THE NEUTRALIST INTERVENTION

The intervention of the five neutrals, which was made last Friday, has for its object the renewal of diplomatic contact, now broken, between the U. S. S. R. and the U. S. A. As a means of accomplishing this, the neutrals ask "as a first urgent step" the renewal of contact between Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Khrushchev. This has been interpreted as meaning personal contact, a face-to-face reconciliation between the two men, and some remarks of Mr. Nkrumah support this interpretation.

But the draft resolution offered by the five neutrals is carefully worded. It does not specifically call for personal contact. Its purpose would be realized if official diplomatic contact were restored, and to this the President in his statement on Sunday agreed.

The door is, therefore, open unless Mr. K. slams it shut and locks and bolts it.

THE neutrals will be wiser it seems to me, not to emphasize, not to press too hard for, a personal meeting.

Both men have been humiliated, Khrushchev by the avowal that we had some kind of right to fly over his territory, Mr. Eisenhower by the insults heaped upon him. Both men are angry. They cannot be expected to meet and talk away their quarrel and shake hands. Nothing can be done with this quarrel except to outlive it.

What can be done, however, is to restore diplomatic contact at lower levels. Even this cannot be done quickly because Mr. Gromyko and Mr. Herter dare not forget or forgive the quarrel of their chiefs.

THE U. N. is faced with the question of whether the Eisenhower-Khrushchev quarrel will be prolonged into the next administration. It may be. We cannot be sure that Mr. K. is not on a new line-one of intransigent cold war. It is also possible that the candidates may talk themselves into a box where they are in honor bound to continue the feud - to show how brilliantly they can stand up to Mr. K. by making it impossible to sit down with him.

If so, the prospect is dark. An irreparable break which split the world, which broke the United Nations, might not lead to war, but it would surely lead to widespread disorder and violence in all the continents and to a condition of profound and universal uneasiness. It is the duty of the nations which are not directly involved in the feud to bring about diplomatic contacts. They will probably not lead to any quick results. But they may make it possible to continue diplomatic intercourse after the personal feud has receded into the past. This may not be easy to do. But the U. N. should not grow weary of trying and it should not walk away from this, the central problem of the world.

For the future will be intolerable for all mankind if the two greatest powers are not even on speaking terms.
