Pharmacy Phacts

From GENE WESTLAND

Have you been wondering about the cost of your prescriptions? Well, back in 1940 the average prescription cost $1.11 while today's average prescription costs $3.08. Quite a jump, isn't it? But let's look at the other side of the picture. Back in 1940 it took 1 hour and 45 minutes for the average person to earn the $1.11, whereas today it takes the average person only 1 hour and 27 minutes to earn the present average cost.

Another very important thing to consider is the fact that today's prescription at today's price brings you health-giving or health-maintaining drugs that even millions could not buy in 1940. Good health is priceless, and we're here to help you keep it!

McLain's Drugs, down here at 8 North Central, is a friendly place where your health and needs are of real importance to us. You can call us at SP 2-7113 for free delivery of your prescription, or come in at any time because we're always glad to see you.—adv.

Board Approves Short's Plan For New Director

Salem—The State Board of Agriculture at its Sept. 27 meeting approved the recommendation of Agriculture Department Director J. F. Short that an assistant director be appointed.

The assistant would supervise the division of veterinary services and the division of animal industry. This move is an outcome of realignments Short made in the department's livestock activities last June and objections raised by the Oregon Cattlemen's association. At that time spokesmen for the cattlemen agreed to Short's suggestion for lay supervision of the state veterinarian by an assistant director if this met approval of the state board of agriculture. In selection of the new assistant, emphasis will be placed on administrative ability, Short told the board.

Plans Still Forming
Short reported his further department reorganization plans are still in the formative state but he hopes to present them "in a package" at the Dec. 1 meeting of the board.

Other business covered in the meeting included reports from division chiefs; discussion on advisability of a uniform policy with respect to advisory committees serving the department in a single field, as brucellosis. At present, some of these advisory units have official status and are appointed by the governor as required by law and receive a per diem. Others serve on a purely voluntary basis and without remuneration of any kind.

The day before the board meeting, Short was accorded a vote of confidence for the manner in which he has handled the animal activities reorganization within the department. This came on suggestion of Dewey Blann, Mitchell cattleman, at a meeting of 60 beef dairy, veterinary and department leaders.

Cattlemen reiterated their stand for lay supervision of veterinary services. They received assurance that the state veterinary association has no plans for legislation in 1961.

Rowell Sends Pears and Nuts

Salem—Nuts to the Ohio state department of agriculture were the orders of Paul T. Rowell of the Oregon Department of Agriculture who this week asked 125 samples be sent to the Ohio department.

Agriculture departments in Oregon, Washington and California received invitations from the Bureau of Markets in Ohio to send some of the best products from the respective states. Rowell arranged with the Oregon Filbert commission to send 125 sample packets of shelled filberts and recipe folders; 125 samples of Cheating Fescue and Creeping Red Fescue; from the Oregon-Washington-California Pear bureau, two boxes of pears, D'Anjou or Bartlett.

Products will be displayed at the National Association of Marketing Officials meeting Oct. 9-12 which Rowell will attend as Chief of the Division of Market Development in the Oregon Department of Agriculture.

As chairman of the NAMO committee on marketing services and promotion of agricultural products, Rowell will report on his committee's survey of proposals for new or revised marketing promotional legislation by 1961 state legislatures, and of such functions activated this year in each state under existing legislative authority.

HURT BY EXPLOSION—An explosion of illuminating gas touched off as Ricky DiLanzo, 20, lit a cigarette in his parked car, scorching his face, hands, destroyed the car and damaged the front of his house in Glenside, Pa. The car, parked at a sewer line, led fire officials to believe that gas had leaked into the sewer, then flowed out of the culvert and collected in DiLanzo's car. At left DiLanzo is shown at home with his wife, Iona, after hospital treatment. (UPI Telephoto)

Cattle Disease Control Program Set by Ag. Dept.

Salem—Dr. L. E. Bodenweiser, state veterinarian, has announced that the state department of agriculture is giving "positive attention" to the cattle disease Leptospirosis.

"The department," says Dr. Bodenweiser, "has recognized this is a growing disease problem and has now started on a screening test of all blood samples submitted to the laboratory to determine which areas of the state are most heavily infected, the percentage of infection, and the totals statewide."

According to the August report on animal diseases in Oregon released recently by the state department, there were 15 cases of Leptospirosis reported by practicing veterinarians in eight herds. Losses had indicated the disease in these herds.

Other cattle diseases reported include Anaplasmosis, 44 cases in 16 herds; Blackleg, seven cases in six herds; Shipping Fever, 63 cases in 15 herds; Bacillary Hemoglobinuria, eight cases in seven herds; Brucellosis, 19 cases in 12 herds; Tuberculosis, five reactors statewide. Pink Eye continues to plague the rancher with many cases reported.

In sheep, diseases reported include one flock of 2300 with Black Disease, the total number of diagnosed animals affected not reported. There were 40 cases of sore-mouth in four herds.

Hog Cholera in swine was reported in two herds. Other disease cases in swine include two of Swine "flu," 64 of Erysipelas and 14 of Entertis.

7000 birds and 507 flocks from five years ago.

Turkeys under the program this year numbered 196,842 compared to 240,021 five years ago. The turkey hatchery capacity this year was 1,070,782. Chick capacity in 36 hatcheries is 3,920,500 as compared to 3,268,000 in 51 hatcheries in 1955-56.

Breed changes reflected in the poultry show the cross-breeds ahead of all others with a total of 268,443 with Leghorns, Hampshires, White Rocks, Reds, other brands and the Barred Rock following in succession.
