High Speed Chase Ends in Death of Escaped Convict

Hillsboro - (UPI) - A wild, high speed auto chase early today ended in death of one escaped convict and capture of another by Washington to county deputies here.

Killed in an auto crash was Robert A. Brockman, 46, sentenced to five years to life for armed robbery and burglary. Recaptured was Floyd B. Low, 27, sentenced to five years for forgery.

The two men broke away from Lee's Camp, a forestry work camp at Tillamook, officers said. They escaped in a stolen forestry bus, abandoned it near Vernonia, and stole a car.

They wrecked the auto and took another, deputies said. As the two sped along Highway 8 through Forest Grove, a local police officer gave chase but lost them. Another officer chased the speeding car at Cornelius.

They raced through Hillsboro and the car careened through a yard when it failed to make a turn and crashed off an embankment.

Brockman was killed instantly. Low was unhurt. He crawled out of the car and tried to hide in brush but was discovered by police and gave up.

Northern, Southern Demos Expected To Unite in Congress

Washington - (UPI) - Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) predicts that Northern and Southern Democrats would unite in the new Congress to push for passage of President-elect Kennedy's legislative program.

"I think we are going to see more of what we saw in the days of Franklin Roosevelt when we made such social progress," Dodd said. "In those days the Southerners united with the Northerners and great good came to the country."

Dodd said he saw no coalition between Republicans and Southern Democrats to block liberal legislation, even though there may be a try at it "here and there."

"I think you will find the Democratic majorities... in the House and Senate more cohesive, more united because we will have a president in the White House," Dodd said, adding, "We have had to fear this veto business for the last several years."

However, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) said the Democrats will not see eye to eye on everything. Because of this, he said, Congress undoubtedly will make major changes in some of the legislation Kennedy wants passed.

Dodd forecast that Congress would pass a medical care for the aged program under the Social Security system. Kennedy fought for such a plan during the special session of Congress last summer but the Republicans, Southern Democrats opposed it.

Dodd said Congress also would "hammer out some good legislation" on defense, aid to education, assistance to depressed areas, tax revision and a minimum wage law.

But Keating said the Democrats were divided on some of these issues and Kennedy would fail to win support on many items from his own party.

Dodd said he expects "give and take" in Congress on the details of Kennedy's proposals but the Democrats would be united on "general principles."

The article was only carried in the last two of the paper's 16 Sunday editions. The Ministry of Civil Aviation, under whose jurisdiction the RAE falls, refused to confirm or deny the report.

Washington - (UPI) - The Air Force denied flatly today that any British bombers packing antiradar devices had flown undetected over U.S. cities.

The London Sunday Dispatch reported Sunday that such flights had been made by Royal Air Force bombers with devices that enabled them to thwart U.S. radar detection measures.

An Air Force spokesman said the Royal Air Force had made nine flights into the United States since Nov. 12. All nine were seen by U.S. radar, he said.

He said the RAF pilots filed flight plans as is customary. When U.S. radar detected the planes, ascertained that they were friendly and that their tracks matched the previously filed flight plans, they no longer were tracked.

Stockpile Costs Last Year Said $536,677,745

Washington - (UPI) - A congressional report has disclosed the government paid out $536,677,745 in storage costs alone last year on certain federal stockpile inventories.

The warehouse costs covered surplus farm products under the price support program, strategic and critical materials held in the national emergency stockpile and the items in the civil defense stockpile.

Cost figures were for the fiscal year 1960, which ended last June 30. The report was prepared by the joint committee on reduction of nonessential federal expenditures, headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.).

Inventory increased. It noted that on Sept. 30, the government held in inventory goods valued at $16,002,383,000, of which about $7.3 billion were farm products.

This was an inventory increase of $109,857,000 over the previous month. The major inventory increase came in farm products, including $129 million in corn and $26 million in cotton.

These were partially offset by net decreases of $24 million in wheat, $12 million in soybeans and $9 million in milk and butterfat.

Strategic materials, including those maintained in the national stockpile and those under the defense production act program, amounted to $8.4 billion on Sept. 30.

Morale Crisis Seen as Result of Dependents Curb

Washington - (UPI) - An armed forces journal says that "a morale crisis worse than any since the pay cut of 1953" may result from President Eisenhower's order to reduce the number of military dependents abroad.

The defense department meanwhile asked the Army to complete arrangements for carrying out its share of the reduction and to show "positive leadership" in overcoming the adverse effects of the move. It was learned.

Reasons Seen. The Army - Navy - Air Force Register, published independently but closely associated with the military through reserve and retired officers, said it recognized that the foreign drain on America's gold created "urgent fiscal reasons" for the reduction.

The service journal, in an editorial prepared for publication next week, added: "But it is sheer folly to ignore the serious morale aftermath. What we must do first is face up to the problem and then do something to remedy the situation."

"The government must do something about the economic situation that caused this crisis. The bringing home of dependents and other steps are only stop-gaps.

"Unless the basic problems are solved the economic advantages gained by these morale-shattering moves will be lost. We hope the new administration can find the solution."

The number of dependents will be reduced by 284,000 through a series of gradual steps.

Authorizations Banned. The Air Force, which must reduce the number of its military dependents abroad at a rate of 6,120 a month beginning in January, has banned family travel authorizations after Feb. 1 except in personal or special service hardship cases. It also banned extensions of overseas tours for men with families.

The Navy has also completed plans for replacing military families abroad with single officers in an effort to reduce the number of dependents at a rate of 1,170 a month.

But the Army has as yet completed no plan for its 7,710-dependents-a-month reduction.

Defense officials, concerned over what they called Army "foot dragging," said the Army command has been reminded that Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. asked for "positive leadership" by military commanders to minimize the adverse impact of the president's program.

The move was ordered by Eisenhower as part of an urgent program to slow the flight of American dollars and gold overseas.

Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker has said it would be "hard to overestimate" the importance of having military families overseas. He said he would try to soften the "effect on combat effectiveness and morale" inherent in the dependents restriction.

Ambulance Driver Speeds To Scene of Accident; Finds Own Son Injured

Long Beach - (UPI) - With the siren screaming, ambulance driver Wallace Howard, 28, wove expertly through the traffic on an emergency call. He knew the streets well. It was his own neighborhood.

Howard spotted the accident scene, pulled up as close as possible and braked to a halt. Then he jumped out of the ambulance to give first aid.

The victim was a 8-year-old boy who had been hit by a car. The driver of the car had covered the boy with his jacket, but the youngster's unruly blond hair was strikingly visible.

"My God," Howard said. "It's my own son." Standing around the boy were Howard's wife, Mary, and his three other children, aged 2 to 9.

Howard gave his son emergency first aid and then drove as fast as he dared back to the hospital. The boy had a fractured skull, but he was expected to survive.

Mrs. Howard said the four children had been playing when Donald walked in front of the car. The driver of the car was not held.
