Movement To Help Restore 102-Year Church Started

By KATHERINE CHAPMAN
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Hornbrook — For the first time in some 35 years, Mass was said Nov. 6 in the Catholic church of Saints John and Paul at Callahan, Calif.

The Rev. William Broderick of the Ft. Jones parish officiated.

This historic little church is in the process of being restored and renovated, but basically it remains much the same as when it was built 102 years ago—the same hand-hewn wooden ceiling joists—the same hand-made wooden pews and kneeling benches—and the same wooden altar.

Joe Serpa of Ft. Jones spearheaded the drive for funds to restore the church, and also has done much of the actual physical work of restoration, aided by many of his friends and neighbors. A fund-raising barbecue followed the services on Nov. 6. This was sponsored by the Fort Jones Parish association, with Chairman Joe Verdanege in charge of the arrangements.

Work To Proceed

Work on the church will proceed as more donations are received, Serpa said.

Since there is no heating system and no electricity in the building, Father Broderick stated that mass will be said approximately only once a month during the winter until some method of heating is arranged. Father Broderick also serves the Ft. Jones, Elma and Happy Camp parishes.

Although the church has a seating capacity of only 65 to 70, it was estimated that about 100 persons received the sacrament of the mass at the reopening.

Among many who came a long distance to attend the service were Mrs. Max M. Selzer and her brother, Ambrose Swartz, both of San Francisco. At the time of his death on Christmas day, 1959, Mrs. Selzer's late husband was a vice president of the Bank of America at their Montgomery street headquarters in San Francisco. He was 73 years of age, and in his youth had served as altar boy at the Callahan church.

Raised in Callahan

He had been raised in Callahan by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Roach, who helped build the early-day church, and took care of the itinerant priests who served the parish. A favorite family anecdote concerns Grandfather Roach telling his neighbor one day that "between the coyotes and the priests, he hardly had any chickens left at all."

A daughter, Margaret Roach, taught in the little one-room school at Hornbrook several years before the turn of the century, about 1894 or 1895, as recalled by Mrs. Zela Elmore of Hornbrook.

A bronze plaque mounted on a boulder of native stone stands in front of the church, and bears the inscription: "Church of Saints John and Paul, Callahan, Siskiyou County, California. Erected about 1858, Father James Croke, a missionary priest held first services here. First Catholic church in Secht valley. Dedicatd by Escholitzia Parlor No. 112 NDGW, 1952."

NDGW is the Native Dwellers of the Golden West. In Southern End

The town of Callahan, known originally as Callahan's ranch, lies at the southern end of Scott valley and is surrounded by the heavily timbered Scott and Trinity mountain ranges.

A legend is told as to how the area came into the hands of the pioneer from Ireland. In the early days, it is said, a man could claim as his property as much land as his horse could walk in one day. Another man, whose name has been lost in the repeated telling of the tale, started out one day and walked his horse from McCannaha Guleh to the southern tip of the valley which was "quite a fur piece."

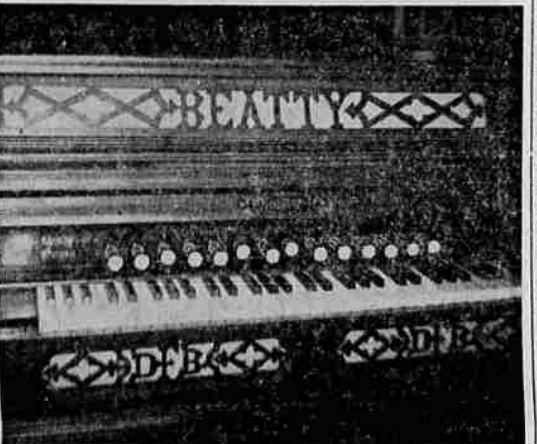

Shortly thereafter a long came a "fine broth of a lad from the ould country" and offered to trade four horses and a mule (all his earthly goods) for the piece of land. The deal was closed, and Matthias Bernard Callahan, in 1851, became the owner, and a new town was born and given his name.

First Stage
The first stage station in Siskiyou county was built here in 1854. At that time the surrounding county was teeming with gold seekers and Callahan was a center for supplies. Most of the buildings in the town are old and picturesque and retain much of their early day atmosphere.

