

DEMONSTRATION—A four-hour-long demonstration by University of Texas students, urging integration of movie houses near the campus at Austin, was held Monday. More than 200 students, both white and Negro, filed past the box office asking if "all their friends would be admitted to the movie. An unidentified Negro boy is being turned away. (UPI Telephoto)

Vacuum Cleaner Makers Accused

Washington—UPI—The Federal Trade Commission today accused the manufacturer of "Kirby" vacuum cleaners of using "scare tactics" and other unfair practices to promote the sale of its cleaners.

The FTC said the Scott & Fetzer Co., Cleveland, Ohio, was one of the largest vacuum cleaner manufacturers in the industry, with sales of more than $15 million in 1958.

The complaint charged the company tried to "scare" prospective purchasers by saying that the "Kirby" would correct a dangerous germ-infested condition of their rugs and mattresses.

HIS CHOICE

Stephenville, Tex. —UPI—It was either rugged individualism or voter apathy, but one balloter in Stephenville scratched all candidates for president, vice president and U.S. senator and wrote in: NBC news commentators Chet Huntley and David Brinkley, and Stephenville newspaper publisher Rufus Higgs.

Raking Leaves Can Get To Be Problem With Some Trees

Corvallis—You say your back feels like you've raked a million leaves this fall. You're probably right—and likely then some, say foresters and horticulturists at Oregon State college.

The average apple tree or maple, they point out, has in the neighborhood of 100,000 leaves. Cherry trees have a few more because they're usually larger; pear trees have about 10 to 15 per cent less.

But they can't hold a rake alongside an elm. It's estimated that some of those giant trees may have 1,000,000 leaves.

There's about a half-acre of leaf surface, by the way, on most hardwoods—oaks, madrones, sycamores, etc.

Just be thankful though that you don't have to rake Douglas fir needles. An average fir has about 3,000,000.

Products and Services Said To Be Better Than Ever Values

By HENRY J. BECHTOLD
UPI Financial Editor
New York —UPI—E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and Co. believes the price is right.

Henry Bechtold, a better buy today than they ever did in the past.

Living standards, as measured by the consumer's ability to buy the things he needs and wants, are the highest the world has ever known at any time or in any place, according to the booklet.

It describes the price structure as an inseparable part of the American economy, "an economy that is at once consumer-controlled and consumer-centered," and shows how the price structure evolved to meet the growing and changing needs of the American people.

More Money Available
Du Pont says prices on individual items may be higher today than they were in earlier times, but people have far more money to spend. Mechanization and industrialization have swiftly increased man's ability to produce the goods and services he needs, and thus have increased his buying power, it states in the 32-page illustrated booklet.

Operating on the premise that the customer is always right, the producer, distributor and vendor have made it their business to hold prices down and push values up, the booklet says.

Of course critics have been quick to note that such a consumer-centered economy is subject to abuses and to fanciful excursions, such as coon-skin caps, hula hoops and tailfins on automobiles.

But, the booklet declares, this indulgence in nonsense by the American consumer from time to time is the mark of a free and prosperous society.

The only alternative is an economy in which someone else—which has to mean the government—tells the consumer what is good for him, what he should buy, and what the price shall be.

This captive market approach has been tried in many nations, most notably in the modern world by the Soviet Union. But it has only resulted in higher prices, poorer values, gluts and shortages, and a low living standard.

Observing that America long ago chose to build its economy on a competitive base, with the price structure free from arbitrary control, the booklet notes, "it has never regretted its choice."

Missing Ring Found In Advertising Mail

Red Bank, N.J.—When Walter J. Bennett lost his wedding band at work, he wasn't too hopeful of seeing it again.

It turned up in Kokomo, Ind., where a factory superintendent found it in with some advertising brochures from the industrial firm.

Bennett, a multiple sclerosis victim, works at a center for the handicapped which has a contract to stuff envelopes with promotional literature for an industrial firm.

Bennett got his ring back.

Baptist Minister Honeymoons With Wife Number 13

Los Angeles—UPI—The Rev. Glenn Wolfe, 47, honeymooned for the 13th time today.

The often-married Baptist minister went through his 13th wedding Wednesday when he remarried wife No. 11, shapely Sherry Wolfe, 20.

Wolfe said he saw no ill omen from the No. 13.

"This one will be a happy marriage," said the minister and hotel owner.

"Sherry's now more mature and I think she knows what she wants," he said.

All his previous marriages have ended in either divorce or annulment.

The couple decided to forget their unsuccessful 30-day fling at matrimony two years ago and give marriage another try after hearing evangelist Billy Graham deliver a sermon Tuesday night in Las Vegas.

"When I got divorced I thought then that I would never get married again," said Mrs. Wolfe. "But after hearing him (Dr. Graham) I believe that I should do what the Lord would want me to do."

"The sermon made me realize I could either follow the

4-H Club News

Knitting Kittens

A recent meeting of the Knitting Kittens 4-H club was called to order by Vice President Ann Bowling in the absence of our president.

We made plans for our potluck dinner to which we have invited five other 4-H clubs. They each will provide a skit.

We were reminded to bring wide mouth jars with lids at the next meeting.

The secretary read an invitation from the Bobbing Bobbins 4-H Sewing club inviting the club to a Christmas party Dec. 10 at 1:30 p.m. at Kristy Chamberlain's home on Old Stage rd. Each member is to bring a gift of not more than 75 cents.

We decided to take a basket of fruit to an old folks home in Central Point. Each member was asked to bring one package of soft candy, one package of dried fruit or one path of satan by drinking and gambling or do something worthwhile," she said.

"I just knew she would decide to marry me again sometime if I just waited," said a happy Wolfe.

They left the evangelistic meeting and were married the next day, Wednesday, by the Rev. C. L. Coleman. Then they left Las Vegas to come here for a brief honeymoon before returning to the desert gambling resort.

Sam's Thumpers

The monthly meeting of Sam's Thumpers 4-H club was called to order by President Doug Day.

We set goals for the new year, and discussed record books.

At the last meeting we had election of officers. Those elected were Douglas Day, president; Kathy Ray, vice president and song leader; Steve Spring, secretary; and Mike Davis, reporter.

There was a motion that the meeting be adjourned. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ramos at whose home the meeting was held.

Mike Davis, Reporter.
