Sen John F. Kennedy:
(Unveiling his farm program at national plowing contest near Sioux Falls, S.D.):
The program would strive to give a "full parity of income" by assuring farmers a return on their invested capital, labor and management "equal to which similar, or comparable, resources earn in non-farming employment."

"A basic instrument of assuring parity of income will be supply management control — including the use of marketing quotas, land retirement with product diversion and other devices."

The plan is aimed at doing something about farmers' net income, "the only figure which is meaningful in determining his standard of living, particularly in this age of the cost-price squeeze."

(At Billings, Mont.): "In the face of a growing water shortage, a growing demand for power and a growing threat from Soviet competition, the Republican party has virtually ground to a halt the development of our great national assets."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon:
(In Rockford, Ill.): "Contrary to the impression left by my opponent's remarks at times, I do not find America one vast depressed area. Neither would he, if he looked for national strength rather than being obsessed with finding national weaknesses."

Democratic complaints of a lagging U.S. economy "seem to be part and parcel of their strategy of talking down America's strength in every field."

The secret of spurring economic growth is "to accent the traditional strength of our free economy — initiative and investment, productivity and efficiency — not leaders who merely emphasize expanding government activity all along the line together with artificially easy credit."

Kennedy showed a "remarkable 'do it with mirrors' philosophy" by saying a higher rate of economic growth in the past eight years would have brought the average family an extra $7,000.

(At Sullivan, Ill., buffalo barbecue): "Mr. Khrushchev is not going to catch us economically in seven years as he has indicated. He isn't going to catch us in 70 years."

Early Selling Sends Stock Prices Lower

New York — (UPI) — Stocks were hit by early selling today that drove prices lower along a broad front.

Selling spread from the steels where losses ran to well over a point in Youngstown and around a half in Republic, to most other sections of the list.

HOPE TO SEE 'K'—Followed by Sol Cury, a friend and adviser, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers, parents of Francis Gary Powers, the American U2 pilot convicted in Moscow of spying, arrive in New York. Powers said they hoped to see Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the Russian UN Mission headquarters to ask him to release their son. (UPI Telephoto)

U2 Pilot Planning To Return To States

Moscow — (UPI) — U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers has written to an American newspaper saying he will return to the United States when he is freed from Soviet Custody, Pravda said today.

The Communist party newspaper carried what it said was the text of a letter to the New York Times in which the imprisoned American said he wanted to clear up a "misunderstanding" about whether he was shot down by a Soviet rocket.

On Wednesday, Pravda criticized Powers' father, Oliver, of Norton, Va., for allegedly saying his son told him the U2 was not shot down by a Soviet rocket.

"Obviously, my father did not understand my answers during my trial," the letter said. "I should like to clear up this misunderstanding and say that although I did not see what caused the explosion, I am sure that the plane did not blow up by itself."

In New York, Sol Cury, a spokesman for Oliver Powers, said the pilot's father did not attribute such a statement to his son but merely said that from the trial testimony he did not believe the plane had been shot down.

Cury said the elder Powers would not comment on today's statement. "He wants to see (Nikita) Khrushchev to ask him to release Francis," he said. "He certainly doesn't want to stir this up."

Real Estate Men To Attend Meeting

Eight Medford real estate brokers and sales personnel will attend the 26th annual convention and educational conference of the Oregon Association of Real Estate Boards in Eugene Sept. 26 to 28.

Also attending from Medford will be Otto J. Fronh-mayer, lawyer, who will serve as a member of the educational panel "Legal Problems" to be held Wednesday.

Other panel members will be Theodore B. Jensen, moderator, Portland, legal counsel to Oregon Association of Real Estate Boards; Miss Shirley Field, Portland, member of the Oregon state legislature; Donald R. Husband, Eugene, Oregon state senator, all lawyers and Douglas Melver, Portland, Commerce Investment company, representing mortgage bankers.

Medford delegates include William Fronh-mayer, president of Medford Realty Board; Mrs. Mary Fasel, Women's Council of Realtors; Mrs. Mary Maass, Medford Multiple Listing Service; Keith Bates, Cap Vandagriff, Miss Ann Rice, Ted Conway and Fred Walker.

Two-Year-Old Bitten by Dog

A 2-year-old boy was bitten on the back of the head by a German Shepherd dog Tuesday and police told the owner of the dog that it would have to be removed from "that area."

Bitten was Russell Blake Roy, son of Mrs. Martha Ann Roy, 128 Tripp st. Police who inspected the wound said the skin on the boy's head was punctured in three places and a stitch was required to close one of the wounds. Russell was treated by a doctor.

It was the second complaint in a week that police received of the same dog biting small children on the back of the head. On Sept. 14, a 20-month-old child was bitten.

The owner of the dog, Edward Porter Foulon, 132 Tripp st., was informed by police that "the dog must be dealt with and taken from that area." Foulon confined the dog to determine if it could possibly have rabies, police said.

Nixon Unveils Second Part of Farm Program

Sioux Falls, S.D. — (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon today unveiled Operation Safeguard, the second part of his farm program—a six-point plan proposing a gradual revision of government price support operations.

The Republican presidential nominee outlined the plan in a speech prepared for delivery at the National Plowing Contest.

The vice president, who presented plans last week for disposing of present farm surpluses, aimed today at preventing the accumulation of new surpluses.

Stresses Soil Bank
Nixon's proposals put heavy stress on soil-bank rentals to retire farm lands from production. He said, however, that temporary cutbacks in planting allotments for some price supported crops might have to be voted by Congress under the plan.

In his speech, the vice president did not deal specifically with the vital issue of price support levels.

In what appeared to be an indirect criticism of agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson, Nixon said the present congressional deadlock on farm legislation is partly due to "insistence . . . that we move toward normal conditions at a speed and by a means that would have failed adequately to protect farmer income."

Problem Takes Time
Nixon told the farm audience that "we cannot go from where we are to where we want to go in a single step." A transitional period must intervene, he said, before farmers can freely decide what to plant and then sell it "in the normal markets of trade and not to the government."

During that period, while current surpluses are being reduced by the surplus disposal plans he proposed last week, "it may be necessary to legislate a temporary cut-back in acreage allotments of any price supported crop so heavily in surplus as to bring injury to that crop," Nixon said.

GOOD QUESTION, SON
Fort Worth, Tex. — (UPI) — Roy Bateman, city secretary, got a letter from a Denton, Tex., schoolboy Thursday asking for all information "about the way the city government runs" and "just who the main runner is."