Today, most of the "gold"

Local Welfare Costs Show 1960 Decrease

Local public welfare administrator James Pullman said Friday he has noted a decrease in costs of all public welfare programs during the current fiscal year except medical care. The aid to dependent children load is the lowest in several years, he said.

"Welfare department workers feel this winter will be a rough one, but there are no indications in the community to show this will be so," Pullman commented. "There has been no great flood of applications for assistance."

For the five-month period July through November, in 1958 the general assistance program cost $30,000, in 1959 it cost $16,771 and in 1960 it cost $19,638.

Dependent Children
Covering the same period, the aid to dependent children program was $100,000 in 1958, $90,000 in 1959 and $90,000 in 1960.

"General assistance costs in Jackson county are higher due to more liberal policy and increased cost of families where the father is in the welfare work program," Pullman said.

"We feel the work program has been successful," the welfare administrator said. "We have averaged six men a day for the last month."

He noted that this program is somewhat difficult to administer since personnel is constantly changing. Crews have been used around the county courthouse on odd jobs, for brush and trash clearing along county roads and in recreation areas in the Talent project, and for rehabilitating the former Southern Oregon branch experiment station just south of Phoenix on the South Pacific highway for a county dog pound.

Good Workers
"Those in the work program have been good workers," Pullman said. "They have been encouraged to get jobs outside the work program when they can. Most of those able to work have gotten private jobs, a few have quit on the job and a few have refused to work."

The Week in California

Gov. Brown Guarded on Trip Because of Chessman Case

By United Press International
The sensational Caryl Chessman case, which grabbed world wide headlines a few months ago, forced extra security for California Gov. Edmund G. Brown last week in a South America trip.

Brown was in Brazil with 27 other state governors but California's chief executive got the most attention — and guards. Five Brazilian secret servicemen trailed the governor.

The reason: A furor raised in Brazil by the Caryl Chessman case.

Chessman, convicted as Los Angeles "Red Light" bandit, was executed early this year in San Quentin's gas chamber after Brown once had reprieved him to take the case against capital punishment before the 1960 legislature.

Received Brazil Petitions

During the period between Chessman's two execution dates, Brown received petitions signed by 3 million persons from Brazil urging him to grant executive clemency to Chessman, convicted of kidnaping, robbery and forced sex perversion.

Brown said he had not requested special protection in Brazil and did not know about it beforehand. He said there had been no incidents during the governor's two-day stay in Rio de Janeiro.

Meanwhile, the state division of industrial safety announced that, in its opinion, two recent tunnel explosions which killed two men and injured 10 were caused by violations of state safety orders.

Studied Explosion

Division chief Thomas N. Saunders said safety engineers studied explosions at an irrigation district tunnel near Oroville and a utility district project tunnel near Placerville. The Oroville explosion killed two men and injured seven and the Placerville blast injured three.

Chief of Police Nabs 3 Burglary Suspects

Salem — (UPI) — Woodburn Police Chief Leonard Fuller went aboard a loaded Portland-bound bus at Woodburn Friday and arrested three armed men in connection with a burglary Thursday at the Hrubetz and Bushnell Manufacturing Co. in Salem.

Held in Salem city jail on charges of burglary not in a dwelling were Richard Victor Mineo, 30, and Louis Robert Piesik, 24, both of Portland, and James Julius Wederski Jr., 23, transient.

Salem police passed on a tip that the men hoped to board the bus at Woodward and Marion county sheriff's deputies relayed it to Chief Fuller.

Bond was set at $2,500 each. All three had guns when arrested, police said.

Gasoline Dealers Start Plans for More Unification

To better serve the community and formulate services and activities are the major goals of local gasoline dealers in a current attempt to create an association that will strengthen their industry.

Late last week some 26 members of the Jackson County Gasoline Dealers association, a division of the Industry Council of Southern Oregon, met to discuss preliminary plans for unification. More extensive federation plans will be made at a meeting Wednesday night.

Fred Morlan, secretary-treasurer of the ICISO, said the group is assisting in "formulating an association for better public and labor relations and general economic policies."

The spokesman felt this reorganization of Jackson county gasoline outlets would prove to be advantageous to both the public and the dealers themselves. The formation of the Association should make the fuel industry "stronger" in the community, according to Morlan.

He pointed out the ICISO is a non-profit organization organized in 1948 to assist southern Oregon firms in organization procedures and better employer-employee-customer relations.

