Critical Lack Of Technicians, Engineers Noted

Buenos Aires (UPI)—Argentina, like many another country of the modern world, is feeling industrial growing pains.

A recent study showed that by 1967, the country will need half a million new skilled workers, but the schools at present rates will turn out less than half that number.

Hand in hand with that shortage goes the critical lack of technicians and engineers. The two could seriously cripple the country's effort to industrialize, symbolized by a recently-opened $600 million steel mill, booming oil production (up 33 per cent in the past year), plans to expand the nation's road network, mushrooming petro-chemical industries, and motor vehicle production.

Government Earmarks Funds
In greater Buenos Aires alone, for instance, there are at present 260,000 skilled industrial workers and only 23,000 students in the technical and vocational schools.

This year, the government has earmarked 160 million pesos (about $1.95 million) in the education budget for vocational schools, but this is less than two per cent of the overall education budget and only one-tenth of what the state-run railroads alone are expected to lose this year.

Another part of the problem is awakening student interest in jobs in the mechanical field such as auto mechanics, tool and die work, draftsmen. The same study showed that in the province of Buenos Aires, 8,146 students were preparing for "white collar" jobs as secretaries, bookkeepers, etc., while the 28 vocational schools combined enrolled only 10,264 students.

Engineers Leave Country
On the professional level, the shortage of engineers has been worsened by an outflow of scarce "brains" to such countries as the United States, Mexico and Canada. The shortage is especially acute in the petroleum and electronics-atomic energy fields.

In almost every case, the engineers give the same general reasons: Higher pay, better facilities and greater chance for recognition of their work outside the country.

Two men have led the battle to check this trend: The country's only living Nobel Prize winner, Dr. Bernard Houssay, and Dr. Risieri Frondizi, brother of the president and rector of the National University of Buenos Aires. Both have repeatedly called attention to the problem and pointed out the dangers in it for Argentina.

So far, however, their words have gone largely unheeded and the problem they have focused has remained just that: A problem.

Three Accidents Reported in Area

Three traffic accidents were reported to state police late last week, but there were no injuries, police said.

Cars operated by Lee Claire Shirely, 74, of 365 Bessie st., Medford, and Bernice Verna Ives, 43, Klamath Falls, were involved in an accident on Highway 99 near Rock Point bridge near Gold Hill.

Three cars were involved in an accident on Highway 99 and Stewart ave., police said. Cars were operated by Robert Porter Hart, 49, of 1809 Roxy Ann place, Medford; Flora Louise Calhoun, 33, of 3290 Freeman rd., Central Point; and John Gordon Hood, 53, Corvallis.

The Hart and Calhoun vehicles were stopped at a stop light when the Hood vehicle struck the car operated by Flora Calhoun from behind, knocking it into the Hart vehicle, officers said.

Another accident occurred on Hull rd. when a pickup truck operated by Frank Ephram Gidney, 51, of 848 Dakota st., Medford, went off the road, police reported.

Southern Oregon College Discussed At Group Meeting

Dr. Elmo Stevenson, president of Southern Oregon college, discussed the college's building program and the college itself at a meeting of the Jackson County Motor Court association last week.

Dr. Stevenson said passage of Measure No. 6 on the general election ballot will enable the college to start a construction program of about $500,000 annually for the next five years.

The college, he said, is now appraised about $6½ million. Housing, he added, is provided for only about one-third of the students at the college.

Enrollment Noted
Southern Oregon college has the fourth largest enrollment among colleges in Oregon, and now offers all professional courses as well as teacher training.

He outlined a four - point program for residents of the Rogue valley to help promote growth of Southern Oregon college. They are (1) work for representation on the state board of higher education; (2) sponsor scholarships; (3) support the Southern Oregon college Foundation, and (4) "talk up" the college.

The association named a committee to submit nominations for officers for election at the December meeting. Members of the nominating committee are Mrs. Wiles Berry, Mrs. Max Weston, Cecil Watson, Norman Wade and Mrs. Harold Gordon.

Introduced at the meeting were James Roschill, new owner of the Colonial motel, Ashland, and Bud Van De Sande, manager of the Thunderbird motel, which is under construction in Medford.
