International Paper's 3-for-1 stock split was greeted with a gust of buying that pushed the stock up well over 4 points.

Steels firmed in response to the slight improvement in steel production expected this week. U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic picked up small fractions.

MORSE ADDRESSES UN—Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) is shown as he addresses the United Nations General Assembly Monday. In his unscheduled surprise speech Morse said that he has long advocated "an affirmative program with respect to the Communist government of China instead of trying to stand pat with a negative program of flat opposition to its admittance." Morse, Fulbright Urge Reshaping of Red China Policy

Washington - (UPI) - Two Senate Democrats have urged a reshaping of America's strong policy against the admission of Red China to the United Nations.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) said Monday that it was inevitable Red China would gain a seat in the world organization.

Both indicated they thought the United States should now try to gain world support for imposing certain conditions of UN membership on the Peiping regime.

Settlement on List High on the list would be a general China settlement, some agreement toward the eventual reunification of Korea and an assurance the Chinese Reds would become more law-abiding.

The two senators outlined their views in separate but similar statements.

Fulbright told a news conference that "the trend is clear" - Red China would be admitted to the United Nations and it was only a matter of time.

"I don't know how we can prevent it," he said.

Morse said it was unlikely the United States could muster a majority against Red China the next time the issue came to a vote in the UN General Assembly. He said this country could no longer "stand pat with a negative program of flat opposition."

Negotiating Mood Doubled Fulbright said he doubted whether the Communist Chinese were "in a negotiating mood" but the United States should try anyway to bring about some settlement of Far East differences. He suggested this could well become a condition for Red China's UN entry.

The UN General Assembly agreed last Saturday to postpone the question of Red China's admission for another

Kennedy Wants Fifth Debate

New York - (UPI) - Sen. John F. Kennedy, convinced he has been helped by the television series, today accepted the offer of two networks for a fifth campaign TV debate with Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

In New York for a three-day stay, the Democratic presidential nominee voiced hope that his opponent "will join in this proposal." The third Nixon-Kennedy TV encounter takes place Thursday night. The Kennedy camp wants to see a final program staged a few days before the Nov. 8 election.

"In a political campaign of such importance as this one," the senator said, "I do not believe we should permit the last 18 days of the campaign to go by without one further face-to-face exchange between the two candidates."

Democratic leaders fear that after the current debate series ends on Oct. 21 the Nixon camp will launch a TV campaign "blitz" which the Kennedy forces could not match for lack of funds.

FRENCH HORSE PICKED Paris - (UPI) - Hautain, second-place finisher in Sunday's Arc de Triomphe race, will represent France in the Washington, D.C. International at Laurel Nov. 11.

WILL HONOR CHAMPS Mexico City - (UPI) - Ex-heavyweight champions Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis will be guests of honor on the opening night card of a new promotion organization at Tijuana, Oct. 30.

Surgeons Receive Cancer Reports

San Francisco - (UPI) - The clinical Congress of the American College of Surgeons received reports today giving support to a belief among many scientists that some cancers may be caused by viruses.

Nobel Prize winner Dr. Wendell M. Stanley, of the University of California at Berkeley, asserted flatly Monday night that viruses can cause cancer in animals, and that this is "directly pertinent to the human cancer problem."

Not all physicians are so sure, but Dr. James T. Grace and a team from Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., reported on experiments that appeared to strengthen Stanley's position.

Truman Moves Into Texas To Plug For Kennedy; Blasts Religious Issue

Johnson City, Tex. - (UPI) - Former President Harry Truman moved today into an area with a heavy Baptist population and promised to be blunt with them about the religious issue in the presidential race.

Truman, a Baptist campaigning for the election of a Roman Catholic, in earlier statements had asked voters to disregard the religion of candidates in choosing their next president.

Key Problem One of the key problems facing Truman in his two-day Texas tour is to try to derail a "Democrats for Nixon" movement led by former Gov. Allan Shivers, who bolted the party for the third straight time.

He didn't mince words at a $50-a-plate fund raising dinner in San Antonio Monday night.

