

Fidel Castro in Huff... Presents Three-Act Hotel Drama

WRECK FATAL TO TWO—A heavily loaded sand and gravel truck crashed into the side of a gasoline truck five miles southwest of Corvallis Monday afternoon, killing both drivers—one a woman, Ned Walls, 42, Corvallis, was thrown from the

Irate Premier Demands UN Provide Rooms

New York — (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro moved in a huff to "The Waldorf Astoria of Harlem" early today following a brief camp-out in the United Nations building.

Castro stormed out of the Shelburne hotel, his assigned quarters, over what he called the management's "unacceptable cash demands." He said he would sleep in Central Park or the U.N. rose garden if necessary, and led his bearded entourage of 80 directly to the United Nations to protest New York's "inhospitality."

Monday night's fairly incredible string of events was described by U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding as "The Fidel Castro hotel drama in three acts—more a comedy than a tragedy."

CASTRO MOVES—With a thumb-backwards gesture, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro announces his decision to leave Hotel Shelburne during a press conference in the hotel's dining room in New York. Castro alleged "unacceptable cash demands" on him by the Shelburne management and moved into Hotel Theresa in Harlem today. The move was preceded by a conference with Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld at UN headquarters during which the Cuban leader demanded suitable lodging. (UPI Telephoto)

Traffic Crashes in Oregon Account for Five Deaths

By United Press International
At least five persons were killed in Oregon traffic accidents Monday and early today.

Two died in the flaming collision of two trucks; a two-car collision killed two women early today in Portland and a Portland woman was killed in a collision late Monday.

The victims of the two-car crash early today were Thelma Barber, 39, and June Kaulides, 34, both of Portland.

Sheriff's deputies said both women were alone in their cars.

Two accidents Monday claimed three lives.

The victims were Mrs. Myrtle Hoyer, 52, Shedd, and Ned Wells, 41, Corvallis, who died in a flaming two-truck collision five miles south of Corvallis, and Mrs. Helen O. Campbell, 67, Portland, who was killed in a two-car accident just outside the city limits of Portland.

Wells' truck, a gasoline tanker, struck Mrs. Hoyer's fully-loaded sand and gravel dump truck as the second vehicle was pulling from a side road.

The gasoline truck rolled over three times and burst into flames. Wells was thrown from the truck and burned severely but it was not known if he died of injuries suffered in the accident or the fire.

The truck Mrs. Hoyer was driving tipped over and crushed her to death. State police said about a 90-foot area was engulfed in flames.

Mrs. Campbell was pronounced dead on arrival at Gresham General Hospital after a car driven by Mrs. Ruth D. Davis, 52, Portland, was involved in a collision with a vehicle occupied by Reitzel W. Crawford, 30, Portland, and Melvin L. Hollingshead, 53, Eugene.

The other three persons involved in the collision were hospitalized.

The 33-year-old premier, his long-time secretary, Celia Sanchez, and four other aides piled into a car and drove eight blocks to the skyscraper U.N. building, their progress heralded by screaming police sirens.

After consultations with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and other officials, Castro was offered rent-free accommodations at the mid-town Commodore hotel, but he insisted on going to the Hotel Theresa, six miles away in Harlem.

Act I of the "Hotel Drama" began in the Shelburne's Sater room, when Castro sat down to dinner. He said hotel owner Edward Spatz had been "very troublesome" with demands for money "but we have accepted them because there was no other place to go."

Suspected Thief 'Helps' Searcher

Dallas, Tex. — (UPI) — A telephone operator saw a small boy running down the hall at St. Paul's hospital with a wallet in his hand.

Since the hospital had been plagued with petty thefts, she quickly called Art Thomas, the personnel director. He took out after the youngster at full speed.

A few minutes later, he came back empty-handed and asked the operator for a description of the boy.

"He had a bandage on his left arm between the elbow and wrist," she replied.

"Why," Thomas exclaimed, "that's the one that was helping me look for him."

Voters Cautioned On Mail Address

Salem — (UPI) — Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr. cautioned voters today to be sure that the mailing address they put on their voter registration card is the one where mail is actually received.

He said in some cases Voter's Pamphlets may not get to the voter because he fails to designate the proper mailing address when registering.

Appling said such a case has developed in past years in Manzanita, where voters receive mail through the Nalem post office.

Registration cards have space for both residence and mailing addresses.

Campaign Quotes

By United Press International
Vice President Richard M. Nixon:

(In Scranton, Pa.): "The administration's aid to distressed areas bill provided far more real help to the areas which needed it than the somewhat larger Democratic bill which was passed deliberately to provoke a presidential veto."

