The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez

"POOR CIRCULATION" Many people ask me to write them about their "poor circulation," and what to do for it and I have to say regretfully that I am not sure what they mean. They are using a vague layman's term, rather than a definite medical one; and this leaves me puzzled. If a physician were to tell me of a person who had an "impaired circulation," I could imagine a poorly acting heart with shortness of breath, blue lips and swollen ankles; but I suspect that the person who writes me about poor circulation just feels below par, perhaps with cold hands and feet. Without knowing much more about him, I cannot guess how he can be helped.

Which reminds me how often I am distressed because I cannot answer the nice person who writes me asking how to treat his neuralgia, his eczema, his asthma, his cough, his itchiness, or his swollen ankles. It distresses me not to answer him (or her) but I just cannot guess what his (or her) layman's term means—in his particular case.

For instance; the woman with a neuralgia may have a little tumor on a nerve, or the douloureux, or a Horton's headache, or a severe migraine, or a sinus full of filling, or a tooth dead due to filling, or a mental upset due to her husband's chasing after a blonde, or a dozen other troubles. The treatment for one condition is no good for another, so why should I start guessing. If I could see the patient, I might have to study her for several days, perhaps with the help of other specialists before I could make a diagnosis.

Hence, good people, if you write me and do not get an answer, one reason may be that, on that day, 100 letters came in, or I was away for a week lecturing, or without studying you, I just cannot guess what is wrong.

Every week I get letters from good people who tried to write out for me the diagnoses their doctors gave. I do my best to read them, but often I cannot guess what the doctors said. To illustrate: A woman just wrote that the doctor said her son has "infectious mononucleosis." For a native, that is so easy I can guess what it is—"infectious mononucleosis!" But in many others I just cannot guess.

Often I know that when I do answer a letter, but I can write only one or two sentences, the person must be terribly disappointed or even angry. To those people I would like to say, imagine yourself on an extremely busy day—and I am a very busy man—imagine yourself, in what little spare time you have, trying to answer perhaps 50 letters, many of them several pages long. You just could not do it.

If I were writing an "advice to the lovelorn" column, I could hire six women to answer my mail, but with a doctor's column, I cannot do this. Most of the questions are such technical ones that only a doctor with many years of

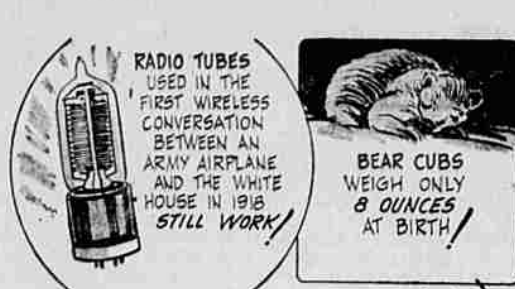

Science Shrinks Piles

New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, gently applying the new substance (Bio-Dyne) has resulted in actual reduction (and cure) of the piles. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The cure is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form (and the name "Preparation 19," At all drug counters.
