

Minister Threatened in New Orleans

New Orleans — (UPI) — The FBI launched an investigation today into an alleged threat "to get" a white Methodist minister who has permitted his daughter to attend an integrated school.

The Rev. Andrew Foreman has escorted his daughter, Pamela, to the William Frantz School daily since the school was integrated by one Negro girl.

When the Rev. Mr. Foreman picked up his daughter at the school Wednesday, a glowering man thrust his hand into the car window, poked the minister on the shoulder and snarled "We're going to get you, preacher."

First Personal Threat

It was the first face-to-face attempt at intimidation by a man thus far in the integration crisis here. Most of the insults and cat-calls before had come from the "Cheerleaders" — woman demonstrators opposed to integration.

The Rev. Mr. Foreman jumped out of the car after the man threatened him and asked police standing around a barricade to stop him, but the stranger disappeared before any attempt was made.

"I don't want my picture taken," Bordelon told Beatty.

Give No Details

W. W. Bromwell, the FBI agent in charge of the New Orleans office, said his office was checking into the alleged threat made to the Rev. Mr.

Foreman, but declined to give any details.

Velled threats and epithets such as "nigger lover" and "low white trash" finally forced a meter reader to abandon his new home here, James Gabrielle, whose daughter Yolanda, also has been attending school, announced he was preparing to leave town for Providence, R.I., where he lived before coming to the South.

Yolanda and Pamela were credited with breaking the boycott of the Frantz School.

National Council Of Churches Set To Elect Layman

San Francisco — (UPI) — The National Council of Churches was set today to elect a layman as its president for the first time in history.

He is J. Irwin Miller, 51, of Columbus, Ind., a multi-millionaire banker and industrialist who has served for the past three years on the National Council's policy-making general board.

Miller is a member of the Disciples of Christ denomination, which is known in some areas as the Christian Church. All previous presidents of the council have been ordained clergymen. The incumbent president is the Rev. Edwin T. Dahlberg, St. Louis Baptist pastor.

The formal election of the new president by the council's General Assembly was expected to take place today following action by the assembly on a "message to the churches."

The draft message presented to the assembly contained a strong plea for churches to work toward "full, visible unity" of the Christian family.

At the same time, it asserted that the National Council itself "must not become a super-church."

This language was the end product of a sharp backstage battle within the 42-member message drafting committee, headed by the Rev. Dr. Henry Pitney Van Dusen, president of Union Theological Seminary in New York.

Dr. Van Dusen joined with the Rev. Dr. Truman B. Duglass, a Congregationalist leader, in seeking to include in the message several proposals for giving more "churchly" functions to ecumenical organizations such as the National Council of Churches and its affiliated state and local church councils.

Sneeze Brings $70 In Compensation Pay

St. Paul — Donald Naylor got $70 in workmen's compensation because he sneezed.

The state industrial commission ordered the payment because dust in a granary made Naylor sneeze so hard that his $70 artificial tooth flew into a pile of grain and couldn't be found.

PAIR CAMERA SHY—Henry Lower, right, covers his face and Robert E. McCarthy, left, looks glum after being arrested in Detroit. Both men were indicted along with Teamster President James R. Hoffa by a federal grand jury in Orlando, Fla., on charges of committing mail fraud in the misuse of more than $500,000 in union funds.

Hoffa Keeps Silent On Misuse of Funds

Chicago — (UPI) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa maintained an icy silence today about charges he and two other men misused more than $500,000 in union funds to foist a Florida land scheme on union members.

The bantam president of the nation's largest union, who could be jailed for five years and fined up to $12,000 if convicted, stood by his statement Wednesday that "we'll try the case in court."

Indicted along with Hoffa by a federal grand jury at Orlando, Fla., were Henry Lower, 57, former president of a Detroit teamsters local, and Robert E. McCarthy Jr., 40, former branch manager of the Bank of the Commonwealth, Detroit.

The indictment named Lower as president of Sun Valley Inc., a 1954 Florida corporation which acquired lots for $18 apiece and offered to sell them to union members for $180 to $1,000.

The 12-count indictment said Hoffa and Lower controlled Sun Valley Inc., financed it with funds belonging to three Detroit teamsters locals and the Detroit Teamsters Joint Council, and attempted to defraud individual members by selling Florida lots said to be "all on high, dry and rolling land."

Actually, the indictment said, the lots "offered and sold" were so low and permeated with water as to make them unsuitable for construction of homes and dwellings.

Sun Valley Inc., has no connection with the Sun Valley, Idaho resort center.

Hoffa, free on $10,000 bonds, was scheduled for arraignment at 2 p.m. Friday.

Stocks Make Sharp Gains During Early Hours of Trading

New York — (UPI) — Stocks ran up some sharp gains in early trading today.

Du Pont, which showed a loss of 2 points on the first trade, had recovered nearly all of the loss by the end of the first hour. Steels also came alive with Republic up more than a point and Youngstown and Jones & Laughlin both up fractions.

The autos showed gains of around a half in American Motors, Ford, Chrysler and General Motors.

IBM picked up more than 2 points in the electronics where Beckman and Texas Instruments rose around 2 each. Carter Products spurred more than 1 in the drugs and Underwood more than 2 in the office equipments.

Getting Shoeshine Becomes Big Problem

Tucson, Ariz. — Getting a shoeshine turned into a big problem for a Tucson businessman.

A 13-year-old shoeshine boy kept missing the man's shoe and applying polish to a sock.

Finally, the customer offered the boy 10 cents to stop.

The boy became belligerent, tore a sliding screen door from its hinges and threatened to throw rocks through the customer's window.

FEED WARNING

College Station, Tex. — (UPI) — Farmers who insist on feeding frosted Johnson grass or sorghum to livestock before the feed is dry could harm their cattle seriously, Texas A&M College veterinarian Dr. C. M. Patterson warns.

Patterson said Johnson grass and sorghum are sometimes extremely high in dangerous prussic acid content after a frost.

Pet Pigeon Hates Pigeons, Loves People

Warren, Ohio — L. R. Marcus has a pet pigeon who hates pigeons and loves people.

Marcus found the pigeon with a broken foot and injured beak, and nursed him back to health.

Now, Marcus says, the pigeon follows the family like a pet dog, loves television, stays up to watch the late show and won't retire until the family does.

Marcus says the pigeon can open doors by flying against them and pushing with his feet, loves to ride in a car and barks at dogs, a trick he learned from the Marcus' family dog.

TIP ON HOLLY

Kent, O. — (UPI) — Planting a holly to achieve your own Christmas decorations of red and green hardly will be the berries unless both male and female specimens are on hand. Tree Expert Martin L. Davey Jr. says there should be at least one male tree (staminate) planted on the home grounds or nearby for every 10 female, berry-bearing (pistillate) ones. This will assure needed pollen for pollination. Shearing of holly for yuletide decoration will do no harm if done in moderation. Annual shearing will help keep them dense and attractive.
