Brucellosis Shows Few Reactors; Diseases Listed

Salem - September reports in the battle against brucellosis show that seven of 18 dairy counties and four of the semi-range counties have no quarantined herds, reports the state department of agriculture.

Counties can be certified by the state only if herds show not more than one per cent infection in the cattle and five per cent in the herds.

In September 6,502 market cattle blood samples were collected in Oregon which is a 100 per cent increase over July. There are now seven federal and 102 state slaughter establishments participating in the market cattle testing program, according to Dr. A. G. Beagle, federal inspector in the program.

In tuberculosis, reaccreditation of all counties is current with the exception of one which will be recommended for credit soon. In eastern Oregon there were ten herds and in western Oregon, 20 herds under quarantine for tuberculosis. Eight reactors were discovered during September over 3,556 cattle in 542 herds tested.

No cases of sheep or cattle scabies were found in September though 53 flocks of sheep were under surveillance for scrapie.

Three cases of swine erysipelas were reported and two cases of leptospirosis.

Sen. Kennedy, Wife Fly To Estate To Await Vote Outcome

Hyannis Port, Mass. - (UPI) - Sen. John F. Kennedy and his wife voted in Boston today and flew to await the election outcome in the privacy of their seaside estate.

De Gaulle Man In Algeria Quits

Paris - (UPI) - Andre Jacomet, France's No. 2 man in Algeria, has resigned in protest against President Charles de Gaulle's offer of semi-independence to the North African territory, government sources said today.

The sources feared the resignation of Jacomet, secretary-general of the French administration in Algeria, might have serious repercussions in the French army in North Africa, where there is considerable discontent over de Gaulle's proposal.

Jacomet, 43, was appointed directly by de Gaulle and is the first senior French official to quit in direct revolt against de Gaulle's Algerian policies.

The resignation came amid reports that de Gaulle plans to shake up his government and the army to wipe out all opposition to his stand in Algeria.

Five Reasons for Happier Marriages

St. Paul, Minn. - Reuben Hill, director of the University of Minnesota Family Study Center, says he has found five reasons why today's marriages are happier.

1. Husband and wife are more frequently partners in the realm of earning the family income.
2. Authority in decision making is more likely to be shared in all phases of life, including recreation, choice of friends and child discipline.
3. There is today a much less pronounced division of labor within the home.
4. Integration of recreation for both sexes has increased the possibilities of companionship in play.
5. Trends in the husband-wife relationship have their counterparts in the parent-child relations where increasing sharing of authority and greater companionship between the generations have made parents and children closer friends than their predecessors.

Pens in Hand

New York - (UPI) - Many little students begin to use ball point pens in the third grade. By the seventh grade, the ball point pen becomes a standard instrument for taking notes, writing school papers and letters.

Driven by Cousin

The Kennedys were driven by the senator's cousin, Ann Gargon, to their fence enclosed home overlooking Nantucket Sound by way of the village of Hyannis. Their small motorcade attracted a sprinkling of Cape Codders and Kennedy waved to his neighbors as he passed.

The couple voted at 8:46 a.m. in West End Boston and made the short flight to Cape Cod in the Kennedy family's Convair which the candidate used throughout most of his more than 50,000 miles of campaigning.

Smiling and Confident

The senator and his pretty wife were both smiling and in jaunty spirits during the flight. The atmosphere of confidence in victory that has pervaded the Kennedy entourage for the past 10 days continued to hold in the final hours of suspense.

"The hours today will be the longest ones of my life," Mrs. Kennedy confided to reporters in Boston.

A crowd of about 300 had gathered at the polling place in Boston when the Kennedys arrived. Mrs. Kennedy, who expects a baby in three weeks, had motored from Hyannis Port on Cape Cod this morning to vote with her husband.

After posing for photographers briefly, Kennedy went into his booth and drew the curtain. It took Mrs. Kennedy 15 seconds and the nominee 30 seconds to vote.

