Stock Prices Steady In Routine Dealing; Selling Hits Steels

New York — (UPI) — Stock prices steadied for the most part in generally routine dealings today.

Steels ran into some selling partly because mills have scheduled a further drop in operation this week. The decline places the rate at its lowest level for any non-holiday period this year.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic and Youngstown were mostly easier.

Reports that auto production in November reached the highest level for the month since November, 1955, failed to generate much interest in this department.

797 Ballots Said To Be Missing In Cook County

Chicago — (UPI) — Cook county politicians peered into two empty ballot boxes today for a clue to alleged vote scandals that could leave Illinois out of the Electoral College.

At least 797 ballots cast in two far South Side precincts were missing in a "discovery" recheck of Nov. 8 county voting. They included 628 marked for Sen. John F. Kennedy and 169 for Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

In the 86th Precincts of the 9th Ward, Kennedy beat Nixon 369 to 77. In the 56th Precinct of the 10th Ward, Kennedy won, 259 to 92.

Nixon's Gain Small

The boxes were opened Monday as three dozen teams conducted the Republican-financed recheck of Kennedy's lopsided county victory that helped the Democratic presidential candidate win the state's hotly-contested popular vote.

So far Nixon has gained fewer than one vote per precinct. He needs a per-precinct average of 10 votes in 906 county paper ballot precincts if the GOP hopes to use Cook county to overturn Kennedy's 8,656 statewide margin.

Chairman Sidney Holzman of the election commission said he didn't know where the missing ballots were. Another commission spokesman said they might turn up in a box of unused ballots and other election supplies.

Need Court Order

The "discovery" re-check has little more than publicity value, since official election board figures will stand unchanged unless a court orders a recount.

The empty ballot boxes, latest in a series of quirks in the Cook county vote, were sure to come to the attention of the GOP-dominated Illinois electoral board which was preparing to meet again at Springfield.

The board, headed by defeated GOP Gov. William G. Stratton, last week threatened to leave Illinois' vote uncertified, thus leaving the state's 27-vote bloc out of Electoral College counting.

Democrats have said a mandamus suit could force certification of Illinois' votes, and Democratic electors generally expected their votes to count.

Public Responds With Car Reports

Portland — (UPI) — The sheriff's office said today it had so many reports on red or maroon cars in connection with the investigation into the disappearance of a coed and the slaying of her boyfriend that it assigned one clerk to a full job of classifying them.

An all-points bulletin was put out earlier asking for information on a 1949 to 1951 model car of that color reported seen in the vicinity where Larry Ralph Peyton, 19, was slain and Beverly Ann Allan, sophomore at Washington State University, was abducted more than a week ago.

"The public response has been wonderful," said Capt. Gordon Auburn, chief of Multnomah county detectives. "There is tremendous interest in this case. It is cases like these which the public often helps break."

However, authorities reported no new promising lead.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allan, Monday returned to their home at Port Townsend, Wash.

from Chief Warrant Officer Mary Hall at Spring 3-3505. Those interested may attend a CAP meeting next Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the squadron's hall at the Medford airport.

Para-Medic Unit Interest Sought

Robert Howard Christensen, acting personnel officer for the Medford squadron, Civil Air Patrol, is attempting to establish a para-medical unit here.

Unit members would jump on rescue missions for down planer, particularly in inaccessible areas where lives might be saved due to the less time required in reaching injured victims.

Christensen said that he is personally trying to establish the unit which he hopes will eventually be a unit of the CAP here.

Persons in the unit would have to be experienced parachute jumpers and be trained in advanced first aid. There is no other CAP units like it in the United States Christensen said.

He added that jumpers would have to have about six weeks training in jumping in rough terrain.

Christensen explained that once the basic work in establishing the unit has been worked out Jack Sorenson, director of aerospace education, Hamilton Air Force base, Calif., plans to present the program to the CAP national officers.

Additional information on the proposal may be obtained from Christensen at 125 South Oakdale ave., Medford.

Police Report Minor Thefts in County

State police this morning reported a series of petty thefts.

A saddle was stolen from a barn at the Alfred Bendickson residence, 2478 East McAndrews rd., some time between Nov. 25 and 29, state police were told yesterday.

F. W. Christean, Central Point, reported that a ripper tooth was stolen from his D-8 Caterpillar tractor at a logging operation near the intersection of Elk Creek rd. and Crater Lake highway Sunday night. Value is estimated at $350.

Gus Priebe, 372 Garfield st., Medford, reported that during the week end tools and tires were taken from a graduate at his logging camp on Coleman Creek rd. where it joins the Ashland Loop rd.

QUAKE REPORTED

Rabat, Morocco — (UPI) — A light earthquake shook Rabat, Casablanca and Tangier Monday night for about 15 seconds, dimming electric lights and causing furniture to slide. No serious damage was reported.

School Attendance Jumps As Police Break Blockade

New Orleans — (UPI) — Scores of police, out to "prevent further disturbances," broke a white blockade around an integrated elementary school today and attendance jumped to 23 white students and a Negro girl.

A total of 91 police, many of them arriving in a chartered bus, set up blockades of their own and held the angry housewives leading the blockade away from William Frantz School.

The women's screams and jeers were barely audible at the school when parents began bringing their children in. All they could do was throw a couple of eggs at a newsman's car.

'No Alternative'

Police Superintendent Joseph Giarrusso said he ordered the new police action, toughest since the outbreaks of violence during the first week of integration, "because I have no alternative."

He said that sometime Monday, someone heavily damaged the home of the Rev. Andrew Foreman, leader of the white parents running the blockade of the "Cheerleaders," as the women hecklers are called.

Foreman, whose house near Frantz has been marked by signs so that the hecklers will know where to heckle, has not been home for several days. He is staying with friends.

Despite the attendance at Frantz today, highest since the second day of integration on Nov. 15, a white boycott remained complete at McDonogh 19 school. Three Negro girls have the building to themselves.

Coos County Demos Demand Pearson and Boiven Quit Party

Coos Bay — (UPI) — The Coos County Democratic Central Committee Monday night unanimously demanded that State Sen. Walter Pearson, (D-Portland), and Harry Boivin, (D-Klamath Falls), resign as Democrats and "register in a party which more nearly coincides with their philosophy of government."

The committee also demanded that Democratic State Senators conform to their campaign pledges to support the state Democratic platform, which it said calls for a caucus election of the Senate president.

The action supported State Chairman Robert Straub in his dispute with Pearson and Boivin over the manner in which the Senate president should be elected. A majority of Democrats support State Sen. Alfred Corbett, (D-Portland), but a majority of the state Senate, including the 10 Republicans and a minority of the 20 Democrats, have indicated support for Boivin.

The resolution said Boivin and Pearson "have by their conduct disregarded not only the will of the majority but the principles of the Democratic party."

It said Pearson, Boivin and their "Republican allies" seek "a program which consists of a sales tax, right to work laws, cutting health and welfare appropriations, a three-way workman's compensation law, very little improvement in the educational program and other legislation detrimental to the common people of Oregon."

Crescent City Man Faces Murder Trial

Gooding, Idaho — (UPI) — Roger Hall, 22, Crescent City, Calif., was to go on trial here in District Court today on a first-degree murder charge in the death of a Portland, Ore., man.

Hall is accused in the gunshot death of Dr. John Hunt, a plant pathologist who was killed while driving east to accept a position at Yale University in August, 1959. His body was found in his car in the desert near Bliss.

Mary Katherine Hampton, 18, Sandy Hook, Ky., also had been charged in the death but charges against her were dismissed earlier this month. The prosecution said it plans to use her as a witness.
