Mail Delivery Slowdown Expected

Washington - (UPI) - The Post Office Department said today some slowdown in delivery of airmail letters might result from the wildcat strike of flight engineers.

But a department spokesman added that it was "a little too early" to tell just how much postal service would be affected. The official said that the mail went through pretty much on schedule Monday because of the light volume. Week end mail usually is light since there is a letup in business mail.

"We won't really get the full impact until after today," the official said.

African Preserve On Coast Rejected

Salinas, Calif. - (UPI) - The Monterey County Board of Supervisors firmly opposed Monday a plan to use 2,000 acres of California's coastal mountains for an African game preserve, stocked with 3,000 animals from elephants to boa constrictors.

The proposal was made by Jean Pierre Hellet of New York, president of the American Society to Protect and Conserve African Wild Life.

Board Chairman Thomas Hudson said it was "nice to see there's so much interest in saving animals but it seems the real need in Africa is to protect the people."