"If you vote for Nixon, you ought to go to hell," he said. Truman spent the night in San Antonio. He took his customary early morning walk along the banks of the San Antonio river to the Alamo. He later took part in ground-breaking ceremonies for Harry S. Truman Junior High school on the west side of San Antonio.

He was to meet with House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas at Johnson City before leaving in late afternoon for Waco, in central Texas, and a night speech at a dinner. Voters in the Waco region have been concerned with the fact that Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic standard bearer, is a Roman Catholic.

Truman said he planned to "talk turkey" at tonight's rally.

"When I go over to Waco to talk to the Baptists about what they are supposed to do in this election, they can't do a thing to me," he said. "I have been a Baptist more than 60 years."

Scorches Administration Truman soundly scorched the Eisenhower administration for "blocking all forms of progress" and said Vice President Richard Nixon is "cut from the same cloth."

He said Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's conduct at the United Nations only bears out an opinion he has had of the Russian boss for years.

"I never did like him," Truman said. "Nobody with any background would act like that."

Mormon Leader Endorses Nixon

Salt Lake City - (UPI) - Vice President Richard M. Nixon turned toward the Far West today for campaign appearances in New Mexico and California with the firm, public endorsement of one of the nation's ranking religious leaders.

David O. McKay, 87, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, a denomination with an estimated 1,616,000 members, told Nixon shortly after his arrival here Monday that he hoped he wins the election.

This was an unusual gesture on the part of the venerated head of the church and his endorsement was expected to have an appreciable impact on the vote in Utah where Democratic leaders had been quite hopeful of carrying the state until President McKay spoke out.

Nixon left Salt Lake City this morning for Albuquerque, N.M. In contrast to the noisy reception he received here Monday, only about 21 persons were on hand to see him depart. From Albuquerque, he will go to San Diego, and wind up tonight in Los Angeles.

How do we tell the world about Oregon?
(and why should we?)

"How is Oregon to live in?" "Isn't it cold and rainy all the time?" "Is there anything to do except hunt and fish?" "Aren't you sort of isolated up there?"
Every day, questions like these are tossed at the State of Oregon's Department of Planning and Development. Mostly, they come from tourists and potential residents. But an alarming number of them come from Eastern industrialists looking for new plant sites. And business executives looking for new branch offices. (Even more significant are the questions we don't hear. What do you suppose the rest of the people think about our fair state?)
How do we tell them the true story? How do you tell a New Yorker about our healthful, zesty climate - a man who's known only freezing winters and sticky summers? How do you tell a Bostonian about Western hospitality and all-year recreational "elbow-room"? How do you convince a Detroit industrialist - in one breath - that Oregon has unlimited power, skilled labor, vast and varied raw materials, a top-flight educational system, and modern transportation and communications ideally suited for commerce and industry?
And why should we? Why should we care if in the next decade Oregon doesn't stand out as a first-class state? The answer is basic dollars and sense. We need new industry. We need tourists. We're bursting with potential. Every increase in our present economy - every new industry - every incoming family - means more payroll, more job security, and a steadily increasing standard of living for all of us.
What can you do? Plenty! Turn State's witness. Be a one-man Chamber of Commerce. Make yourself insufferable with your Eastern friends. Be a "Texan." (You've certainly got more to shout about.) Tell the next Californian you see about our lakes and seashores and art galleries and towering forests and the buoyant, clear air. Stop Chicagoans on the street and point out Mt. Hood. States don't "just grow." It takes doing. Every one of us is responsible for the economic growth of Oregon.
What's in it for Pacific Telephone/Northwest? We're part of the team of private industry that believes in the growth of Oregon. Year-in and year-out - like Old Man River in reverse - we pour 22 million new-construction dollars into Oregon. We're second only to Georgia-Pacific in the total employees. We're first in total capital investment - over 260 million dollars! Our future is invested in Oregon, too. With your help, we can see the day when the rest of the world will be telling each other about Oregon. Let's help them!
Let's tell the world about Oregon!