"The Democratic leaders' two-to-one majorities were more interesting in seeking a political issue than in providing the assistance so badly needed by the depressed areas."

"They were straight pork barrel. It spread more dollars so widely — into place after place that did not need this sort of help — that places like Scranton, where help is critically needed, were left begging."

"They used shotgun politics instead of the rifle of national interest. No responsible president could have approved it."

Reporting on the appraisal of his campaign he gave to President Eisenhower: He is "encouraged by the size of our crowd, the enthusiasm — I thought it was moving well."

Sen. John F. Kennedy:
(In Charleston, W. Va.): "The Republican party which Mr. Nixon leads today is the same Republican party which for half a century has opposed every single progressive measure which the Democrats have designed to improve human welfare and reduce human misery..."

"I have come... to commit our party once again to the policy of full employment... and I will send to Congress specific programs to carry it out."

"First, we will develop great public resources to make it possible for private enterprise to grow and prosper..."

"Second, we will stimulate private investment in a growing American by eliminating artificial, Republican restrictions on the supply of money..."

"Third, we will permit every American child to receive the kind of education which will provide the skills and creativity which a growing America desperately needs..."

"Fourth, we must move immediately to meet the growing crisis of automation — the replacement of men by machines..."

"Fifth, we must give special assistance to help hard-hit areas catch up..."

"We need to offer a richer and more varied diet to those forced to live on surplus foods."

Morse Says U.S. Will Again Show Peace Desire

Washington — (UPI) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) said Monday that the American delegation to the United Nations General Assembly will "demonstrate again to the world that the U.S. seeks a peace program and is ready to implement it."

He said the United States would have to make its program very clear "as Khrushchev and others present their propaganda."

The senator just returned from the Bogota economic-social conference of the American Republics. He described the meeting as "the most successful economic conference for Latin America in which the United States has ever participated."

For the first time, he said, America was "not on the defensive" in dealing with its Latin American neighbors, because it had a positive program to offer.

He said that as a result, the conference came to grips for the first time with the basic problem of land reforms and education.

Havana, Castro's brother, Raul, and the government-controlled press praised the way he had handled U.S. "insults" in New York.

And early today Castro was resting in a ninth floor suite at the Theresa. The curtain had fallen on his "Hotel Drama"—at least for the moment.

Two Accidents Are Reported To Police

Henry H. Orr, 53, Seattle, Wash., was reported in fair condition today at Rogue Valley hospital following a one-car accident yesterday between Phoenix and Talent.

Orr is being treated for head and chest injuries, a hospital attendant reported.

Orr's car was southbound on Highway 99 when it left the shoulder for 100 feet, went over a 10-foot bank and hit a pear tree, state police said.

Orr was taken to the hospital by the Medford Ambulance Service.

State police said they had received a call shortly before the accident occurred in which someone described the Orr car and reported that it was being driven erratically. Evidence showed the car was in the northbound lane before going off into the orchard, state police said.

Cars driven by Harry Clarence Teorey, 65, of 2905 Larch ave., Medford, and Alfred Baker, 33, of 3761 Highway 99 south, Medford, collided as the Teorey car was turning left into the Royal Oaks trailer court three miles south of Medford, state police said. Minor damage resulted to both cars. No injuries were reported.

Colton, Wash. — (UPI) — Ernest Burnett, Salem, Ore., has been elected president of the Western Steam Fitters Association.

Stocks Steady After Trouncing on Monday

New York — (UPI) — Stocks steadied early today following Monday's second worst trouncing since the 1929 crash.

The list displayed an ability to pick up the pieces after a fairly shaky start today and by the end of the first hour plus signs were beginning to show in many of the hardest hit columns.

Uncertainties growing out of the gathering of top Communists for the United Nations forum this week were blamed by technicians for the sharpest sell-off Monday since Sept. 26, 1955. That one followed President Eisenhower's heart attack and was the biggest break since the stock market crash of 1929.

Mann's Host To Ft. Jones Women

Mann's fashion fabric department played host today to 45 women from Ft. Jones, Calif., who are members of an adult education class of the College of the Siskiyous, Yreka, Calif.

The women met with Miss Gale Brittin, west coast education director of The Vogue Pattern company, brought here by Mann's to work with the class. Miss Brittin spoke about fabrics and the latest trends in women's fashions, and offered advice on sewing problems.

This is the fourth year that the sewing group has come from Ft. Jones to visit the Medford store. This year's group was headed by Mrs. Ray Luce.
