Ike's Guantanamo Statement Seen as Reassurance Move

Washington—UPI—President Eisenhower's stern declaration that the United States will hold its Guantanamo naval base at all costs was described today as primarily a move to reassure the American people.

Elections Chief Says Durno Ad Change Not Asked

Salem—UPI—State elections director Jack F. Thompson late Tuesday denied that the secretary of state's office asked Dr. Edwin R. Durno, Republican candidate for Congress in the Fourth district, to alter his campaign advertising because of charges that it was misleading.

Democratic State Rep. Al Flegel of Roseburg, head of the select committee, said this had been done. Thompson said he received a phone call two weeks ago from the Gerber Advertising Agency in Portland—handling Durno's publicity—advising Thompson it had heard complaints about some of the publicity and intended to re-write the copy.

Thompson emphasized that the agency volunteered to change the advertising. The complaints involved the wording of certain ads. At the bottom one read: "Vote for Edwin R. Durno, Your U.S. Congressman." Flegel said the wording made it appear as if Durno were the incumbent instead of Democrat Charles O. Porter.

Thompson said taken out of context, the complaints might be legitimate but "the ad in its entirety clearly identifies Durno and his present position in the state senate."

Freakish Waves at Heceta Head Reported

Florence, Ore.—UPI—Freakish Pacific Ocean waves, 16 to 18 feet high, were reported today by Oswald Alik, light-house keeper at Heceta Head. Alik said there was no wind, the barometer was steady and it was more than two hours before high tide. He could offer no explanation for the high tides.

"Onward, 'Christian' Soldiers"

Washington—UPI—American officials said today British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was wrong when he said U.S. Polaris-equipped submarines based in waters of the United Kingdom never would fire missiles anywhere without first consulting London.

SIGN DAMAGED—Seven bullet holes are visible in this metal Smokey the Bear sign across the highway from the Prospect Ranger station in Rogue River National forest. Two bullet holes are visible in the elbow, five in the hat. This is an example of the type of vandalism to forest service property and campground areas in the forest during the summer. Repairing the damage will cost taxpayers several thousand dollars, Forest Supervisor C. E. Brown indicated.

Vandals Damage Forest Camp Areas, Equipment

Vandalism in Rogue River National forest during the past summer will cost the taxpayer several thousand dollars, C. E. Brown, forest supervisor, indicated today. Extensive damage was done to forest service and public property, he said, including breaking up road signs, damaging parked road equipment and damage to campgrounds.

On Aug. 18, state police and federal bureau of investigation agents picked up two young men who shot a metal Smokey the Bear sign near the Prospect Ranger station, Brown said. Seven shots were fired into the sign.

The men were picked up on a state violation for discharging a firearm across a state highway, and on a federal law of destroying government property.

Brown noted that if damage to government property exceeds $100, the crime is punishable by a $10,000 fine or 10 years in prison, or both.

Zoning Bill Passed By Ashland Council

Ashland—The Ashland city council last night enacted a zoning ordinance, prohibiting building of new service stations and repair garages on Ashland st. and Siskiyou Blvd from the intersection of east Main st. southeasterly to the city limits.

The council said the action was a temporary measure until a complete city plan is presented to the council in late 1961. Councilmen indicated they felt that too many choice property locations along the two streets were being taken by large oil companies for installation of service stations. The ordinance passed unanimously.

A representative of five oil companies addressed the council, saying that the ordinance was unfair, because it discriminated against the oil business.

The council also passed an ordinance assessing special benefit assessments for street improvements made during the past year of $58,267.39. Continuation of a hearing on paving an alley between Palm ave. and Mountain ave. proved to be highly controversial. Property owners and representatives of property

Cuban Militia Said Ordered To Shoot Americans

Havana—UPI—Reports circulated today that Cuban militia-men have been ordered to "shoot to kill" any Americans seen on the streets or in public places if and when "invasion" comes.

American Embassy sources said they had no knowledge of any such definite orders. One officer said "I don't doubt it" but emphasized he could not confirm the report.

The report was circulated by persons present at one militia meeting at which those present were said to have been given the orders. It long has been rumored that War Minister Raul Castro is author of a standing plan to shoot American residents here in the event of a U.S. attack.

The embassy was known to be studying the possible form any "invasion" might take but informed sources said there was no present plan to order Americans out of Cuba unless Cuba breaks relations.

Warlike preparations kept Cuba on edge but there were indications the regime might be preparing to drop its "invasion" line.

President Osvaldo Dorticos told a group of "White House" employees Tuesday night it would be a victory for the regime if the U.S. invasion it has been predicting failed to occur. It was the first time any Cuban official had expressed doubt about the inevitability of the rumored attack.

