

LUMUMBA DEATH TOUCHES OFF MOBS

Belgian Offices In Belgrade, Moscow Stormed

Crowds Go Through Heavy Police Lines

London—UPI—Mobs stormed the Belgian embassies in Belgrade and Moscow today in a wave of widespread violence touched off by the death of former Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The Yugoslav Tanjug news agency reported that at Belgrade a "large number" of an estimated crowd of 30,000 broke through a heavy police cordon, smashed their way into the embassy building and threw furniture into the streets. The demonstrators also set fire to an official car in front of the embassy.

No Serious Damage
Another crowd broke through a heavy guard around the French Embassy in Belgrade, hurling stones which broke windows. But police reported there was no serious damage.

In Moscow, thousands of African and Asian students and Russian rioters attacked the Belgian Embassy three times. They skinned with police, hurled bricks and ink bottles, and smashed embassy windows and a glass porch door before being dispersed.

In the Congo, Katanga Province President Moise Tshombe blamed the United Nations for bringing civil war and a blood bath to that country through its intervention.

In New Delhi, African students burst into the Belgian Embassy while officials were out to lunch. They wrecked office furniture, overturned files and smashed a picture of King Baudouin of the Belgians.

The students, carrying banners reading "Down with Yankee imperialism" moved on to the U.S. Embassy in New Delhi. Three carloads of police raced to head them off. But security guards locked the embassy while an American official spoke with 10 of the students inside. They left peacefully.

In Lahore, Pakistan, 20 placard-carrying, slogan-shouting African students studying in Lahore, Lyallpur and Rawalpindi demonstrated in front of the U.S. Consulate General there to protest Lumumba's death. They handed over to Consul General Andrew Corry a memorandum addressed to President Kennedy.

"We strongly condemn the United States government for the part it is playing in engineering United Nations activities in the Congo which ended in the barbaric murder" of Lumumba, the memorandum said.

"Discrimination as practiced in the United States will not be allowed in Africa," it added.

Assault Case Is Dismissed in Court

The case against Martin David Wilkinson, White City domiciliary, who was charged with assault, was dismissed in Jackson county circuit court this morning.

Before the jury was seated, District Attorney Alan B. Holmes told Circuit Judge James M. Main that authorities are still unable to locate the chief witness, John C. Logie, 57-year-old transient.

Forrest Conrad Armstrong, White City domiciliary, the victim, is in a Portland veterans hospital with pulmonary tuberculosis and is unable to leave the hospital, Holmes said.

Wilkinson was charged with assaulting Armstrong with a broken bottle last Nov. 14.

Rayburn Says Economic Situation 'Most Urgent Since Depression'

Willamette River Crests; Flood Threat Seen Over

Body Recovered From Johnson Creek

Portland—UPI—The Willamette river crested a foot above flood stage here early today and was back in its banks in the valley.

Heavy rains which hit Western Oregon off and on for the past several days had let up and forecasters were hopeful the threat of more flooding had passed.

Some Docks Awash

There was no serious flooding here although some lower docks were awash. The Willamette was at 16.8 in Corvallis, 17.6 in Albany and 19.1 in Salem. It had gone over the 20-foot flood stage at the three cities earlier.

North Bend had 1.24 inches of rain in the 24 hours ending early today but the fall at other stations was far under this.

The body of Richard Boettcher, 7, one of three victims of last week's floods, was recovered from Johnson creek Monday afternoon.

Police at Oregon City Monday picking up four adventurous youths who said they were going to shoot the Willamette river falls in a rubber life raft. A large crowd had gathered.

A slide still slowed traffic on Highway 99 south of Cottage Grove and other slides delayed traffic south of Bandon and north of Florence on Highway 101.

Pollution Problem To Be Considered

The problem of air and stream pollution at Gold Hill was to be considered at a meeting of the county court with public health officials this afternoon.

The city council of Gold Hill is seeking the active support and cooperation of the county court in solving the problem.

Chief Sanitarian Orle Moore said the stream pollution problem involves the entire valley floor and not just those communities or people living along the Rogue river.

Gold Hill charges that streams flowing into the Rogue river near Gold Hill are being polluted by septic tank and cess pool effluent, and garbage disposal near the banks of the Rogue river. This is endangering the domestic water supply drawn from the river, according to the city's resolution.

The town also charges that the Ideal Cement company plant at the west city limits is polluting the air with dust.

Friends of Library Elect Heffernan

The Friends of the Library, a group organized to promote library use and service, met at the Medford library last night and elected Robert Heffernan, Medford attorney, as their chairman.

The group was recently organized and is open to any interested person. Twenty-three members attended last night's meeting.

Other officers elected last night were Mrs. Harry Danielson, vice chairman, and Mrs. Curtis Nesheim, secretary.

