TITLE ROLE LOST—France Nguyen, who was removed from the title role in the film version of "The World of Suzie Wong," is shown with Robert Mitchum, her costar in "The Last Time I Saw Archie." France was fired from the "Suzie" role for "sickness and temperament." At the time she was going through an emotional turmoil involving boyfriend Marlon Brando. A member of the company said she had grown too fat for the role. (UPI Telephoto)

Chinese-French Star
Able to Create News
Even Without Trying

Hollywood — France Nguyen, half Chinese, half French, is the kind of girl who makes news even when she doesn't try.
Her stormy romance with Marlon Brando stirred things up earlier this year, as did her removal from the title role in the film version of "The World of Suzie Wong."
France will talk about "Suzie Wong" but mention

Sister Ground
Still not pleased, but on sister ground, France said, "I created the role of Suzie, and I would like to have nursed the part along in the picture.
But it did not work out that way."
Well, what about being booted from "Suzie Wong?" after several months in the role, including a junkie to Hong Kong for location shooting?

Statistics Show
Air Travel Is As Safe As Ever
Washington (Science Service)—Flying in the U.S. on a scheduled U.S. airliner is about as safe as ever and far safer than driving, despite the mid-air collision and ground hollowness that took the lives of at least 127 persons in New York.
The Civil Aeronautics board here said 359 persons, 314 passengers and 45 crew, have been killed so far this year in airplane accidents on regularly scheduled and supplementary lines, excluding the New York crash. The number of passengers carried is estimated at more than 55 million.
Even before the recent mid-air collision, however, 1960 was a bad year compared to 1959. Last year 332 persons died in airline crashes, 271 passengers and 61 crew. This makes a rate of less than one person killed for every 100, 000 passenger miles flown.
For each 100 million passenger miles driven in automobiles and taxis, there are nearly three deaths. Even the new fatalities added by the New York crash will not bring the 1960 total anywhere near the ground vehicle figure.
The worst airplane accident on record, which took the lives of 128 persons in a mid-air collision over Grand Canyon on June 30, 1956, was also of two planes from United Airlines and TWA.
France takes herself and her work seriously. Her dismissal from the "Suzie" role hurt. She was fired from the part for "sickness and temperament." At the time she was going through an emotional turmoil involving her friend Brando. A member of the company said she had grown too fat for the role.
"That is all behind me now," France said smiling.
"Now I am interested in the future."

Liquid Sodium Used
For Cooling Reactor

Washington (Science Service)—A new nuclear reactor using liquid sodium as a coolant and graphite as the moderator shows promise of competing successfully with conventional power plants, R. E.
Durand of Atomic Energy International, Canoga Park, Calif., told the American Institute of Chemical Engineers meeting.
The 1,600 degree Fahrenheit boiling point of sodium permits operation in the neighborhood of 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Thus, superheated steam is generated with relative ease.
Chinese archaeologists have found the remains of a dinosaur believed to be 120 million years old near the Karamal Mountains, in Sinkiang province.
