Portland — (UPI) — Two Portland men, still not believing what was happening after an eight-year battle to remain in the United States, were deported Friday.

Hamish Scott MacKay, 55, a carpenter, was flown to Canada Friday night several hours after William A. Mackie, a 51-year-old house painter, was deported by plane to Helsinki, Finland.

Both men were born in the two countries.

The deportation climaxed a legal battle between the two men and the federal government that ended Monday when the U.S. Supreme Court denied the pair's last appeal.

Subversive Organizations

The government claimed the two men belonged to organizations in the 1930s that have since been declared subversive.

Mackie left by plane at 9 a.m. He was due in Helsinki at 7:05 p.m. Saturday. MacKay left at 7:12 p.m. for Vancouver, B.C. Both men left tearful families and one of MacKay's sons, 17-year-old Ronnie, had to be restrained not to run onto the runway while his father's plane was getting ready to take off.

Mackie was born in Viipuri, Finland, where his parents were visiting and left there when he was 10 months old. He knows no one there and knows only a few words of the Finnish language.

MacKay has lived in Oregon for 30 years. He was born in Consort, Alta.

Oregon Sen. Wayne Morse, who fought the U.S. Immigration service against the deportation, said the action might hurt United States prestige overseas.

'Bosses' Night' Set by Jaycees

"Bosses' Night," the annual banquet-meeting of the Medford Junior Chamber of Commerce and their employers, will be held at the Tower Broiler, Tuesday, Nov. 22, at 7:30 p.m., according to Jaycee President Delbert T. Landing.

An annual feature nationwide, the event is dedicated to the bosses who support the Jaycees and "recognize the value of the organization."

William D. Tope, committee chairman, said Harold W. Gardner, past president and state director for the Jaycees, will be the featured speaker. Richard Frey will review the club's creed, and John Gustafson has been named toastmaster.

State Fair Group Plans Meeting at Grounds Nov. 29

Salem, Ore. — (UPI) — The Oregon State Tuberculosis hospital observes the 50th anniversary of its founding today.

In the past half century the hospital, six miles southeast of here, has admitted a total of 8,950 patients and hundreds have been treated and released as "arrested cases."

A reception is planned this afternoon, and an open house. The 1909 legislature established the institution and the first five patients were admitted in November, 1910. The building was originally built to house the Oregon State Deaf School.

Large Capacity

Additions were made through the years and the modern plant now is capable of caring for more than 300 patients.

The hospital has had four superintendents. The current one is Dr. Robert E. Joseph.

At the outset, basic treatment for tuberculosis was a rest and adequate diet. The hospitalization lasted for several years. Now, with new medications and expanded surgery, patients stay on the average of six months.

1960 Fire Season Was Among Most Critical in Books

"In terms of fire danger, the 1960 season was one of the most critical on record," Robert H. Torheim, fire control officer, Rogue River National Forest, said Saturday.

Torheim pointed out that high temperatures, low humidities, and low fuel moistures continued during the summer, and a prolonged drought was also evident.

The U.S. forest service has reported the season was the "most severe" for the service in 29 years in Oregon and Washington.

93 Fires Reported

In the Rogue River national forest, a total of 93 fires were recorded, with 50 being caused by lightning and the remainder man-caused. Total land area burned was 64 acres, one of the lowest burned areas in past years, according to Torheim.

As compared with 1959, also declared a year of high fire danger, 42 fires were responsible for 926 burned acres.

In the Pacific Northwest region, a total of 1,869 fires burned 76,716 acres of USFS land by Nov. 1. The average for the past five years is set at 12,016 acres.

According to forest officials, the 1960 fire record was surpassed in 1931 when 1,516 fires burned 106,631 acres.

"Although lightning fires exceeded man-caused fires this year, a burgeoning population with resultant increasing use of national forests is making the fire protection job more difficult," officials note.

RECEIVE AWARDS — James H. Grieve, clerk of local board 17, while Grieve has served as a volunteer registrar in the Prospect area. Others that received service awards were Harry A. Skerry Jr., Ashland, who has served as government appeal agent for five years and Mrs. Orva Jean Cruise, Rogue River who has 10 year's service as registrar.

The Week in California King, President Make Top News in California in Week

By United Press International

A King and a President topped California's news last week.

The King: Clark Gable, the he-man of Hollywood with the engaging smile and big ears, died of a heart attack in a Hollywood hospital.

The President: John F. Kennedy lost California's 32 electoral votes on a count of absentee votes but it had no effect on his ultimate seat in the White House.

Gable, 59-year-old star of movies for 30 years, died unexpectedly 11 days after he first was hospitalized with a heart attack. The second attack hit him suddenly.

Lays Back Head

"Mr. Gable just laid back his head and gasped," B. J. Caldwell, administrator of the Hollywood Presbyterian hospital, said.