The group also elected a 14-member board of directors which includes representation from all parts of the county.

The Friends of the Library started work on two special projects. One of these is to obtain an overhead projector for bed-ridden patients, and the other is to provide library service to nursing homes.

Preliminary arrangements were also made to promote National Library week, April 22 to 27, and the State Library convention to be held in Medford April 27 to 29.

RUSSIA NOT TO RECOGNIZE DAG

Moscow—UPI—The Soviet Union said today it no longer will recognize Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold "as an official of the United Nations."

The decision was disclosed in a statement issued here. The Soviets also demanded Hammarskjold's removal, an end to the U.N. operation in the Congo in a month, recognition of the "legitimate government" of the Congo headed by Antoine Gizenga, condemnation of Belgium and the arrest of Katanga Province President Moise Tshombe and Congolese army strongman Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu for the slaying of former Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The Russians demanded in the statement that the "so-called United Nations operation in the Congo be completed and all foreign troops withdrawn from the country in a month."

The statement added that this would give the Congo people time "to settle their domestic affairs themselves."

Sections of Budget For County Schools Approved by Group

The total for the overall budget for the Jackson county school superintendent's office will probably be decided March 6, County School Superintendent Alf B. Mekvold said today.

Then the rural school budget committee will have worked out the details of, and budget outline for, the proposed able and gifted child program. This is now being drawn up by a special committee of Jackson county educators. Essentially, it is a program to provide additional education for students who work beyond their grade levels.

Last night the budget committee approved all sections of the county school superintendent's overall budget presented, except salaries and travel allowances, and the proposed speech correction program.

Extensive Revision
Following extensive revision by the county school office, the committee approved the budget total of $71,530.83 for the curriculum materials center, exclusive of salaries.

The new total is $21,028.93

The committee tabled for this year the speech correction program allocation. Dealous Cox, county administrative assistant, recommended tabling the allocation. State reimbursement for this new program would not be available until six months until after the school year ends, he pointed out.

The committee also approved, following some minor revisions, a total of $7,199.85 for the county superintendent's office. This does not include travel and salary allocations.

Four Youths Held For Vagrancy

Four youths, who apparently thought it would be fun to follow a police car for a change, were arrested by Medford police last night on a charge of vagrancy. One of the youths was additionally charged with resisting arrest.

Arrested were Charles Bryson La Casse, 18, of 424 Oakdale st., Central Point; Floyd Dean Pate, 21, North Bend; Donald Arland Langston, 20, of 508 1/2 Edwards st., Medford and a 17-year-old youth.

The minor was lodged in the county juvenile detention home. The other three youths entered pleas of innocent in municipal court this morning to the vagrancy charges. A trial date was set for Feb. 20. All three youths are being held in the city jail in lieu of $10 bail.

La Casse entered a plea of guilty to the charge of resisting arrest and was sentenced to two days in the city jail.

The arrests came after a Medford police officer on routine patrol this morning spotted a car containing the youths following his patrol car in the west Medford area.

The officer stopped the youths and took them to the police station where they were arrested.

Police said La Casse refused to be placed in jail and he had to be forcibly lodged.

Both said legal evidence indicated the board's power to order sterilization was unconstitutional.

The board, composed of heads of state institutions, can order sterilization if hearings indicate children of persons in question would have an inherited "tendency toward" sicknesses and problems ranging from epilepsy to "degeneracy."

Since the board was created 43 years ago, 1416 women and 877 men have been sterilized.

Medford Youth Agrees To Return Paper Boxes

A 16-year-old Medford boy Monday agreed to personally return to their owners a number of newspaper boxes which he had earlier stolen.

Medford police found six newspaper boxes under the youth's home. The boy admitted that he stole them, and, at the suggestion of police, he agreed to return them.

Kennedy, Leaders Review Proposals For Recovery

Congress To Move Ahead on Programs

Washington—UPI—Speaker Sam Rayburn said today after a White House conference that the nation's economic situation is at its "most urgent since the great depression" of the early 1930s.

Rayburn gave his views after President Kennedy, the cabinet and the Democratic congressional leaders held a general discussion of the administration's anti-recession proposals.

The speaker said Congress would "move ahead on these programs as fast as we can now that our committees are organized."

He said no new proposals were made at today's breakfast meeting which lasted less than an hour, but the situation was reviewed by cabinet members, particularly Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg.

Found Conditions Bad
The speaker said Goldberg, reporting on his Friday through Sunday tour of unemployment-plagued areas of five major industrial states, told the leaders "it was as bad or worse than he expected to find it."

Rayburn said that a statement which Kennedy plans to make at his televised news conference Wednesday evening will "be along the lines" of what the administration has proposed as a recovery program, stressing "the urgency of it and so forth."

