Kennedy Election Could Collapse on 'Iffy' Situations

Washington—UPI—This is strictly "iffy" stuff. But as of today, two weeks after the election, it's still possible for the presidential election of John F. Kennedy to come unhitched. Kennedy's electoral vote majority would be threatened if two things happened: —A recount gave Illinois to Vice President Richard M. Nixon instead of Kennedy. —Southern Democratic electors decided to withhold their votes from the Democratic candidate.

Liver Damage In Test Animals Said Produced

Washington—UPI—The government has banned the use of a red coloring used in ice cream, hot dog casings and maraschino cherries. John J. Harvey, deputy administrator of the Food and Drug Administration, announced that the action has been taken because preliminary experiments show that the coal tar color produces liver damage in test animals. He said tests were also being conducted to determine whether the water-soluble pigment is cancer-producing. He added that preliminary "test" results did not provide a basis for concluding that the color, known as red No. 1 could cause "cancer."

Another FDA official told a meeting of chemical and food industry representatives here last week, however, that some test animals had died and that a number of malignant tumors had been discovered in them.

Ban Effective Immediately—The ban of the food additives was ordered under the new color law which places on manufacturers the burden of proving that a product or additive is safe before it can be used in foods, drugs and cosmetics. The ban goes into effect immediately.

But Harvey said that "no action needs to be taken to remove foods, drugs and cosmetics containing this color additive from the market." He said that the additive is "not an acute toxic substance and that it is only used in small amounts."

The color is known as FD & C Red No. 1, and has been a standard food coloring for many years. It is not used in lipstick. Results of the tests thus far were disclosed Tuesday by FDA information officer Larry Trawick.

A drug industry publication put out by FDC Reports, Inc., said Dr. Arnold J. Lehman, director of FDA's pharmacology division, told a recent meeting of food industry representatives that tests showed red No. 1 produced severe liver damage in laboratory rats, dogs and mice.

Test Animals Died—Lehman also was reported to have said that a number of test animals died and that 24 tumors had been discovered in the animals, some of them diagnosed as malignant.

FDA records show that red No. 1 is one of the most widely used food colorings and has been certified for use for about 25 years.

OCDM Denies Air Raid System Report Suppressed

Washington—UPI—The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization today denied charges it tried to suppress an Army report which said the nation's air raid alarm system was inadequate.

But OCDM spokesman Herbert Moore did acknowledge that Director Leo A. Hoegh blocked the appearance of the man who wrote the critical study at a national meeting of civil defense workers.

Moore said the agency "made no effort to suppress the report—it was only a question whether this kind of man should be invited to this kind of meeting."

He said the OCDM "questioned whether the meeting was the place for a critical speaker."

Embarrassment Feared—House investigators who made the suppression charge contended that the report was withheld because administration officials feared it might be embarrassing.

"These are dangerous games for politicians to be playing," said Chairman John E. Moss of the House government information committee. "To suppress public information because someone might be 'embarrassed' is a threat to the fabric of democratic self government," he said.

Moss cited an Aug. 2 letter from Leo A. Hoegh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, in support of his charge.

Hoegh's letter, addressed to Lt. Gen. A. G. Trudeau, head of Army research, said, "It would be most unfortunate" if presentation of the report resulted "in embarrassment to the Army, to the Department of Defense or the OCDM."

Moss said in a statement Tuesday, "Political face-saving has been blamed by an administration bureaucrat as justification for suppressing the ugly fact that during the last eight years little or nothing has been done to put into effect a meaningful air raid warning system."

3 CLIMATE ZONES—Lima, Peru—Although wholly within the tropics, Peru has three distinct climate zones, caused by the influence of latitude, height above sea level, prevailing winds and ocean currents.

COAL PRODUCTS—Pittsburgh—A ton of bituminous coking coal yields about 1,400 pounds of coke, 11,000 cubic feet of gas, 7.8 gallons of tar, 2.8 gallons of light oil, and some other products.

HIGH TRACKAGE—Denver—A railroad line to the summit of Pike's peak in Colorado is the highest bit of trackage in the U.S. It attains a height of 14,109 feet above sea level.

Harrisburg—About 88 per cent of all the coal mined in the U.S. comes from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia.

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

God had promised Abraham that by him he would make a great nation, yet at 85 years of age he was childless, and Sarah his wife was barren, and she became anxious, and not being content to let God's plan take for at the time of God's choosing, she resorted with Abraham, that he should use her hand maid, and bring forth a child by her, which he did, and she bore him a son, Ishmael. While he was not the son of promise, God promised his mother, Hagar, that He would greatly multiply her seed. That promise is quite in evidence today in the Arab nations. This woman Hagar is spoken of in the N.T. as the bond woman and Sarah the mother of Isaac as the free woman. The one great purpose of this nation through Abraham, was to send the Savior for the whole world to free all peoples from their sins. It would not have been fitting to send the Savior by the bond woman.
