Huge 'Unveiling Ceremony' Will Greet Nikita

Captive European Nations Assembly Planning Poster

By DOC QUIGG

New York – (UPI) – If Nikita S. Khrushchev gets there on time at the opening of the United Nations General Assembly Sept. 20, he may want to glance across the street at a ceremony in his behalf.

For one thing, there will be a three-story-high picture of him, painted especially for the occasion. It will be unveiled at the hour of the session's opening as a part of a poster covering the front of a building maintained by another assembly–the Assembly of Captive European Nations.

In the poster, Mr. K. will be brandishing a whip, and directing the satellite peoples, who will be depicted behind bars, to shout "down with imperialism," and ordering: "get set, go!"

At the other side of the poster will be cartooned the British, French, and Belgians sitting on cages which will be open as a symbol of their having liberated their colonial peoples.

Then, one at a time, to the national anthems of their countries, the flags of the United States, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania will be raised at the top of the building and then those of the nine "captive" countries will be lowered to half staff.

There will be speeches and the reading of a resolution, which the ACEN general committee has approved, condemning Khrushchev for coming to the U.N. session and bringing the Communist chieftains of his satellite nations. Simultaneously there will be protest picketing by various organizations for four blocks along the avenue across form U.N. headquarters.

Those are the present plans. They may think of something better before K. and party anchor or dock somewhere within the vast sprawl of New York harbor, a thing of bays, inlets, estuaries, rivers, and one large green statue dedicated to the proposition that liberty is good.

Once in the harbor, the turbo-electric motorship Baltika and its contests will be under the protection of craft of the U.S. Navy and Coast Guard and the New York City police department, plus goodness knows what floating devices the State Department security bureau is able to shove off in.

Two Accidents Are Reported in Ashland

Ashland – Four out-of-town vehicles were involved in a pair of two-car collisions on East Main st. here Wednesday afternoon. No one was injured and Ashland police reported only minor damage.

First collision occurred about 4 p.m. when a car driven by Theodore D. Easterling, 31, of Myrtle Creek, struck an auto driven by Gertrude M. LaDuke, 63, of Hollywood, Calif., in the rear.

About 4:55 p.m., a car operated by Burnice W. Dawson, 63, of Taft, Calif., sideswiped a parked vehicle owned by Robert J. Kotowich, of San Diego.

There is no such thing as a free lunch. 2. You never go broke taking a profit. I thank you."

Nixon Proposes Bold Program To Cut Farm Surplus

Guthrie Center, Iowa–(UPI)– Vice President Richard M. Nixon today proposed a bold "pay more now" program to cut America's farm surplus to manageable size within four years.

He called his plan of attack on the giant food surplus "Operation Consume" and he promised to spell out the other half of his 1960 farm program, "Operation Safeguard" – to avoid new surpluses – in a South Dakota speech next week.

In today's speech prepared for delivery at this farm center's annual plowing contest, the Republican presidential candidate blamed the farm surplus on "farm politics."

He said farmers have been "getting the short end of the stick" because they simply followed the government pleas for more production after war times ended. The government, he added, should help them out of trouble.

Nixon proposed that to get the surplus "off the back" of both farmers and taxpayers the nation should use them for "constructive works" by providing:

A "sharp intensification of the food for peace program."

Creation of a strategic food reserve, storing food for long periods in useable form for national emergencies such as an "enemy attack."

Payments in kind from existing surpluses in a temporary land conservation and retirement program – in effect using the surplus "to use the surplus."

Conversion Program

An urgent exploration of the conversion of grain to protein foods for distribution at home and abroad.

He said this would convert grain into low cost, bulk canned meat, powdered milk and eggs while giving domestic producers of these products additional income.

Nixon flew west Thursday night after attacking Sen. John F. Kennedy on his exposed southern flank in Roanoke, Va., where he charged the Democratic presidential nominee was running on a "bureaucratic state platform" out of harmony with the nation–and Dixie.

Nixon brought a roar of approval from more than 12,000 persons when he predicted a November GOP sweep in Virginia.

Tides, Rains Slow Cleanup Of Hurricane

Pascagoula, Miss. – (UPI) – Dangerously high tides and heavy rains today slowed cleanup operations along the Gulf Coast where thousands of weary residents began digging out in the wake of Hurricane Ethel.

The second tropical storm to strike the U.S. mainland in a week left widespread property damage, flooded highways and power failures.

Only one fatality was indirectly caused by the storm. Juste Savoie, 68, retired engineer, suffered a fatal heart attack while securing windows at his New Orleans home Thursday.

Warnings Heeded

Still fresh in the minds of many was the 1957 killer—Hurricane Audrey — which claimed 430 lives. This time, some 50,000 coastal dwellers paid heed to Weather Bureau warnings and took shelter in advance of Ethel's 80-mile-an-hour winds.

The storm followed close on the heels of Hurricane Donna, which took more than 140 lives in its rampage through Puerto Rico and up the Eastern Seaboard through New England.