"I think it's the most urgent since the great depression... since the late '20s and early '30s," Rayburn said.

He emphasized that he was speaking for himself and, when asked whether he was reflecting the administration's view, he replied "The President will have to answer that."

Asked, however, whether the major emphasis of today's session was on the economic situation, he quickly replied, "sure."

Klamath Man Admits Burglaries

A 23-year-old Klamath Falls man admitted to Medford police Monday that he is responsible for eight recent burglaries here, including one last week at the Century Sporting Goods store, 36 South Riverside ave.

Wendell Floyd Long was arrested in Klamath Falls Sunday night on a charge of possessing stolen property after he was caught trying to sell three .22 caliber pistols that were stolen Thursday from the Medford sporting goods store.

At first Long denied the burglary but yesterday two Medford police detectives went to Klamath Falls, and he admitted the crime to them. He also admitted to seven other burglaries here during the past three months.

Included among the crimes admitted by Long are four church burglaries—the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, the First Christian church, Sacred Heart Catholic church and St. Marks Episcopal church. The only thing taken in any of the church burglaries, Long said, was $4 from a cash box at St. Marks.

Long also admitted burglaries at the Koin-O-Matic laundry in Phoenix, Bea's Westinghouse Laundromat in Medford, and a Valley Fuel company ice machine in Medford. He said he took $50 from the Phoenix laundromat.

Police said Long has also admitted to several burglaries of a similar nature in Klamath Falls. He is charged with burglary not in a dwelling and is confined in the city jail.

Applications Halted

Washington—UPI—Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udah today halted all new non-mineral applications for public lands for 18 months.

Hatfield Asks $900,000 For Boardman Park Costs

Trading Stamp Death in Oregon Seen Through Bill

Salem—UPI—A vice president of Sperry and Hutchinson Co. declared Monday that Oregon's proposed trading stamp bill will kill trading stamps in the state if it becomes law.

Sperry and Hutchinson (S & H) is the biggest stamp dealer in Oregon.

John Beinert of San Francisco, who introduced the bill here, said "while the proposal contains many damaging provisions, the section eliminating exclusive franchises for merchants would make trading stamps a thing of the past in Oregon."

Rep. C. R. Hoyt (R-Corvallis), who introduced the bill, said it is a "completely new approach to protecting the consumer and avoiding stamp company abuses."

He said he sponsored the bill at the request of his constituents in Benton county. The bill was drawn up and is being pushed by a group called the Oregon Business Council.

The council has emphasized that the bill would not prohibit stamps but would regulate the companies which sell them to retailers.

The S & H people disagree. Attorney Rupert R. Bullivant of Portland said "news stories concerning this bill, prior to its introduction, reveal that its sponsors are attempting to avoid heavy consumer protest by the claim that it regulates stamps but does not prohibit them."

Hillsboro—UPI—A man wearing a yellow cap and a red sweater held up the Times Cafe here Monday night and escaped with about $70, police reported.

Engineers, Wildlife Service Report on Progress of Study

Grants Pass—Henry Stewart, of the Army corps of engineers, told the Rogue River Basin Flood Control and Water Resources association here last night that the corps is hopeful additional funds will be made available to complete its study of the upper basin, leading to its development for multi-purpose use.

He added that the corps hopes to complete its study by next spring. Bills authorizing construction and financing basin projects may be submitted to Congress as early as the spring of 1962, he said.

William Jess, vice president of the association's board of directors, noted that about $15,000 still is needed to complete the engineers' study. He said Congress has appropriated $37,000 for the study, and $75,000 is needed. Some funds from other sources were also used for the Rogue basin study.

The last request for funds was forwarded last week, and Ben Hilton, president of the association's board of directors, said he has not heard from Congressman Edwin R. Durno as to the outcome.

Report on Studies
Travis Roberts of the fish and wildlife service reported on their study of the Rogue and its tributaries. He said the Rogue basin project would be beneficial to fish and wildlife if engineers meet certain recommendations of the fish and wildlife service. The service and the corps are working together in preparing studies, and the overall report to follow.

At a directors meeting following the association meeting, Henry DeVoss, representing the Izak Walton League, discussed proposed bills in the state legislature to create a department of natural resources. The fish and game commission would be a division of that department, he noted.

Directors elected last night are Andy H. Schmidt, Medford; Claude Eaker, Gold Hill; B. L. Randolph, Cave Junction; C. O. Nystrom, Merlin; Wally Martin, Grants Pass; and E. H. Taylor, Central Point, representing the Jackson county court.

The board reelected Hilton as president and Jess as vice president.

Oregon Applies for Emergency Funds

Salem—UPI—Oregon has applied to Congress for a $5 to $6 million emergency public works program, Gov. Mark Hatfield said Monday.

