

Tuberculosis Can Be Eliminated By Chemotherapy

Washington (Science Service) Tuberculosis can be eliminated in the United States through drug treatment.

Dr. Edward T. Blomquist, chief of the tuberculosis branch, division of special health services, U. S. Public Health Service, has called for coordination between public health agencies and communities to stamp out TB.

Eradication of tuberculosis means killing the tubercle bacilli in persons now suffering from the active disease and in those who previously had TB and were inadequately treated. The proper dosage of appropriate drugs, such as isoniazid, over a period of time will make it impossible to communicate the disease to others and will lessen the possibility of recurrence in the patient.

Death Decline
Because the death rate for tuberculosis has declined enough so that many TB hospitals have been closed, Blomquist said that the public has interpreted this situation as evidence that tuberculosis services in general can be cut back.

Public health departments are in difficulty on this account, but Blomquist said that intercounty cooperation enabling the state health department to work out a state plan for TB treatment might be a solution.

"The amount of direct service or financial assistance the state gives is not an issue," he said. "Any state health department should be able to serve in a coordinating capacity."

Wall Street Chatter

New York (AP) — Unless a general rise in stock prices takes place in the near future, a testing and possible penetration of the market average lows set in October may easily result, according to Hemphill, Noyes & Co.

On the whole, the firm says, the picture does not look promising either for the short or intermediate term and there is a real danger that the long term trend will continue on downward at least into the first quarter of 1961.

Hemphill, Noyes therefore recommends a very cautious policy in the purchase of common stocks selecting only highly specialized situations.

E. F. Hutton & Co. has a recommended list of companies that are expected to benefit from their strong footholds in the Western European markets: American Express, Chesebrough-Pond's, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Coca-Cola, Corn Products, Gillette, International Tel & Tel, Johnson & Johnson, Merck, National Cash Register, Procter & Gamble and Quaker Oats.

Goodbody & Co. says there are reasons to doubt that the meal-in-a-glass business is going to become an important part of our daily life as suggested recently by an advertising trade publication. The most significant thing about this boomlet, Goodbody says is the indication it gives of the willingness of investors and speculators to buy whenever there is a reason that "seems" logical.

Trained Horses Get Logs Out of Forest

International Falls, Minn. — Gerald Wheelock and his nephew, Dean, have devised a form of automation to snake logs from the forest at their logging site near here. But they have to say "giddyap" to get it started.

They've trained a pair of horses to skid logs out of the woods along the 1,000-foot trail without benefit of reins or a driver. Gerald hooks the logs up to a horse No. 1, gives him a gentle pat and off the animal goes to the loading ramp.

When No. 1 arrives, Dean starts No. 2 back on the trail for another load. They say the two trained horses save the big expense of tractors and loaders to get the pulpwood logs out of the woods.

CANNY LADD
Edinburgh, Scotland (AP) — A canny lad who works for a milk company admitted in juvenile court Wednesday that he stole and drank 21 pints of milk. But the lad confessed that the milk came from a rival company.
