Locals

Faucet Breaks - City firemen were summoned about 7:15 a.m. yesterday when a faucet broke loose in the kitchen at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Lilly, 920 North Central ave., flooding the floor. Firemen shut off the water, fixed the faucet and removed the water.

Great Books - The Great Books discussion group will meet at 7:45 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 19, in the public meeting room of the Public Library of Medford and Jackson county. Selection for discussion this week is Shakespeare's "King Lear."

Rack Missing - Edward Joseph Ralton, 1424 Fortune dr., notified city police early today that a newspaper rack was missing from the Port O'Call. It valued at $15 and contained approximately $2 in change.

Surgery Patients - Mrs. Olive M. Floyd, 720 North Third st., Central Point; John Briner, Prospect; and Mrs. Franklin L. Lybeck, 733 NE Wharton dr., Grants Pass, were listed today as surgery patients at Sacred Heart hospital.

In Hospital - Kathy Ann Newton, 15-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Newton, Yreka, Calif.; Mrs. Christian J. Kenney, 101 Main st., Jacksonville; and Patrick E. Masterson, Port Orford, Ore., were listed as medical patients today at Sacred Heart hospital.

Smoke Reported - A report of smoke at the Medical Center building, 33 North Central ave., was investigated by firemen about 9:40 p.m. yesterday. Firemen said that they found no fire and that the person giving the alarm must have mistaken a neon sign in the fog for fire.

Lost Items Found - Several items were found apparently lost at Howard Prairie lake during the week end, have been found and are waiting to be claimed in the city recreation department at the Medford city hall. The items include a jacket, a glove, a pair of shoes and a set of car keys.

Attempted Entry - City police were notified Tuesday morning that someone attempted to break into the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, 42 North Front st., sometime during the night. The front door and jamb had been mutilated, according to police, but entry was not gained to the building.

Wall Burned - Fire starting from the flue burned an 8 by 10-foot area of wall and ceiling this morning at the home of Lawrence G. Crowe, 718 Welch st., firemen reported. There was minor smoke damage through the house. Firemen responded to a fire here about 5:15 p.m. yesterday at the home of Robert Organ, 1208 Mt. Pitt ave.

Correction - A story in the Mail Tribune yesterday said that the member credit bureau of the Associated Credit Bureaus of America are the only credit bureaus recognized by the federal government. This was incorrect. What the store should have said is that the Credit Bureau of Medford is the only credit bureau here which is recognized by the Associated Credit Bureaus of America.

Chin Up Meeting - Members of Jackson county chapter 4, Chin Up club, will meet Friday at 8 p.m. at the Girls Community club, 229 North Bartlett st. Entertainment will be provided by Joan Isham, vocalist from Southern Oregon college. Club officers said all handicapped persons, or anyone interested in the handicapped, are invited.

Mrs. Harriett Inlow - Graveside services for Mrs. Harriett Inlow, 95, of 918 Maple Park dr., will be held at the Medford IOOF cemetery Friday morning at 10:30 a.m. Capt. Showdown Comes On Plan To Add To Rules Committee

Washington - Like two stern gunmen in a Western movie, Speaker Sam Rayburn, and Rep. Howard W. Smith faced each other today in a showdown over which will decide the fate of New Frontier legislation in the House.

The scene was a closed-door caucus expected to draw nearly all of the 262 Democratic congressmen. Up for a vote was Rayburn's plan to add three members to the House Rules Committee to break the GOP-Southern Democratic conservative coalition which controls the panel and in the past has killed welfare economic legislation similar to the bills President-elect John F. Kennedy wants. Vote forecast declined.

Smith, a Virginia Democrat who heads the committee and leads the coalition, declined to forecast how many votes he would be able to muster against Rayburn's plan. But he said Republicans would decide the matter before the full House, probably next week.

Legislative Briefs

Salem - Oregon is "quarantining" itself from new industry because of the continuing Portland newspaper strike, Rep. Sidney Bazett (R-Grants Pass) told the Senate committee on Planning and Development Tuesday.

Bazett said the strike is acting as a deterrent to new industries which consider good labor relations a major factor in picking a location.

Salem - An executive session of the Joint Ways and Means committee will be held Thursday night at which agreement on principle and machinery for increasing state salaries will be sought. Co-Chairmen Daniel A. Thiel (D-Astoria) and Rep. Clarence Barton (D-Coquille) said they did not expect the meeting to bring a committee commitment but that it was hoped a better understanding of how the executive department plans to effect the increases could be arrived at.

Ashland Council Favors Plans For Study To Boost Filtration

Ashland - The Ashland city council last night agreed to have preliminary plans made by a Corvallis engineering firm to increase the volume of water flowing through the city water filtration system.

The council also considered two proposals which are directed at cutting the number of committees presently existing. City Superintendent Elmer Biegel presented a request that the council approve a preliminary study of increasing the filtered water flow.

Biegel said, "For some time I have been discussing with the engineering firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield, the possibilities of increasing the flow through our filter plant. Our plant was at its full capacity in the summer and there is no reserve left."

"It is possible to increase the capacity of the plant in stages to capacities of 10, 15, 20 and 25 million gallons per day without major changes in the concrete structures," Biegel continued.

"Changes in the piping, filter media, filter control and chemical feed control techniques will, of course, be necessary to reach the ultimate capacity of 25 million gallons per day. However, the changes can be made in stages as the city's requirements increase," he said.

According to Biegel, the following engineering work will have to be done: 1. Check the hydraulics of the plant from the raw water intake to the clear well. 2. Develop preliminary plans for increasing the plant capacity in stages to capacities of 10, 15, 20 and 25 million gallons per day. 3. Prepare cost estimates of the 10 and 15 million gallon expansion. 4. Cost of work would be on a per day rate not to exceed $1,400, Biegel said.

Biegel told the council present filtration facilities can handle a maximum of eight million gallons per day. In proposing a council committee reorganization, two plans were presented by Biegel. The first would divide the council into two committees only - finance and utilities, and public protection and miscellaneous. The second would divide the council into three committees - finance and utilities, public protection and miscellaneous, and fire, street, traffic, sanitation, ordinance and miscellaneous departments.

Under this setup the revenue departments would be combined under one committee. All other phases of city government would be combined under the other committee. The committees would consist of three members each and be appointed by the mayor. Under the second reorganization plan all standing council committees would be abolished. The council as a whole would act on all matters in any department. Two Committees There would be two committees - finance and executive. The committees would consist of two members each and they would serve for two months, after which two new members would be appointed. In this way, each councilman would serve on each committee four months each year. The finance committee would approve all bills before presenting them to the council. The executive committee would be made up of the mayor and two councilmen. The duties of the committee would be to advise the mayor and pass on problems that arise between council meetings. Special committees would be appointed to study special problems. After the work of the special committee was accomplished the committee would be disbanded. Reports would be channeled through the office of the city superintendent and given to all members of the council. Place Proposals on Agenda Council members voted to place the proposals on the agenda for the next council meeting Feb. 7. In other action, the council voted to purchase property owned by Don Sworn bordering the cemetery for $10,500. Feb. 7 was the date set for a hearing on curbing, paving and guttering Seenic dr. from Wimer to the curve south of Manzanita st. The hearing will be held at 8 p.m. in the council chambers. Biegel said gasoline bids for operation of city vehicles would be opened at a special council meeting Jan. 24 at 5 p.m. Bidding on three cars and three pickup trucks will be opened at the Feb. 7 council meeting.

The council heard a request by Goldy York for city water on property he owns 75 feet outside the city limits on Normal ave. The request was referred to the water committee for further study.