The Cuban official scoffed at President Eisenhower's warning that the United States would fight if necessary to protect the Guantanamo naval base saying "this government is not going to commit the folly of physically attacking" the big base in eastern Cuba.

Politics, Religion Topics at College

Ashland—Controversial political as well as religious issues will be discussed at Southern Oregon college this week and next.

Politics will be in the foreground when Gerald Scannell, candidate for district attorney, appears in the ballroom on the campus at 10 a.m. Friday, Nov. 4.

On Monday, Nov. 7, The Rev. Gene Bridges, minister of the Unitarian church of Tacoma, Wash., will present a special religious program on the topic "Why Bother with Religion?" The assembly will be 10 a.m. in the Britt ballroom. Both of the programs are open to the public.

Eugene Youth, 18, Wounded in Escape

Eugene—UPI—David Leonard Jensen, 18, whose address was given as the Bangs Hotel, Eugene, was shot and wounded Tuesday when he tried to escape from a police officer here.

He was reported in satisfactory condition at a Eugene hospital. Jensen was believed formerly of Salem, Police Chief Art Ellsworth said.

The youth suffered a wound in his lower back. He had been charged with forgery by Eugene Policeman John Perkins.

Chief Ellsworth said Perkins had questioned the youth at the Lane County courthouse and placed Jensen in handcuffs in a patrol car when Jensen bolted and ran down an alley.

Dillard Plywood Plant To Close for Week
Portland—Pacific Plywood, Inc., of Dillard, is closing down its entire plywood operation for one week beginning today. It was announced here today by William F. Forrest, president.

"We have decided upon this step in preference to lowering the prices in the face of today's market condition," Forrest said.

New York City Pays Homage To President, Nixon

Occasion Rivals Return From War
New York—UPI—New Yorkers by the hundreds of thousands paid excited homage to President Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon today when the two leaders paraded up Broadway's "canyon of heroes" through a blizzard of rainbow confetti and balloons.

The occasion rivaled Eisenhower's 1945 triumphal return from the wars. Wall Street went wild.

It was, in fact, another D-day because this was the beginning of a concerted Eisenhower political invasion on behalf of Nixon.

Workers jammed behind wooden police barricades on financial district sidewalks. Thousands more draped themselves from windows and hurled paper of all descriptions and colors.

In open convertibles below, the President, Nixon, running mate Henry Cabot Lodge and their entourage looked like fugitives from a New Year celebration with their heads full of confetti.

Eisenhower and Nixon stood up in brisk wind, waving to screaming men and women. The usually dim valleys of lower Manhattan exploded into a carnival. Signs sprouted by the hundreds—"Welcome to our first team," "Prestige and integrity," and the like.

Eisenhower warned the nation it may face the choice between "the cataclysm of war" or "the principles that made the United States great" on election day.

Eisenhower reiterated the administration's determination to stand by Matsu and Quemoy and declared: "You can move back to the military weakness that caused the Korean War or move forward with the Republican ticket."

"You can risk the cataclysm of war or retain the principles that made the United States great."

He said he would vote for "my team" on Nov. 8 and counseled the nation to carry on his work through Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Christmas Trees Sold in Districts

Shasta fir Christmas trees in five sales recently on the Union Creek district of the Rogue River National forest sold for as high as $2.25 per tree, with an average price of $1, the U.S. forest service announced today.

The sales, the first reported to the supervisor's office this fall, were mainly Shasta and white fir.

The location of the trees sold, the number of trees in each sale and the purchaser are: Copeland Creek 1,100 trees to Joe Fry, Klamath Falls; Copeland Creek 2, 2,000 trees, Jack F. Stone, Salem; Rock Top, 200 trees, Andrew R. Gigger, Klamath Falls; Huckleberry mountain, 2,000 trees, Ross E. Dodge, Los Altos, Calif.; and Thousand Springs, 300 trees, D. E. Koening.

A sixth group of 1,100 trees in the Minnehaha Creek area did not sell, it was reported. Officials said that the trees would not be re-advertised, but interested persons may contact the Union Creek district ranger.

Washington—UPI—The Defense Department will more than double its expenditures on weapons for chemical and biological warfare over the next several years, Army sources reported today.

Firemen Start Annual Christmas Toy Project

For the 29th consecutive year this Christmas the Medford fire department and the Medford Lady Lions club will collect, repair and distribute toys for underprivileged children in the area as Christmas gifts.

The annual Firemen's ball to raise funds for repairing the toys will be held on Nov. 23, the night before Thanksgiving, at the Medford armory. Boldy Evans and his band from Klamath Falls will furnish music.

The Lady Lions and fire department have asked for the cooperation of Medford and vicinity residents in the Christmas Toy project. They urge residents to bring old toys and other articles which they no longer need to the central fire station at Third and Front sts. before Dec. 12.
