Natural Resources Group of Demo Council Submits Report

Portland—The natural resources committee of the Democratic advisory council today made public its policy document on resources conservation and management.

C. Girard Davidson, Democratic national committeeman for Oregon and chairman of the committee, said the 37-page report sets forth in detail the position of the Democratic party on pollution control, outdoor recreation, water, lands and soils, forests, minerals, mining and energy.

Davidson said copies of the document have been transmitted to Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democratic candidate for president. The report is designated to supplement the Democratic national platform.

Restore Leadership

Davidson and the committee promises in its report that "a Democratic administration will restore effective national leadership in the conservation and development of the nation's resources and in the fight against monopoly, because it believes in comprehensive multiple-purpose planning, development and management of resources."

Five key reforms are basic to every phase of the Democratic program, the committee claims. They are:

1. Long range programming for comprehensive resource development by the establishment of a council of resources and conservation advisors in the executive office of the President and a joint committee on resources and conservation in Congress. There is no agency with this responsibility now.
2. Capital budgeting by the Federal government to separate normal current expenses from public investment in tangible assets and self-liquidating public works.
3. Establishment of a National investment fund from which financing for prudent and essential resource projects would be available at a reasonable rate of interest to Federal agencies, state and local governments, and private enterprises when such funds are not available privately on reasonable terms.
4. Establishment of a Youth Conservation Program to provide healthful outdoor employment opportunities for young men and to accomplish a multitude of productive tasks for the forests, parks and range lands.
5. A comprehensive "research and development" program encompassing basic research in all phases of natural resources conservation and use.

In addition the report pledges the Democratic Party to restore the career public service to its standards of professional competence, integrity and dedication; to improve administrative organization and coordination; to strengthen regulation of resource development to ensure higher standards of resource use and public benefit; to promote conservation education; and to advance international cooperation in all phases from exploration to final utilization.

Charges by Committee

The Natural Resources committee charges the Republican administration with failure to protect and conserve the nation's heritage of resources.

Its report states that Republican leadership has stifled programs for reforestation, flood control, soil conservation, grazing lands restoration and fish and wildlife protection, and has allowed unwarranted mining claims, such as that of the Al Sarena company to be used to despoil the national forests. The veto of the anti-pollution bill by the Eisenhower-Nixon Administration was especially emphasized.

Oregonians on the committee in addition to Davidson, were Dr. Donald G. Balmer, head of the political science department at Lewis and Clark college, who served as secretary, Lyle F. Watts, former chief of the forest service, Roy F. Bessey of Portland, and Mrs. Robert Richmond of Eugene.

News and Notes From Camp White

By WALTER TOWNSEND

Caesar Muzzioli, who has a spacious big-windowed studio at 517 South Newtown st., Medford, is a famed performer and teacher of accordion, with students of varied ages receiving the benefits of his skill as a musician. Slender and alert, he is a director of charm and grace.

To his friends at the Domiciliary, he is known as "Caesar." Public-spirited and a cultural asset, he is one of the favorite entertainers at White City.

Muzzioli is also known throughout the valley for his work as a volunteer in and for various organizations. In particular, he has regularly each month brought entertainment to the men at the domiciliary.

Performs for Members

He especially loves to bring his school to the station theater and perform for the members. "They are the greatest fellows I ever met," he said in his studio yesterday. "They meet me all over town, and always stop to tell me the joy my students bring them."

He is delighted to bring his musicians to the domiciliary for an evening of entertainment, he said. On Monday night he came, and held the members spellbound for some two hours with his talented group of accordion players.

When visited on Tuesday at his studio in Medford, Michael Beale, age 9, was taking an accordion lesson for half an hour. Michael said he enjoyed coming to Camp White to play for veterans. "I've been there every month for two years - without missing one time!" he said.

"Caesar" looked at the young man sternly, and said, "If he keeps studying, he'll be there every month for two more years."

Likes Baseball

Michael likes baseball and track, he stated. "And girls," Muzzioli reminded him, with a wink at Michael's father.

Caesar Muzzioli came to Medford from Boston, five years ago, where he had an accordion school in that city of art and music, and was a known on two continents as a concert soloist, composer, and teacher of accordion. He was born in Boston and educated in both America and Italy.

One of his Medford students, Sharon Roberts, recently went to Chicago in a contest involving 45 state champions of the nation. She placed sixth, in competition with America's five greatest accordionists. This achievement gave Muzzioli one of the greatest thrills of his life, he told his audience Monday night.

100 Students

He has over 100 students between Medford, Eagle Point, Ashland and Grants Pass. For past three years he has transported his school to Portland, and each time, won first place.

Meetings on Problem Of Serving Papers in County Are Planned

Ed Branchfield, president of the Jackson County Bar association, said Friday he will probably meet with the Jackson county court this week concerning the problem of serving civil papers.

County Judge Earl Miller has written Branchfield and various credit bureaus in the county inquiring into the problem which involves an overload in the sheriff's civil department, and a case load decrease in the constable's office.

Miller asked Branchfield to meet with the county court to discuss the problem.

Appeals to Court

Recently, Jackson County Sheriff Joe Walsh appealed to the county court for help in handling the greatly increased case load in his civil department. Meanwhile, the two civil deputies, John O'Hara and Glenn Wright, are home recuperating from heart attacks suffered about two weeks ago.