They tried to revive him but it was too late. His pregnant wife, Mrs. Kay Gable, 42, had gone to bed in her room across the hall and rushed to her husband's side. But he was dead before she could reach him.

But, as movieland would say, a part of him still lives on. Mrs. Gable is expecting the couple's first — and Gable's only — child in four months.

On the political scene, Kennedy looked like a sure winner of California's support in the electoral college against home state Vice President Richard M. Nixon. At the end of regular ballot counting, the president-elect was leading by 35,000 votes.

Absentee Count

But then the absentee count began. Nearly a quarter million absentee ballots had been cast in the Nov. 8 general election in California and officials predicted that 60 per cent of them would go to Nixon.

If this proved true, Nixon would win California.

It did. Nixon garnered 61 per cent of the absentee and slowly narrowed the gap between him and Kennedy. Finally, Wednesday afternoon — more than a week after the election — a United Press International tabulation pushed Nixon ahead of Kennedy.

The major result of the win in California: Nixon's prestige rose and party officials started booming him as a possible candidate for governor in 1962 and, once more, for President in 1964.

In other news:

Strike: A transit strike in Los Angeles created a massive traffic snarl on the city's already congested freeways and streets. All 1,432 buses and streetcars operated by the Metropolitan Transit Authority and serving 750,000 passengers daily were halted by the dispute.

Mayor Norris Poulson pleaded with acting Gov. Glenn Anderson to intervene on grounds that public necessity required buses to begin rolling at once. But Anderson refused.

Farm labor: Farm labor organizers revealed that they planned to move into California's orange crop, worth about $51 million. Norman Smith of Stockton, head of the AFL-CIO Agricultural Workers Organizing committee, said the organizing drive would extend south in the Central valley.

Extradition: Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson refused to send a 16-year-old Dos Palos lad to the state of Oklahoma to face a calf stealing charge. The boy was a class leader at his high school and narrowly missed becoming the class president earlier this year.

Hazing: Pasadena City college fraternity members who tarred, greased and chained nine pledges as part of a hazing prank may face jail terms as a result of their actions. Atty. Gen. Stanley Moak asked college authorities for a full report on the incident and pointed out that a 1959 law made such hazing a misdemeanor.

Pilfering: The U.S. government concluded a two-day trial of a man accused of pilfering a 57-cent pineapple — and lost its case. Longshoreman Wiley Nisby was charged with stealing the pineapple but he claimed it was given to him by a sailor named "Jones." His only comment on acquittal was that "they spoiled my pineapple" by using it as a court exhibit.

CAMP REMAINS FOUND

London (UPI) — Soviet archeologists have found remains of a camp inhabited 30,000 years ago in the north of the Russian federation. Moscow Radio said Friday night. Remains of camp fires, flint tools, and bones of glacial age animals make it "the richest find of northern fauna which scientists have ever come across," the broadcast said.

Pakistan has deposits of coal, oil and minerals.

Gresham Man Cited Following Accident

John William Parkes, Gresham, Ore., was cited by Medford police for violation of basic rule following a two-car accident Friday night on Court st. between McAndrews rd. and Stafford st.

A car was being started by Wayne Leland Elder, 1617 Stratford Way, Medford, when the Parkes car hit the Elder car in the rear knocking it onto the curb, Medford police said.

PRIVILEGED FEW

London (UPI) — "Actors and the Irish," said the personal column ad in the London Times Saturday "admitted free to Sean O'Casey's 'Drums of Father Ned.'"

Appraisal Course Planned at SOC by Region Chapter

Plans for a three-day appraisal course, and election of officers, topped the agenda at a recent dinner meeting of the Society of Residential Appraisers, Chapter 134.

Chosen to head the group for the coming year was Robert Loveless, Grants Pass, who succeeds John Fleck of Roseburg.

Others selected were C. C. Vandagriff, Medford, first vice president; Gene Whittier, Grants Pass, second vice president, and Stewart Pennington, Medford, secretary-treasurer. Clark Walker of Medford was named director.

Types of residential depreciation was the subject for discussion during the after-dinner session.

Appraisal Course

The appraisal course sponsored by the Southern Oregon chapter, Society of Residential Appraisers, will be given Dec. 1-3, in room 200, Church hall, at Southern Oregon college, Ashland.

It is open to all persons interested in appraisal technique and will be instructed by Carl C. Trowbridge of Portland, a recognized authority in the field with many years of experience. He is a member of the firm of Ambrose, Ek, Laidlow and Trowbridge, Real Estate Appraisers and Negotiators, and also serves on numerous boards and commissions.

The daily lectures will include basic appraisal fundamentals and a field trip to study and inspect property and comparable sales. Cost for the course is $50, which covers text book, appraisal guide and materials, and credit for the $10 SRA membership dues for 1961.

Registration should be made with Mrs. W. B. McCullough, 137 Church st., Ashland.
