

Free Tuberculosis Testing Scheduled

Happy Camp—The Siskiyou County Tuberculosis and Health association are offering a free tuberculin skin testing program at the elementary and high schools Oct. 24.

Consent slips have been sent home to the parents of all school children and they must be returned to the school by Oct. 22. According to Herb Sonneborn, principal of the elementary school, parents are urged to let their children take advantage of the test which is being offered here for the first time.

Dr. Cabot Brown, chest specialist from San Francisco, will do the testing. The project is financed through the Siskiyou County Tuberculosis association from funds obtained through the sale of Christmas seals.

The tuberculin test differs from the chest x-ray in that the test will show if a tuberculosis infection has ever been present while the x-ray only shows actual disease in the lungs.

It takes only a few seconds to give the test and there will be no scar left. After an injection is given, the test will be ready to read two days later by the doctor. Parents will be notified of test results. If the test is positive the child will have a free chest x-ray and all members of the household will be checked.

The Sawyers Bar, Forks of Salmon and Junction schools are offering the same program on Oct. 25.

Longtime Resident Of Gold Hill Dies

Gold Hill — Mrs. Mary I. Helms, member of a pioneer family here, was buried in Rock Point cemetery, Sept. 30. She was 93 at the time of her death.

Her husband, the late A. D. Helms, was one of Jackson county's first orchardists. The Helm orchard was located in the area of the present site of the Emigrant dam in the foothills of the Green Springs and Siskiyou Mountains, south of Ashland. Apples from this orchard became famous when Helms took some with him to Europe to a World Fair. Members of the family said some of the original apple trees are still standing near the Emigrant dam.

Mrs. Helms spent her childhood in the Foothills Creek vicinity after coming here from her birthplace, Weaverville, Calif. with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lance Sr. Her father was an early miner and participated in the California gold rush.

Prior to her death, Mrs. Helms resided several years in Los Angeles, Calif. She is survived by one son, Addison Helms and his three daughters, Vicki, Kathleen, and Janice, all of Los Angeles; two nephews, Carl Hull, San Mateo, Calif., and Floyd Lance, Gold Hill and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Ella Gaunway Lance, Medford.

She was preceded in death by a son, Donald Helms, a sister, Mrs. Mildred Hull, and two brothers, George Lance Jr. and Marion Lance.

Seasons explained that for a fee of $35 they furnish the food and packs for the trip. These planned trips are partly recreational and partly educational. During the trip to the Three Sisters they studied geology and also had some pioneer training.

Seasons also explained they are prepared to take eight boys apiece or a total of sixteen boys per trip. However, if more than sixteen boys apply, they are prepared to furnish additional leaders.

In the past they have taken only boys from the Canyonville, Myrtle Creek, and Riddle areas. They hope to have boys from a wider area next year. Casebeer is an English teacher in the Riddle school.

Disposal Aid Near Approval

Eagle Point — An application has tentatively been approved for a federal grant to aid in defraying construction costs in the Eagle Point sewage lagoon disposal plant, according to a letter received by the Eagle Point Council read at their regular council meeting Tuesday.

This federal grant was approved for $11,000 by the H.H.F.A. According to Kenneth Speis, Oregon state sanitary authority, this decision was based on a study of increased sanitation needs due largely to increased population since 1942. Potential public health problems and sanitation needs which have developed and increased, will be needed by 1990 with the estimated increase of population to 1300. The Oregon board of health and the state sanitation authority both approved the report and stated that this was a positive step toward the solution of the problem.

Mayor Ed Putman announced that Clark and Groff Engineers would be surveying the lagoon in a couple of weeks and would survey the entire 53 acres at an estimated cost of $100.

In other council action, Bill Hunting and Ernie Gregg were asked to serve on a committee with Gregg Hornecker and Oran Chastain to help revise part of the city's ordinances. Leland Meyer, Oran Chastain, Ed Putman, and Don McGovern were appointed to meet with the Central Point Rural Fire department on the telephone answering phase of the fire alarm system.
