Thanks, Folks!

for all the nice things you've been saying about Brookhurst. In less than two years your enthusiastic response has made it one of the fastest growing subdivisions in southern Oregon.

Many compliments concern its location—along a scenic ridge in the cleanest, freshest part of the city, directly between Medford's newest Grade School and new High School site. Everyone likes its completeness—paved streets, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, city water, sewer and gas line.

Others admire the quality of its homes, restrictions which assure a fine residential area, the generous-sized lots with trees, and many other features.

If you haven't been by lately, drop around and see why folks enjoy living on Easy Street. If you're interested in a new home, stop and talk with any of the fine contractors there. They'll gladly help you with your home plans and financing. There are no fees nor commissions, they'll figure the actual costs as close as possible, and there just isn't any way for you to get a better home for the money. THAT'S WHY WE SAY...

WOMEN JURORS

Lansing—Michigan was the first state to let women serve on juries, the act passed in 1915. Maine and Utah legislatures followed shortly thereafter with similar enabling acts.
