Back Stairs: Ike Busy Saying 'No'

By WILLIAM J. EATON
 Washington - (UPI) - Back stairs at the White House: What will President Eisenhower do after he becomes the nation's third living ex-president at noon, Jan. 20? Judging from his public statements, the chief executive is torn between world traveling, golf, plain loafing and a semi-retired life devoted partly to welfare work.

Right now, he says, he is kept busy saying "no" to demands on his time after he leaves the White House in about two months. The President has reaffirmed his willingness to go anywhere and do anything in the cause of peace after he returns to private life, even if it were only a "word... a hand-clasp" that would help reduce the risk of global war. Eisenhower's favorite pastime, golf, also is beckoning. When he was in Palm Springs, Calif., last month the President said he wanted to come back to the desert resort area in January and stay until he was "kicked out."

Later on that western trip, he told Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos: "After I get over the shock of being a free man I will make plans to come again to Mexico." White House veterans, who say that Eisenhower cannot stand inactivity, doubt that he will carry out a humorous promise to find a rocking chair and sit in it for six days. He had never in his eight years in office been so besieged with requests to make speeches and accept offers to serve on boards of trustees. He added that he occasionally is "terrified" by the thought of retirement but felt that he could be kept busy for six months on the backlog of requests.

No matter what he decides to do, the President is guaranteed an annual income of $25,000 under a so-called presidential pension law passed by Congress in 1958. A check for one-twelfth of that amount will be in his mailbox each month. In addition, the President is authorized up to $50,000 to hire his own staff to maintain an office in retirement. Meeting with reporters on his 70th birthday, the Presi-