Servicemen GENERAL'S ESCORT

Capt. D. B. Rickard, commander, Company 8, 1st Battle Group, 9th Infantry, escorted Gen. George H. Decker, Chief of Staff, U. S. Army and Brig. Gen. Lester L. Wheeler, commanding general, Yukon Command, during a welcome ceremony for General Decker at Ladd Air Force base near Fairbanks, Alaska.

Captain Rickard's company acted as honor guard for the occasion. General Decker was in Alaska to address the state chamber of Commerce and combined it with an inspection of major army installations in the state.

Optimistic Nixon Casts Early Ballot At East Whittier

Los Angeles - (UPI) - A confident and optimistic Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned today to the scene of his earliest success to cast his ballot at 7:30 a.m. (PST).

Court To Review Oregon Statute

Washington - (UPI) - A conflict between Oregon state law and federal statutes dealing with disposition of estates of veterans who die without a will or heirs while in veterans hospitals will be reviewed by the Supreme Court.

A decision by the Oregon Supreme Court awarding Adam B. Warpuskie's $13,000 estate to the state of Oregon was called up for review Monday by the high court. Warpuskie died in Portland Veterans hospital in 1956.

The federal government contended that federal law provides that the general post fund is entitled to the estate of veterans who die without a will and without heirs in veterans hospitals. The government said Warpuskie signing papers agreeing to this rule when admitted to the Portland hospital.

The State Supreme Court's decision, which was in favor of the State Land board, was based on a ruling that Warpuskie was incompetent to sign the agreement. The government said the state decision was contrary to traditional administrative and state court interpretation of federal law.

Retraction by Pearson Asked

Washington - (UPI) - A Washington attorney says he has demanded that columnist Drew Pearson retract portions of recent reports which he says contained "innuendoes" concerning Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The lawyer, John A. Wells, said Monday that the notice served on Pearson Nov. 5 was drawn up in his own name but had been prepared at the vice president's request.

Wells said he demanded that Pearson retract sections "of his recent article and subsequent statements" concerning a 1956 loan from Hughes Tool Co. to Donald Nixon, the Republican presidential candidate's brother.

In reporting his demand for a retraction, Wells did not name specific portions of Pearson's report to which he objected. He also declined to say whether he planned to follow up the demand with legal action.

Pharmacy Phacts

From GENE WESTLAND

We had an old friend come in the other day who called our attention to how much less time she had spent in the hospital recently than she remembered having spent there for a similar problem some years ago.

We looked it up - and she's right! As short a time ago as 1928 the average hospital stay amounted to 14 days. Then it began to average 12 days, then 10 days, and, not too long ago the average was down to 8 days.

Today, Well, thanks to modern medicine and modern techniques, the average hospital stay has dropped to only 6 days of confinement. Another proof of the continuing search, by everyone concerned with your health, for better ways of helping you regain and keep it.

Democrats Slip

Rome - (UPI) - Italy's ruling Christian Democrats lost ground to the Communist and Neo-Fascists in nationwide local elections but remained the country's most powerful party. Final returns showed today.

The figures, still unofficial, showed Christian Democratic candidates amassed 40.3 per cent of the popular vote, down 2.1 points from the 1958 elections.

The Communists went up from 23 to 24.5 per cent and the Neo-Fascists from 4.6 to 5.9.

The voting was held Sunday and Monday on the municipal and provincial levels and had no direct effect on national offices but it provided the first electoral expression of Italian voters in two years.

The Republican presidential candidate was in a jocular mood as he strode from his suite at the hotel. He shook hands with hotel guests and joked with his staff. Nixon's press secretary, Herbert Klein, said the vice president's mood was "very optimistic, he feels he's going to win."

Pat Nixon Chipper

Mrs. Nixon also was in a chipper mood despite the lack of sleep. She wore a green dress and a small, brightly colored pillbox hat. She put her arm around one staff member and commented, "We've all had a good time together."

Nixon wore a gray suit and no topcoat against the morning air.

The weary candidate carried his record 50-state presidential campaign down to the wire, proclaiming he could sense the election tide running in his favor and vowing to keep it running "right through the last vote counted."
