Ex-Rogue Forest Ranger Transferred

Portland—Reassignment of two forest officers in the Pacific Northwest Region of the U.S. forest service has been announced by J. Herbert Stone, regional forester, Portland.

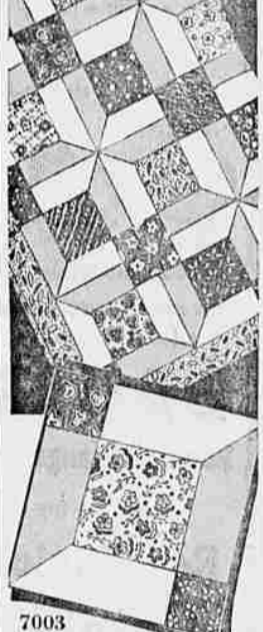

Effective Jan. 8, William F. Cummins will transfer from the Ochoco National forest headquarters at Prineville, to the division of fire control in the regional office where he will work on fire trespass and law enforcement.

Effective the same date, Pat N. Wick of the regional office will fill the Ochoco position being vacated by Cummins. Cummins has been on the Ochoco National forest supervisor's staff as fire control and land use officer. Wick has been an information officer in the division of information and education in the Portland office since 1957.

Cummins began forest service work on the Rogue River National forest in 1926.

Stroudsburg, Pa.—UPI—Thomas Lincoln Waring, 58, brother of orchestra leader Fred Waring, died Thursday.

LIBRARY GALLERY—A special panel of the display of paintings was recently installed in the Public Library of Medford. The panel, made of insulating board covered with burlap, is easy to fasten the paintings to and will not show nail holes. The panel is large enough to display eight to 12 paintings at a time, ing while Librarian Omar Bacon and Mrs. Jack Mitchell, chairman of the exhibit project, look on. The new panel, made of insulating board covered with burlap, is easy to fasten the paintings to and will not show nail holes. The panel is large enough to display eight to 12 paintings at a time, Johnson said.

OF SMITH & MEN

By Jack Smith
(c) 1960 — Times-Mirror Syndicate

The year being at an end, it is time once again to answer my mail.

I try to answer every letter during the year, especially those that aren't written by people who are under the impression they are writing to smiling Jack Smith, or whispering Jack Smith, or some fellow they loaned a fin to at the World's Fair in 1935.

Unfortunately, I am always putting letters aside in unlikely places for safekeeping and they don't turn up until December, when I go through my desk, my sock-and-underwear drawer, my pockets.

I'd like to acknowledge some I may have missed.

Thanks to a lady in Pasadena, Calif., for a postcard advising that if you freeze Brazil nuts you can crack the shell without breaking the meat.

She also pointed out that if I wore wool or nylon socks I wouldn't have to wear garters. That is a lot of good advice to get on one 3-cent postcard.

A man named Smith wrote from the Hotel Phinns, Bana-gaards-pladsen, Aalborg, Denmark.

Family Council

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Mrs. D.N. — I wish my son would get married.

Anthony N. — Why look for trouble? This way I have no problems.

Mrs. D.N. — Tony is 33 years old. Even though I'm his mother, I can describe him as tall, dark and handsome. With a good job as a news photographer, he'd certainly be a catch for some young lady.

But nothing happens. This one's too skinny, that one's too dumb, this one's too expensive, that one's got hay fever. He's taken dozens of lovely girls out and you'd think he'd run out of reasons for dropping them. But no, Tony seems to be looking for some creature that's in his mind, or in heaven, but not yet on earth.

He can't live with me forever. His friends are all married. Why doesn't he look to the future, and then close one eye and pick somebody?

Anthony N. — Aren't there some people who are better off unmarried? I'm satisfied the way things are. If I were to force myself to marry for my mother's sake, I might be making her happy but I'd be making myself and some innocent girl miserable.

I love my work and it requires freedom. I must be able to go up and go to Mexico or Japan or wherever a juicy assignment calls me. I'd be a terrible husband. I'm just not the type.

At present, I have no problems. I'm enjoying most of the comforts my married friends have, plus my independence. As to the future, my mother shouldn't worry. She knows I make the best pot roast in the family!

The Council: Despite Anthony's confident boast that he has no problems, they seem to be sticking out like pin feathers in an inadequate ticking.

The biggest is his refusal to admit he has 'em! We all do. Only the dead and the deranged can escape them. His only choice in the matter is which set of problems he prefers.

Next comes the problem of facing problems — examining

Scientists Discuss Psychological Diet To Reduce Weight

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor
New York — Scientific psychological dieting was expounded at 1960's last science meeting today.

It's a lot of trouble but it takes far off people permanently which can't be said in instances for dieting with calories, where liquid, egg and celery or whatever.

The idea is to create in one's self a psychological aversion to eating too often, too much and to ever eating the things which many consider the most delicious of all — the luscious piece of pie and ice cream with the goo on top.

We're sorry to stir up the calm seas of Tony's rationalizations. But the seas are calm only because the sun is shining right now on an attractive man of 33 with a good job and an indulgent mother. Mrs. N. is right in urging her son to look ahead. A good pot roast isn't sufficient storm equipment.

Tony may well remain single. He can get ear plugs to silence Mom. He can even hand her that "no problems" bit as his reason. But he can't kid himself. Whether he marries or not, his decision must be based upon true self-knowledge, self-understanding and self-acceptance. Then he will realize that he's not avoiding problems but merely swapping them for an assortment he can cope with.

In grappling with the pros and cons of marriage for himself, Tony will have to answer questions such as these: Am I unmarriageable? If so, why? Is my temperament? My needs and goals in life? Or is it an inability to "give" to share? Is it a fear of failure? Or a fear of rejection? Is there a mother-son impasse? Or is it just that I don't know yet what I require in a mate?

Tony's problems require answers, not denial. And a good "catch" has plenty of problems whether he ever gets "caught" or not.

Dr. C. B. Ferster of Indiana University unfurled a full-blown psychological technique for thinning the plump and the fat at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Details remain to be worked out but the basic means have been proved.

He and his colleagues, Drs. John I. Nurnberger and Eugene E. Levitt, experimented with four self-consciously overweight women. They began with the one fundamental Ferster made no enthusiastic claims for the technique. In the main, he wanted colleagues to take it up and work out the details which could become an effective weapon in America's No. 1 health problem, life-shortening, sickness-inviting obesity.

Funeral Saturday for President Polk's Kin

Portland—UPI—Services will be held Saturday for Walter P. Ramsey, great-grand-nephew of President Polk, who died here Tuesday at the age of 59.

Ramsey served as commodore of convoys in the Atlantic in World War II. He was a former professor of naval science and tactics at the University of Washington, and was vice president of the Navy League.

thing which eating is, namely a simple reflex. Food is placed in the mouth. Reflexively mouth juices flow and the stomach prepares itself for business.

People All Different

Unhappily for the science of psychology people are all different. The technique will have to be more or less individually tailored to individuals, and by qualified psychologists. Ferster gave one example of how it worked in one woman. She was conditioned to think of her husband sneering at the fat on a female passer-by as she took her first mouthful.

Ferster made no enthusiastic claims for the technique. In the main, he wanted colleagues to take it up and work out the details which could become an effective weapon in America's No. 1 health problem, life-shortening, sickness-inviting obesity.
