Two Actions Planned To Aid Unemployment

Monthly Report, Group To Study Automation Told

Washington - (UPI) - Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg has taken two new actions to help areas faced with critical unemployment.

Goldberg announced the two moves Monday night after reporting to President Kennedy on his week end tour of depressed areas in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

He said these steps would be taken:

The Bureau of Employment Security, which compiles figures to determine whether areas have substantial unemployment, would report every month instead of every two months. Goldberg said this would get such areas on the list quicker so they could get federal aid.

A new division will be set up within the Labor Department to deal with automation - the shift from men to machines - which has received part of the blame for unemployment problems.

President Concerned

In discussing the jobless picture, Goldberg said Kennedy "of course is, as he said when he sent me on my trip, concerned about the problems." He said the President would have something to say about the situation at his news conference Wednesday.

The Cabinet member said he told Kennedy he had talked with more than 800 jobless, plus community leaders and businessmen, during his week end trip.

He said he also reported that "while everywhere, there was grave concern, there was also uniform confidence that the problem could and would be solved."

"This included the unemployed, who expressed confidence and hope that things would change for them for the better."

The secretary said "what everybody really wants is a job."

Welcome Proposals

"However, until jobs are available, they welcome the proposal by President Kennedy to Congress to extend unemployment insurance benefits," he said. "They also welcomed very much the proposal to give aid to children of unemployed workers."

He conceded that "some employers had some reservations" about increasing payroll taxes to extend the duration of unemployment benefits. Goldberg also said "it is going to take time" to get the Kennedy proposals through Congress.

Therefore, he said, there was need for executive action such as Kennedy's previous order to federal agencies to funnel government contracts into areas of substantial unemployment, with 6 per cent or more of the working force unemployed.

Local Accountant's License Is Revoked

Portland - The public accountant's license of Ethel McIntyre, Medford, was revoked by the Oregon State Board of Accountancy at its Jan. 23 meeting, the board announced Monday through its executive secretary, Harold Faunt.

The board gave no public reason for the revocation. Mrs. McIntyre has operated an accounting and business service firm in Medford for a number of years.

Stock Prices Waver In Early Trading

New York - (UPI) - Stock prices wavered through the first hour on moderate turnover today but special situations and the more speculative groupings climbed slightly above their opening levels.

Steels slightly favored the downside but the effect was cancelled out by equally small upside movements in several autos. A 2 point drop in Chicago Great Western, after a dividend cut, highlighted an otherwise static rail section.

Oils appeared somewhat depressed with many issues down fractions and Kerr McGee off 3 1/2. Reynolds lost 3/4 in the tobacco but most aircrafts posted 1/4 to 1/2 point gains.

DOW-JONES AVERAGES

New York - (UPI) - Dow Jones final stock averages: 30 industrials 637.04, off 2.63; 20 railroads 139.68, off 0.96; 15 utilities 107.29, off 0.43, and 55 stocks 216.19, off 1.00. Sales Monday were about 3.56 million shares compared with 4.84 million shares Friday.

Lumumba Death Takes on Air Of Martyrdom

Leopoldville, The Congo - (UPI) - The slaying of Patrice Lumumba took on an air of martyrdom today and United Nations forces alerted their troops throughout the Congo against the possibility of mass reprisals by left-wing supporters.

The slaying, announced Monday in the Katanga Province capital of Elisabethville, brought to a head a simmering crisis the United Nations has been sitting on since shortly after the Congo gained independence from Belgium eight and a half months ago.

Europeans whispered fearfully of a new "Night of the Long Knives"—a phrase that cropped up during the Hitler purges of the 1930s and at the start of the Algerian war six years ago.

Belgian officials were particularly worried about eight Belgian businessmen being held in Stanleyville, capital of Oriental Province, where former Lumumba aide Antoine Gizenga and other left-wingers have set up a revolutionary movement "against the central Congo government."

African Rampage

Immediately after independence, Africans went on a rampage, attacking white men and raping women. Thousands of Europeans fled.

Opponents of the goateed, bespectacled Lumumba blamed his inflammatory speeches both before and after independence for stirring up the trouble.

Now his supporters were expected to use his death as a new rallying cry to try to oust the pro-Western central government of President Joseph Kasavubu.

The Congo is broke, hungry and disorganized. Only the presence of the U. N. force has kept it from disintegrating and Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold has warned he may have to pull the troops out if a civil war erupts.

This would create a vacuum that would suck in military aid from East and West and possibly turn the Congo from a cold-war center to an East-West hot war.

The Katanga provincial government of President Moise Tshombe, which announced that Lumumba and two aides had been "massacred" by villagers following their jailbreak, continued to push its offensive against Baluba tribesmen in the north.

Seize Town

A government spokesman said Katangese security forces had seized the town of Bukama, north of Luena and were, driving in the direction of Kabondodianda, another town on the Elisabethville-Kamina railway line.

