

Proposed Wilderness Bill Debated in Senate Committee

De Gaulle Sees Early End of Algeria Conflict

Paris—(UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle today held out hope for an early end to France's six-year-old war in Algeria following his talks with Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba.

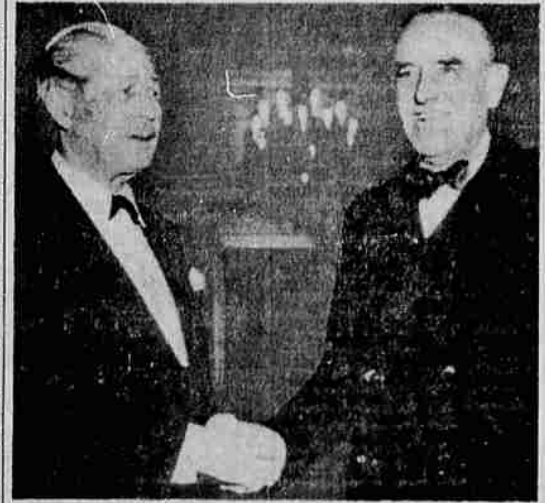

French sources said de Gaulle already has conceded the principle of direct talks with the Algerian Moslem rebels and will agree to Algerian independence, provided the rights of the 1.2 million European settlers are safeguarded and the Algerians choose this course freely.

The communique at the conclusion of Monday night's talks was cautiously worded, but it did express optimism that the war could be brought to an early end.

It said both leaders agreed "on the possibilities and the hope that exist now of a positive and swift evolution" in the Algerian situation, which ties up 450,000 of France's troops.

Behind this cryptic wording, informed sources saw a strong hint that the long-awaited French talks with the rebels would begin soon.

It was known that Bourguiba, who openly favors the rebel provisional government of Ferhat Abbas and provides it aid and a headquarters,

Udall, Freeman Support Measure; Lumber Opposed

Washington—(UPI)—A proposed bill to establish a national wilderness preservation system was debated pro and con Monday in hearings before the Senate Interior committee.

The bill, sponsored by Committee Chairman Sen. Clinton M. Anderson (D-N.M.), is supported by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall and Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

Rep. John F. Baldwin (R-Calif.), who testified on behalf of the bill Monday, has introduced a similar bill in the House. Also appearing on behalf of the bill were representatives of the American Farm Bureau, the National Wildlife Federation, the Isaac Walton League of America, and the Mountaineers of Seattle.

Representatives of the lumbering and mining industries expressed opposition to the bill. An official of the Federal Power Commission also appeared to ask that the bill be amended to assure that the commission's powers would not be limited under terms of the bill.

Baldwin told the committee that "we owe to future generations the preservation of wilderness areas in national parks, national forests and elsewhere."

Cites Population Growth
"As you know, the state of California has had the greatest total increase in population during the past 10 years of any state in this country," Baldwin said.

"At the same time, we have in the Sierra Nevada some of the most beautiful wilderness areas in our nation. We are anxious to preserve these areas in their present natural form."

Baldwin said he did not want to see wilderness areas "cut up by mining roads, timber access roads, and other evidences of commercial civilization."

Lumber industry representatives who opposed the bill included A. B. Hood, president of the National Lumber Manufacturing association and general manager of the Ralph L. Smith Lumber Co., Anderson, Calif., and W. E. Hagenstein, of the Industrial Forestry association, Portland.

They protested the "locking up" of natural resources through what they termed a "blanket wilderness system."

Praises Forest Service
Hood said his organization was in favor of the present system and that lumbermen had "full confidence" in the U.S. Forest Service.

"Our industry does not oppose, but indeed supports, the establishment of appropriate reasonably defined areas of outstanding wilderness attraction as wilderness areas," Hood said in a prepared statement.

"But we do strongly oppose the blanket inclusion of vast areas into a wilderness system without carefully determining beforehand which areas may be better suited for other resource uses when considered in the light of the future needs of our nation."

The mining industry was represented by W. Howard Gray, Reno, Russell Chadwick, Spokane, Wash., and James P. Keane, Wallace, Idaho.

A principal objection raised by the mining representatives was that the proposed bill would prevent prospecting in the wilderness areas.

Chairman Anderson pointed out to both the lumbering and mining groups that the bill contains a section allowing the President to make exceptions "in the public interest."

Duncan Raps Request by Senate for Fadeley Testimony on Lobby Measure

Salem—(UPI)—House Speaker Robert Duncan (D-Medford) declared today that the Senate's request that Rep. Edward N. Fadeley appear before a special Senate committee investigating a lobby report is "inappropriate" and "contrary to the spirit of cooperation which has heretofore characterized this legislature."

He transmitted a letter spelling out his feeling to Sen. Boyd Overhulse (D-Madras), this morning. Overhulse is chairman of the special committee.

Meanwhile Fadeley, Eugene Democrat, announced that he will not appear as requested at 2 p.m. today.

Fadeley said "as a member of the House, I am in agreement with the speaker's position as leader of the House."

