Portland Gasoline Price War Goes On

Portland—UPI—John Daskalos continued to sell regular gasoline at 19.9 cents per gallon today, but he had new gasoline pumps.

Shortly after he began selling gasoline at the low price Monday morning Texaco Inc. removed its pumps and signs from Daskalos' downtown car wash lot. Daskalos bought and installed new pumps and said he expected his supply commitment to be fulfilled.

Long lines of cars waited their turn much of the day. Daskalos said he lowered the price to bring to public attention the current gasoline price war in which regular gasoline has been selling at 28.9 to 29.9 cents in most stations. He said he hoped that it might help major oil companies decide to change their marketing policies.