The spokesman said 300 Balubas had surrendered and the others were fleeing.

Katanga Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo refused to disclose where Lumumba and his companions had been slain but it was disclosed later that their bodies were found near the coppermine town of Kolwezi, 155 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

Rajeshwar, Dayal of India, Hammarskjold's chief representative in the Congo, expressed "shock and horror" at the news of Lumumba's death.

He said it was bound to have a serious effect both within and outside the Congo.

U. N. Rebuffed

In Elisabethville, a U. N. official said it now was more necessary than ever to investigate the circumstances surrounding Lumumba's escape and death but the Katanga government turned him down.

"I forbid the United Nations the right to take a position in this matter," said Munongo.

The two men slain with Lumumba were former Youth Minister Maurice V. Mpolo and former Deputy Senate Speaker Joseph Okito.

Castro Affirms Plan To Export Revolution

Havana - (UPI) - Premier Fidel Castro affirmed his determination to export revolution to Latin America in a week end challenge to the inter-American system which appeared to dash hopes of a reconciliation between Cuba and the new U. S. administration.

In a speech early Sunday to a group of factory workers, Castro also hinted his regime is preparing to take over Cuba's Roman Catholic schools and cemeteries.

Annala's Reapportionment Plan Praised

Salem - (UPI) - Republican Minority Leader F. F. Montgomery of Eugene today praised a legislative reapportionment plan by Rep. George Annala (D-Hood River) and said a "very similar" GOP citizens committee plan will be ready Monday.

Essence of both plans is that they would make "as little change as possible" in present legislative makeup - while at the same time recognizing new census figures as the constitution requires. Metropolitan Shift

The population count shows a shift to metropolitan areas. Both Annala and Montgomery said their plans made use of constitutional "leeway" in an effort to protect representation for thinly-populated counties.

Annala's plan would do away with his own Hood River district in the House. It also would wipe out Rep. Frank Weatherford's Gilliam-Morrow-Sherman-Wheeler district by regrouping Eastern Oregon counties.

Multnomah county would get seven senators, and would be joined with Hood River for 17 representatives. Effect would be a shift of one-half representative from Hood River to Multnomah.

Lane county would get three senators and five representatives, and Marion county would get two senators and four representatives.

Legality Questioned

Several elections and reapportionment committee members said they felt the plan was not constitutional, because it failed to give as many legislators to heavily populated counties as census figures indicated.

Both Annala and Montgomery said they felt such a plan would stand up to court scrutiny. Annala said, however, he was sure any plan the legislature reached would end up before the Supreme Court for a "test review."

The 12-man citizens committee was named by House Republicans last month to come up with a reapportionment plan.

Annala also has proposed a constitutional amendment to go before voters in 1962, designed to guarantee minimum representation for sparsely populated counties.

Final Day of Art Show Tomorrow

Final day for the current exhibit at Rogue gallery, 220 West Main st., is tomorrow, Feb. 15. The more than 50 watercolors and drawings which make up the show are the work of Robert Bosworth, Medford.

Bosworth, educated both as an architect and a painter, believes that watercolor can be as effective and forceful as an art medium as oil and the show at Rogue gallery is evidence of his experimentation and results. Following the close of the show tomorrow, the artists will take the works to Salem where they will be exhibited at Bush house.

Gallery hours Wednesday will be noon to 4 p.m.

Eisenhower Stays Off Golf Course

Palm Springs, Calif. - (UPI) - Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower stayed away from the golf course again Monday in preference to relaxing in his rented $100,000 cottage.

Eisenhower also failed to visit the golf course Sunday after getting his vacation here off to a steady diet of golfing last week when he and his wife, Mamie, arrived from the East. More golfing is in store for him later this week, a spokesman said.

CORVALLIS MAN NAMED

Washington - (UPI) - President Kennedy has named Howard Bertch, 51, Corvallis, Ore., as administrator of the Farmers Home Administration in the Agriculture department.

What do you pay for dry cleaning?

In the average home, at least one suit and one dress go to the cleaner every week... at $1.25 each. You'll probably be surprised to learn that your annual cleaning bill is more than you spend on doctors and medicines combined.

That ferocious banging you hear as you drive by our Portland plant is not a coffee grinder gone out of hand at all. It is not even the boss pounding his desk. No, this is a device of our own design and desire. It is a Boyd's-Used-Lid-Counter-for-Churches-Clubs-Charities-and-Other-Non-Profit-Groups. We redeem Boyd's lids for cash, you see, to help these groups raise funds. Five cents for lids from one-lb. tins or two-oz. jars, ten cents for lids from two-lb. tins or six-oz. jars. Nearly 3,000 Northwest groups sent us boxes, bags and batches of lids last year. We drop them in slots, like giant coins, and the machine carries on. It's reasonably rapid and accurate to a fault. Just the same, we wish it wouldn't count out loud.