It was in response to a request from the Kennedy administration, he said.

The projects include forest protection, reforestation, access roads, guard stations, towers and storage.

First Swallows Are Reported in Valley
The first swallows of the season were seen by two Medford birdwatchers yesterday morning near a state game commission pond on Gregory rd.

The Rev. Thomas McCamant said he and Maj. Gen. Joseph Hicks, both dedicated bird enthusiasts, believe this is the earliest date the regular spring arrivals have been seen in this area. The birds were believed to be tree swallows.

Some $250,000 Would Be Repaid By Boeing Firm

Salem—UPI—Gov. Mark Hatfield today asked the legislature for $900,000 to cover costs incident to establishing the Space Age Boardman industrial park.

Some $250,000 of this would be repaid by Boeing Airplane Co. as the firm's share of moving the U.S. Navy's bombing range from Morrow county to Lake county.

Should Be Available
Hatfield added that the remainder of the $900,000 might not have to be spent but the money should be made available and "it is my conviction that even if this full amount or more is expended it will be returned to the people of Oregon many times over in new jobs, payrolls, taxable wealth and economic growth."

Hatfield's request was contained in a 24-page special message transmitted to both houses. It included a review of the Boardman negotiations, copies of the Boeing lease and proposed legislation.

Each legislator was given a copy.

Breakdown Given
Hatfield broke down the $900,000 this way: $400,000 for a possible difference in the fair market value of the lands to be exchanged; $400,000 for facilities on the Wagontire site of Lake county for moving the Navy; $100,000 for appraisals, engineering studies, other expenses and contingencies.

Hatfield said completing the land exchanges and fulfilling obligations involved in moving the Navy calls for "legislative direction and ratification as well as an appropriation of state funds."

Also, at one side of the dam, a tunnel has been bored into the side of the mountain. This tunnel is lined with concrete and reinforced with steel and has a capacity of 700 second-feet of water.

In addition to these safety factors, Callan said the reservoir itself has a flood-control capacity of 10,000 acre-feet of water. He explained that normally at this time of the year the reservoir would be three-quarters full. This would leave 10,000 acre-feet to store any excess water.

Rests on Solid Rock
Callan said that the dam rests on solid rock. Before the dam was built, he said, all fissures or cracks at the dam site were sealed with concrete grout put under high pressure. The same was done with the abutments at either side of the dam, he added.

The BLM engineer did say there is a sandstone area behind the dam that might someday fall into the reservoir. He said, however, that it would do no damage when and if it did fall.

Asked if the Rogue valley was considered to be a potential earthquake area, Callan replied in the affirmative, and said the BLM considers all of the Pacific coast area as "subject to shock." He added that no dam could ever be said to be completely earthquake-proof.

Walter Hoffbuhr, Talent Irrigation district manager, was also at the meeting, and said that in case of high water Emigrant dam has a sufficient "cushion" so that it can release excess water up to 24 hours after Bear creek has crested in the valley.

Engineer Reassures Safeness of Emigrant Dam

J. A. Callan, construction engineer for the Talent Irrigation project, Monday repeated earlier assurances that the newly rebuilt Emigrant dam is as safe as man can make it.

Callan was addressing his remarks to the Medford Chamber of Commerce round-table luncheon in the Jackson hotel. It was the same group that a week earlier heard E. M. Tucker, owner of Tucker Sno-Cat company, Medford, contend that the dam is insecure.

Callan said the bureau of reclamation is "very proud of that dam," and added that it is the result of many years of planning and hard work. He pointed out that it was built using all the latest techniques in design and construction methods.

Located South of Ashland
Emigrant dam, scheduled for completion next month, is located south of Ashland and was started in the fall of 1958 to provide additional water for the Talent Irrigation district.

It is an earth-fill dam built over an older concrete dam. The concrete dam was 110 feet high. The earth-fill will raise the dam's height to 190 feet, providing for a reservoir capacity of 40,000 acre-feet of water.

Callan said that earth-fill was chosen over concrete as the material for the dam, for several reasons. Included among these were location, foundation, the material at hand, cost, and the fact that a concrete dam was already on the site.

Callan noted that the base of the dam is 1,100 feet thick. Around the old concrete dam, he said, is a compacted clay core. The water content of the material making up this concrete spillway was located core was carefully measured, he pointed out, to insure that it would mold into one homogeneous mass, yet leave no excess water to form voids.

Clay Core
The clay core is 470 feet thick at the base. This includes the 24-foot thickness of the old concrete dam. Extending out on either side of the core is another 300 feet of sand, gravel and rock.

The rock material serves to add extra weight to the dam, and also to prevent erosion by wave-action, water or wind.
