

Korean Student Visitor; Attends California School

Wha Ja Chung of Seoul, Korea, was a recent guest in Medford before continuing to Los Angeles to enroll in the University of California at Los Angeles, is being sponsored for her stay here by the Hineslys.

The Korean student, who has enrolled in fine arts courses in preparation for becoming an interior decorator, will be the Hineslys' "foster daughter" during her stay in this country. Only through this type of sponsorship is a Korean student enabled to enroll in a school in the United States.

Wha Ja Chung, who formerly attended school at Ewha Women's university in Korea, became acquainted with the Medford couple through In Suck Bak, Korean student attending Southern Oregon college at Ashland. She flew to the United States by Pan-American Airways, making the trip by way of Tokyo. She plans to remain in the United States until her course is completed, and will spend vacations with the Hineslys.

The student's mother is Chang Soon Jhu, who is vice president of an insurance firm in Seoul. Her husband was an officer in the firm before his death. Wha Ja Chung has two brothers and a sister, and reports that one of her brothers is also anxious to be able to attend school in the United States. The visiting student learned English under American teachers at her school in Korea, and also speaks French.

Mr. Hinesly, also in the insurance business, has been interested in the Korean people for many years, and has a number of Korean friends.

Head of Ashland Festival Describes Theater Visits

Ashland - Highlights of a six-month tour across Canada to England and the continent were shared with Ashland Soporistic club members Friday night when Angus L. Bowmer, founder-director of the Oregon Shakespearean Festival, was luncheon speaker.

Traveling companions for most of the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Almus Pruitt, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Allen Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Miller. The Southern Oregon college professor and his wife, Gertrude, went to Canada and the east coast before sailing to England.

The Southern Oregon double foursome met in London and for most of their journeys in Europe traveled by Volkswagen station wagon, dubbed "The Blunderbus."

The speaker confined his talk to the Shakespearean theaters visited, beginning with Stratford, Ont. This theater, more Greek than Shakespearean in appearance, "holds tremendous excitement for the audience, equalled only by the Old Vic in London and our own in Ashland," Bowmer declared.

It was there that he saw Julie Harris as Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet." He described the Canadian town with its streets and parks named for Shakespearean characters and places as "a dream come true."

At Stratford, Conn., where Katherine Hepburn was playing Viola in "Twelfth Night," the Bowmers renewed acquaintance with seven former members of the Ashland Festival company.
