallest in recent history."

Hatfield, on an Eastern Oregon swing in behalf of Republican candidates, said economies in government and an economic upsurge in the state were responsible for his forecast.

In Klamath Falls, Hatfield called for two new future industrial projects for Klamath county, a paper pulp industry and a potato processing plant.

He also criticized the present "archaic" tax system as an obstacle to industrial progress.

Salem — (UPI) — Alexander O'Hara, 87, long-time clothier in Newport, died here Thursday. He was a brother of former state elections director David O'Hara.