Incensed by charges that it might "whitewash" the probe on the lobbyist report, the Senate committee Monday ordered testimony from Fadeley.

Overhulse said if necessary he would attempt to subpoena Fadeley if he failed to show up. But he added he wasn't sure if this could be done to a legislator.

Four Other Members
The Overhulse committee includes Sens. Walter J. Pearson, Thomas R. Mahoney, John Hare and Anthony Yturri.

Hare, Hillsboro Republican, vowed that all findings would be public record "regardless of whose toes they step on." The committee unanimously endorsed this.

The Senate authorized the committee after Fadeley's disclosure of a background file on certain legislators held by Associated Oregon Industries, a major employer lobby.

It is in the form of a questionnaire sent out by AOI some weeks ago.

The committee indicated it is very interested in a statement Fadeley made last week that some lobby groups have budgets of "many tens of thousands of dollars for influencing legislators on certain legislation." He also referred to a "confidential report" on legislators, including information relating to their financial affairs.

He later identified this as the AOI questionnaire.

On the Senate floor Monday, Sen. Robert W. Straub (D-Eugene) attempted to officially make it a joint House-Senate probe but failed. Then he said he was surprised that Senate President Harry Bolvin "had the nerve to appoint the members he did."

Fadeley has emphasized again and again that he meant no inference of corruption by his remarks on the confidential list or the big lobby budgets.

Rep. Phil Land (D-Portland) Monday afternoon unveiled a new legislative reapportionment plan in the House Elections committee. It would re-map Oregon's districts on a pure population basis to the detriment of Eastern Oregon.

Chairman George Annala (D-Hood River) predicted the committee will mold and pass out a reapportionment bill next Monday.

Other Highlights
Reapportionment—Annala's committee tabled a bill that would have allowed a dozen Oregon high schools to submit reapportionment formulas to the legislature. The sponsor, Fadeley, said the teen-agers would be more objective about it than legislators.

Candidates—Sen. Alice Corbett, Oregon Democratic national committeewoman, took issue with Straub's position that state party conventions should not be curtailed in endorsing candidates for elective office. She dismissed the Oregon Democratic party chairman's claim that a bill to prevent this would weaken political parties.

Court Appearance Slated for Youth

Weaverville, Calif. — (UPI) — Honor student Daryl Moss, 15, was to appear in Trinity County Superior Court today to hear whether he should be tried as a juvenile or as an adult for the slaying of his parents.

At the same time, funeral services were scheduled in Driggs, Idaho, for the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Viril Moss, whom the honor student and sophomore class president admits shooting to death last Wednesday.

Dist. Atty. Donald B. Kennedy has indicated he will attempt to try the teen-ager as an adult.

Moss, of Lewiston, Calif., was taken after his arraignment last week to Mendocino State hospital for a psychiatric examination. He told police he killed his father "because I hated him."

Teamster Voting Ordered by Judge

Washington—(UPI)—Federal Judge F. Dickinson Lets today ordered the Teamsters Union to hold a convention and election as soon as possible—a move that seems certain to return James R. Hoffa to undisputed control of the giant union.

Hoffa, president of the teamsters, expects to regain clear control of the 1,700,000-member international union at an election to be held in conjunction with the convention.

A group of rank-and-file teamsters opposed a general convention and election at this time. They claimed the job of cleaning up the union has not progressed.

UN Can Use Force If Necessary

United Nations, N. Y. — (UPI) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, anticipating quick response to his appeal for African reinforcements in the Congo, has told President Joseph Kasavubu the United Nations has the strength needed to pacify the country by force, it was disclosed today.

In a comprehensive report to the Security Council, Hammarskjold confirmed that he had appealed to all African countries, except Libya and Togo which have no troops available, to send contingents to the U.N. force in the Congo or delay the withdrawal of units planned by some countries.

How do you measure protection?

In football, a passer measures his protection by how well he's shielded from onrushing linemen. Insurance is like that, too. You measure your protection by how well your policy guards you from being thrown for a financial loss. To get the right insurance protection for your car, home, or business... you need a good quarterback—an independent insurance agent. He'll line up the policy that's exactly right for your needs and budget. And he'll see that you are properly protected from start to finish.

Ask your independent agent about the advantages of Atlantic insurance. Men of judgment buy Atlantic insurance; men of integrity sell it.

Kennedy's Father At Palm Springs

Palm Springs, Calif. — (UPI) — This desert resort, already the vacation spot of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, today also played host to President Kennedy's father, former ambassador Joseph Kennedy.

The elder Kennedy arrived Monday aboard the family's private plane with three grandchildren, Christopher, Victoria and Sydney Lawford, and two friends, Arthur Horgan and Boston Police Commissioner Joseph Tully. They flew in from Palm Beach, Fla.

Kennedy stayed at the desert home of former actress Marion Davies and her husband, Capt. Horace Brown. He said he plans to remain for about two weeks of relaxing and golfing—but he had no plans to visit the links with amateur golfer Eisen-
