WINNER TRIES BINOCULARS—Dale Rollins, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard D. Rollins, 3869 Jacksonville highway, Medford, is shown using binoculars he won in the recent state-wide "Woods Hooligan" poster contest. The youth won first place in the four week contest, and also achieved second grand prize, both in the grade school division. Earlier this month young Rollins was awarded a sleeping bag for his first honor in the contest sponsored by the Governor's Red Hat Days committee. William Stoughton (right) is Dale's art instructor at MacLouglin Junior High school. Also shown is Calvin Smith representing the Industrial Forestry association, which donated the prizes. State Labor Leaders Oppose Labor Code Proposals

Salem, Ore. — Organized labor is unhappy with labor code recommendations of the legislative interim committee on labor-management relations, Democratic legislators were told Saturday.

George Brown of Portland, director of the Oregon AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, said the interim committee has recommended to the 1961 legislature "punitive and restrictive" legislation against labor.

He said the group revamped the federal Landrum-Griffin bill for Oregon. Brown said labor is also opposed to the committee's recommendation for a three-way workmen's compensation law.

Did Not Represent Labor

Brown complained that the lay member of the committee appointed to represent labor, Carl Gilson of the Railway Trainmen's union, did not do so.

L. L. Stewart of Associated Oregon Industries said his group joins with the interim committee in favoring competition in the insuring of industrial accidents. The workmen's compensation proposal would permit employers to insure their workers through private insurance firms instead of with the state.

Meeting in the House chamber of the capitol this morning, the legislators were told by State Labor Commissioner Norman Nilson that he will recommend revision of the vator law and the steam boiler and pressure vessel law. He said he is opposed to creation of an appeals board appointed by the governor and favors an advisory committee appointed by himself to hear complaints.

Richard Ryan of the League of Oregon Cities and Cecil Posey of the Oregon Education association outlined programs their groups will propose to the legislature.

Posey said the OEA wants to see the school district reorganization laws tightened, if possible, and is strongly opposed to weakening of them.

Klamath Falls Man Named To Head Unit

Klamath Falls — Darrell Frewing, ranger of the Klamath district of the Rogue River National forest for 2½ years, has been selected by the Forest service to head a new national forest unit.

Frewing will have charge of advanced planning and interim administration for a part of the Klamath Indian reservation forest lands that are scheduled to gain national forest status April 1, 1961.

Headquarters for the new unit will be in Klamath Falls and Chester Bell of Paisley was named to assist Frewing.

Earl M. Karlinger, who has been ranger of the Estacada district of Mt. Hood National forest for the past four years has been selected to replace Frewing.

Portlander To Head Conservation Group

The Dalles — Elmer Peterson of Portland was re-elected president of the Oregon Association of Soil Conservation Districts here Friday.

Also re-elected were James McCrae, Wallowa, vice president; LeRoy Rue, Silverton, secretary; and Ben Christenson, Harrisburg.

The election came at the end of the group's three-day convention.