Morlan reported a membership in the new dealers' association was about 25 per cent of the total independent outlets in the area. The membership campaign was only waged a short time ago, he continued.

Another spokesman for the fuel brokers said the Wednesday night meeting would be the first time a complete explanation and discussion of specific policies and activities would be held. He noted that at the Friday night meeting plans were introduced to the group.

Full scale reorganization may, however, be expected soon, according to association officials.

Use Permit Sought For Trailer From Adjustment Board

The Jackson county planning commission's board of adjustment last week heard arguments for and against granting a use permit for a trailer coach on Pioneer rd. in a zoned area.

Following an inspection of the premises, the adjustment board recommended a use permit for two years. Owners of the trailer coach are Mr. and Mrs. Jim E. Guches.

When the permit expires Mr. and Mrs. Guches can again apply to the board of adjustment for a renewal of the use permit and another hearing will be held. Board Chairman Robert Boyer said. Other board members are Victor Birdseye and Bill Duggan.

A letter read at the hearing stated the couple was unaware of a zoning ordinance before moving the trailer coach onto the property. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sult, also of Pioneer rd., who sold them the property, said they also were unaware of the ordinance.

Establish Precedent

Residents of the zoned area who opposed the permit request said they were not opposed to the specific trailer coach and its location, but were afraid it could establish a precedent to permit other trailer coaches to come into the area.

Those who appeared against granting the permit were Walter Nunley, Al Morin, L. G. Melville, Don Korih, Robert Keeney, C. J. Hunter, Richard Reum, and Mr. and Mrs. Clint Vroman. Those appearing for the trailer were Mrs. Jim E. Guches, Mrs. Jack Sult, Mrs. Alden Barclough, Mrs. Roscoe Owens and Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Thomas.

Boyer said an investigation of the premises under question showed this was one of the more valuable pieces of property in the area and the trailer was of the $7,000 to $8,000 class.

A letter to the Guches from Planning Technician Jack Eaton informed them they would be granted a use permit provided the sewage disposal system meets the approval of the county health department. A permit will be issued when the sanitarian notifies the board of adjustment that the sanitary facilities meet requirements, Eaton said.

The board also recommended screen planting and landscaping to enhance the property's appearance.

State Marriages, Births Increase; Divorces Drop

Portland — (UPI) — Marriages and births have increased in Oregon in 1960, according to the Oregon state board of health, but the divorce rate is on the decline.

In a report for the first three-quarters of the year, the board said 8,061 couples were married, compared to 7,718 at the same time last year. There were 28,959 babies born, 1,760 more than a year ago.

But the divorce rate for the same period dropped to 4,239, 223 fewer divorces than in the first nine months of 1959.

Accidental Deaths Up
The board said deaths from accidents in the state increased slightly, from 842 during the first nine months of 1959, to 853 this year. But the report listed a 9.7 per cent drop in motor vehicle accident fatalities, and a 19 per cent decline in occupational fatalities.

On the other hand, the board said, home and public accidents increased in 1960 over 1959. Home accidents rose from 157 to 182, while public accidents increased from 172 to 199.

The board said 74 of the home accident deaths were caused by falls, and 74 of the public accident fatalities were from drownings.

In the working category, the board said, manufacturing accidents increased slightly this year, but logging, con-

County Takes Over Recreation Area

The completed Howard Prairie recreation facilities were officially turned over to Jackson county on Nov. 18, County Judge Earl Miller said. The county has the responsibility for maintenance now that the bureau of reclamation has completed the work.

A total of $150,000 was expended for Howard Prairie and Emigrant lakes. Of the total $10,000 was allocated for Emigrant and will be used mostly for construction of a boat ramp.

The bureau constructed a concrete boat ramp and set up picnic tables and benches, and outdoor fireplaces at Howard Prairie. The county spent approximately $1,700 for construction of two showers and restrooms and $1,500 to widen the existing boat ramp.

County Shop Land Sold for Freeway
The Jackson county court signed an agreement last week with the state highway commission for a freeway right-of-way through the east side of the county shops area on Barnett rd.

The state highway commission will pay the county $7,057 for this small section of right-of-way for the new Pacific freeway. The paint building behind the main shop buildings will have to be removed to make room. The county court explained, but is being used very little now, anyway.