In his letter to the county court, Walsh wrote that the business of serving civil pa-

Plans Being Made For Institution Of New Assembly

Plans are being completed for the formal institution of the Very Rev. Francis W. Black, general assembly, fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, according to Lowell A. Dupray, faithful navigator of the new Medford organization. Ceremonies will take place Saturday, Nov. 26.

The local assembly is the most recently established in the Oregon District of the Junipero Serra Province of the fourth degree and has 35 charter members from the Medford and Grants Pass areas.

The group has been holding monthly dinner meetings since June, upon receiving authorization to act as an official assembly of the order. Prior to that time, most of the charter members were affiliated with the Archbishop F. N. Blanchett general assembly in Klamath Falls.

Program Announced

The institution day program, according to General Chairman Gordon E. Boner, will include installation of officers, a social hour, presentation of the assembly charter at an evening banquet and an installation ball, all at the Rogue Valley Country club.

Dignitaries of both church and state plan to attend the various functions, it was reported.

Officers who will be installed, in addition to Sir Knight Dupray, are the Rev. Carl Mai, faithful friar; John L. Hochstatter, faithful captain; Ronald L. Ricketts, faithful admiral; Hal W. Krueger, faithful pilot; John L. Mansfield, faithful purser; M. J. Doyle, faithful controller; and R. J. Batzer, outer sentinel; all of Medford, and Paul A. Sakralda, faithful scribe, and Howard W. Fry Jr., inner sentinel, both of Grants Pass.

Boner is being assisted by Sir Knight Krueger, in charge of the banquet; T. W. Dugan, invitations; Lowell A. Iverson and John L. Raapke, decorations; and Sir Knights Hochstatter and Dupray and David E. Walsh, greeters.

Father Black, whose memory has been honored in the naming of the new assembly, will be remembered by many

516,000 Trees to Be Planted in 15 BLM Projects

A planting of 516,000 trees is scheduled by the bureau of land management for 15 Medford projects, BLM officials have announced.

The program will be part of an over-all state program for BLM lands. Bids for planting approximately 2,700,000 two-year-old forest tree seedlings will be opened in the BLM Portland office at 2 p.m., Nov. 3.

"Although there have been similar BLM plantings in recent years, this project which covers 4,966 acres rightfully ranks as a major planting operation," according to James Doyle, BLM area administrator.

"The undertaking is in keeping with the BLM program of continuing forest lands under the bureau's jurisdiction on a sustained timber yield basis. Plantings will be on logged over or burned over lands."

The BLM will furnish seedlings and successful contractors will be required to furnish all tools, equipment, supervision, labor, transportation, supplies, except seedlings, and perform all work incidental to the planting.

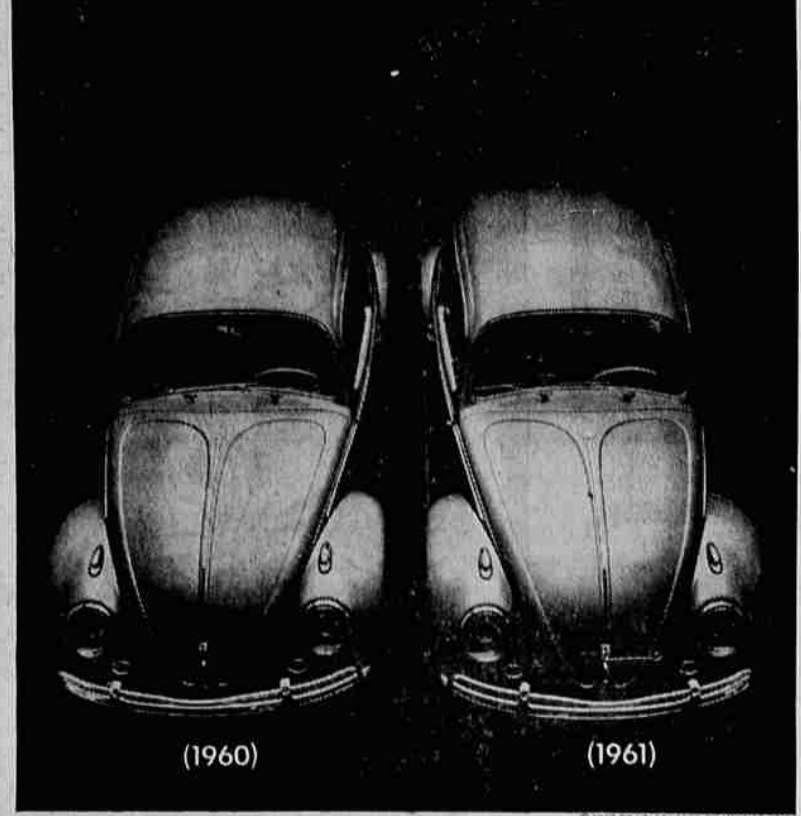

The overall program includes planting 1,179,000 trees on 10 Salem projects, 387,000 trees on 8 Coos Bay projects, 347,000 trees on 6 Eugene projects, and 262,000 trees on 7 Roseburg projects.

With all these improvements (and 23 more), the 1961 VW is still only $1,782* And this price includes electric windshield wipers and the built-in heater/defroster. Come in and drive the 1961 Volkswagen today. It's the best Volkswagen yet, for 27 reasons.
