UMC Funds Make Up 30 Per Cent of Clinic's Budget

"It is harder to be a good parent now than it used to be," according to Tom Goff, psychiatric social worker for the Child Guidance clinic.

The community supports a Child Guidance clinic because there are children and families who need the help available. United Medford Crusade funds make up 30 per cent of the budget for the counseling and diagnostic work.

In a mobile nation, most families are without the periphery of relatives and friends that formed a second family wall for our grandparents or parents, Goff said. Since the community cannot supply the personal security it used to, it now finds new ways of helping its citizens, and among these is the Child Guidance clinic.

The average child will change schools five times in the course of his educational career. That means new adjustments and strains, making new friends, meeting new standards, Goff noted. For those who show signs of great unhappiness there should be a place where families can go for help.

Problems Cited
Among the problems that bring the families to the clinic, Goff cited inability of the child to make friends, underachievement at school, withdrawal or rebellion at home.

"The children have less difficulty than their parents in coming about their problems," Goff said. No child becomes a patient of the clinic without his parent's consent, or without the parent's participating in at least the first interview. "We don't give advice,"

Airport Traffic Shows Decrease

Both passenger and aircraft traffic at Medford's municipal airport during August were down from the totals during the same month in 1959, according to Airport Manager Gil Gutjahr's monthly report.

Passenger traffic last month totaled 6,288. This was up from the previous month's total of 5,584 passengers, but below August, 1959's total of 8,099 passengers.

A total of 5,517 airplanes of all kinds landed at or took off from the airport last month. This is compared to the previous month's total of 6,736 flights and the 5,911 flights recorded during August, 1959.

Air freight was also down, as was air express. Some 15,888 pounds of air freight were handled at the airport during August, compared to 37,573 pounds the previous month, and 26,966 pounds during the same month in 1959.

Air express totaled 3,117 pounds last month compared to 3,429 pounds in July and 4,758 pounds in August, 1959. Total revenue received at the airport during August was $3,160, including $522 in landing fees.

Cancer Recheck Is Scheduled Here

A recheck of Jackson county families enrolled in the six-year cancer prevention study of the American Cancer Society will get underway Oct. 1, according to Mrs. Walter G. Garner, Medford, Jackson county cancer drive chairman. Completion is set for Oct. 31.

When the long-range study started a year ago, 933 families and 1,731 individuals in the county were enrolled. They provided confidential information about their health histories and personal living habits to help society researchers determine why some people get cancer and others do not. The questionnaires were sent in sealed envelopes to New York headquarters of the American Cancer Society.

Purpose of the local recheck, which is part of a national program, is to find out how many deaths have occurred among participants of the survey in the intervening months and how many were caused by cancer. A similar recheck will be made each year.

County Youngsters Are Invited to Join CAP

Jackson county boys and girls are invited to join the Medford Civil Air Patrol squadron's cadet training program, according to Lt. John Keener, squadron commander.

The training includes courses in aviation education by Air Force reserve instructors, photography, radio and communications, meteorology, search and rescue procedure, first aid, model airplane building and mechanics.

A new four-week course has been added in basic survival, Keener said. Survival kits will be assembled for storing in the home for emergency use.

The outstanding cadet during the next nine months will receive a flying scholarship. The cadet staff under Cadet Lt. Don Huntemann form their own command with the Civil Air Patrol seniors acting as advisors. Cadets learn military courtesy and drill.

The CAP is the civilian auxiliary of the Air Force. It offers an aviation program designed for air-minded youth. Meetings are held every Monday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the CAP building at the Medford airport. Those wishing further information should call Chief Warrant Officer Mary L. Hall at SPring 3-3505.

Goff said, "but we try to help parents work toward a more satisfactory arrangement for their family."

UMC Supports Clinic

UMC has helped support the clinic since its formation in 1953. Since then, 600 children and their parents, approximately 100 a year, have sought help.

Children can be referred by teachers, doctors, public health nurses, neighbors, but they must come with the parent's consent.

During the last year, the clinic has made plans for expanding its services to take in family counseling. They are now recruiting another case worker to enable them to counsel families where the primary problem is not that of an unhappy child.

"Family counseling will have to wait until we get a new case worker," Goff said, although the clinic has received many requests already.

Library Patron Gives Free Advice

Atlanta — A woman reported she was sitting in the public library when a man, somewhat the worse for whisky, wandered in.

He sat down at a table and began thumbing through birth and death statistics with growing concern.

"Do you know," he blurted to a distinguished looking man sitting beside him, "that every time I breathe someone dies?"

"Very interesting," was the reply. "Why don't you try chewing cloves?"
