Cars Collide - Cars operated by David Edward Elgin, 16, of 1221 Wilmington st., and Mary Josephine Victoria Tay-ner, 77, Ashland, collided age to both cars was extensive. There was no reported injuries, and no citations were Driver Cited - City police lation of the basic rule after a vehicle operated by Fogle struck the rear of another car knocking it into a third car.

There were no injuries. The about 5:30 p.m. on Highway 99 in front of 2054 North Pacific highway. Drivers of the and William Claude Chase, 17, of 5293 Table Rock rd., Central Point.

But today it was learned that although Ben-Gurion agreed to retract his charge of committee bias, he still included the words "half-truths" and "miscarriage of justice" in his remarks about the case.

Ben-Gurion, 74, previously had threatened to resign. Then he agreed to revise his criticism of a cabinet committee which cleared former Defense Minister Pinhas Lavan of responsibility for a 1954 "security mishap." Details of the "mishap" never have been disclosed.

Below the eye, on each side of the head is a tiny horn, extending out and down. In some species, such as the buffalo hopper, the horns are pronounced, causing the little bug to somewhat resemble a buffalo; a buffalo reduced to the size of a pea.

The treehoppers are sap suckers. They are so cleverly designed, and so faithfully colored that they are seldom seen. They sit motionless on a twig and are mistaken for a thorn. Removed from their perch in a group they cling to one another and form an irregular lump with spines out in every direction. The body is brown or greenish in color with a contrasting band of color edging the body and the high peak.

The female treehopper deposits her eggs in two curved slits which she cuts in the bark of the tree or shrub. The ends of the curve overlap the intervening circle of bark, which dies and gives the appearance of a circular cut.

Remove the treehopper from his limb and he hops frantically. Some species can fly, making a sharp, buzzing sound.

The treehoppers are harmless and seldom become so plentiful as to be a problem.
They came by their common name in a sort of roundabout way, for they do hop. They can throw their little bodies into the air to the height of six or eight inches. That does not seem like much unless we consider the size of the little bug, but it represents about 32 times his own height. If a man could perform as well, he could leap over a 12-story building.

Even though the treehopper has a profile resembling a triangle, he is still about the true facts. These little clowns of the insect world actually are ridiculous. They couldn't be any more peculiar if they had planned it. They are fantastic, grotesque and luducrous. They look like something that didn't turn out right.

The biggest one you will ever find is well under a half inch long, and his arched back is about as high as his body is long. The back-arch ends in a sharp point. Viewed from the side this projection makes the insect look like a tiny sail boat. Viewed from a close range the entire "bug" resembles the thorn on a rose bush.

Of course this is not his only peculiarity, for the tree-hopper has black, beady eyes set far apart and arranged on its little head in such a manner that it appears to be wearing a pair of spectacles. If you look closely you can almost see a gleam of seeming intelligence in them.

GOOD ADVERTISING REALLY SELLS!

When you tell them, they know. But when you sell them, they buy! And buying makes the difference in your business profits.

Apply this same thinking to your advertising.
A listing in a business directory tells the public that you're in business. A timely, pointed ad in the Mail Tribune Classified Section tells 'em... and sells 'em! A Want Ad shows the customers that you have what they want right now... and gives them good reasons for buying it right now.

When you have something to sell... use the advertising medium that knows the difference between telling and selling. Use the Want Ads
... they make the profitable difference!
