

Medford Senior Starts Training In Bank Program

Stuart Crum, a senior at the Medford High school, has started his training at the Medford branch of the United States National bank under the work-college program, according to Manager Allan Perry.

Crum has received a $1,200 college scholarship, and a guaranteed position with the bank after college graduation. His starting salary then will be $5,000.

The work-college program is open each year to outstanding high school senior boys in various Oregon cities where bank branches are located. The program is now in operation at 27 branches and the bank's head office.

Selection is made on the basis of teachers' and principals' recommendations and final interviews and tests given by the bank.

Stuart has started learning the job which he will fill on his graduation from high school. After his graduation he will work a year before entering college. The bank will pay tuition fees at the University of Oregon or Oregon State college. He will receive $50 for each college phase as a textbook allowance.

Other college expenses will be paid from his savings which have been accumulated under a mandatory saving plan. He will attend college four terms and alternately work a year until college graduation. The program normally takes six years to complete. The student will be carried as a full-time bank employee.

Stuart is considered on leave of absence during the time he attends college.

During the work phases of the program, he will learn different bank jobs, and each student takes banking courses from the American Institute of Banking, the education division of the American Bankers association.

Stuart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Hawk, 320 North Barneburg rd. He is president of the high school band, and was school representative for the Hi-Fi club. Besides being active in the YMCA, his hobbies include swimming, water-skiing and hunting.