Hurricane Ethel's biggest punch was landed on a 45-mile stretch of Mississippi's coast, a colorful resort area. Electric power was knocked out, trees blown down and houses unroofed at Pascagoula, Biloxi and Gulfport.

Two Men Appear In Circuit Court

Two men appeared in circuit court Wednesday afternoon and were sentenced by Judge Edward C. Kelly.

Russell Bruce Jackson, 37, of route 1, box 180, Talent, pleaded guilty to district attorney's information after waiving the right to a grand jury hearing on a charge of forgery. He was sentenced to 2½ years in the Oregon state penitentiary.

Jack Leroy Vincent, 25, of 509 Austin st., Medford, appeared on two charges. His parole was revoked. He was sentenced on a charge of burglary not in a dwelling to 33 months in the Oregon correctional institute.

Vincent pleaded guilty to a charge of statutory rape and was sentenced to five years in the correctional institute, the sentences to run concurrently.

ASKING FOR TROUBLE

Dallas, Tex. – (UPI) – U.S. Marshal Dick Bagby parked his bright red 1960 sedan bearing the letters "U.S. Marshall" Thursday and left the keys in it. Somebody stole the car.

London – (UPI) – Police arrested Mrs. Marie Louise Clark on her arrival from Switzerland Thursday after 455 watches were found hidden in her corset.

Republicans Happy With Too Little, Kennedy Declares

Reading, Pa. – (UPI) – Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy today barnstormed eastern Pennsylvania with a charge that the Republicans are a "stick in the mud" party "contented with too little" economic expansion for the United States.

Starting out this morning from Harrisburg, Kennedy campaigned by motorcade across the eastern portion of Pennsylvania toward Baltimore, Md., where he has a major speech scheduled for tonight.

Kennedy's first campaign stop of the day was before a crowd of about 4,000 people before the Elks Lodge Hall in Lebanon, Pa.

Kennedy said he did not quarrel with the fact that the Republicans shared his aspirations for a better America.

"My argument with the Republicans is that they have been content with too little–content with an economy that expanded too little," he said.

Greeted Enthusiastically

The Democratic candidate said that failure of the United States to live up to the nation's productive capacity was hurting the American position overseas.

"If the United States is not the great defender of freedom, no other country is," he said.

Kennedy's reception in Lebanon was largely enthusiastic but there were a few boos and a few shouts for Nixon on the edge of the crowd.

After leaving Lebanon, his motorcade proceeded to Reading where, according to a previously prepared text, the candidate criticized the Republicans on their stand on legislation providing medical care for the aged.

He contended that the Republicans were responsible for imposing a pauper's oath on elderly Americans if they want help with their medical expenses from government funds.

He said that in last session of Congress, Democrats wanted older citizens "to receive help in meeting their staggering medical bills without making them take a pauper's oath."

"We wanted them to receive that help because they deserved it; because it was a right they had earned, not charity they were being given," Kennedy added.

He said the Democrats would have based a medical care system on "the pay-as-you-go insurance principles of the social security system" because "old people do not want a handout–they want insurance and they will pay for it as they go."

Rate Suspension Petitions En Route

Portland – (UPI) – Petitions were en route to the Interstate Commerce Commission today asking it to suspend proposed railroad rate reductions on grain shipped to Pacific Northwest ports.

The reduced rates are scheduled to go into effect Sept. 30 unless the ICC suspends them and orders hearings.

Railroad spokesmen have said the reduced rates would save grain farmers $7 million a year.

Petitions were mailed by attorneys for Tidewater-Shaver Barge Lines; Pacific Inland Tariff Bureau, Inc, representing seven truck lines, and the Portland Commission of Public Docks jointly with four Columbia River port commissions.

Portland–(UPI) – A gunman escaped with about $700 in currency and change from the United Finance Co. in Southeast Portland during a daylight holdup Wednesday.

Castro, Guards Warned To Leave Guns at Home

Washington – (UPI) – Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and his guntoting bodyguards have been warned to leave their firearms at home when they come to New York next week for the United Nations General Assembly.

American officials said today they have advised the Cuban Embassy that Castro and his entourage will not be permitted to carry their customary weapons during the bearded Cuban leader's stay in this country.

The State Department already had announced that Castro would be confined to Manhattan Island. He has been placed under the same restrictions as those imposed on Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the Hungarian and Albanian Communist leaders.

Arms Not Permitted

American officials advised the Cuban Embassy to advise Havana that foreigners, bodyguards or not, were not permitted to carry arms in the United States. Assurances have been received that the advice will be taken, the officials said.

The U.S. officials informed the Cubans that the American government, under the U.N. headquarters agreement, was responsible for the safety of Castro and would take every precaution to guard him while he was in New York.

So far as could be learned, a similar warning was not given the Russians regarding Khrushchev's bodyguards. Officials said the Russians know the U.S. law.
