The Family Council

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors. (Copyright 1961—General Features Corp.)

Erna G. - I tell her she should attend the parents' class.

Beatrice N. - There's nothing they can tell me about my own child.

Erna G. - I'm Bea's cousin and, although I'm still in college and have no children of my own, I see her making mistakes every day with Peter. We live near each other and I'm the official and favorite babysitter, so I'm really interested in Peter and a bit worried.

He's four and in a constant tug-of-war with his mother. She still manages to make him do what she says, but only by spanking him every hour on the hour. Then she feels guilty and Peter goes on to think up new ways to annoy her.

When he's five, he'll be eligible to enter a Demonstration Kindergarten sponsored by the University I attend. Bea signed him up, but there's a preliminary program going on right now and she's not cooperating. They've had all the prospective pupils and their parents over for interviews and tests to help them plan next year's activities.

Now they're trying to organize the mothers into a Child Study group, but Bea won't go. She thinks Peter will start behaving once he goes to school. But the Directors of the project must know what they're doing.

Suppose she's actually stirring up trouble, without knowing it.

Beatrice N. - The reason I'm having trouble with Peter is that he spent a month with my mother-in-law and his aunts, uncles and cousins up on the farm in New Hampshire, while my husband and I traveled through Spain. Peter's dad is a newspaper correspondent and he wanted me to go along on this assignment.

Up in the country, Grandma N. just never said No. Pete had a ball. Also, he saw his older cousins running wild with no supervision or discipline. The other mothers are either "career girls" in town, or busy with chickens and geese. Honestly, they all seem more concerned with the livestock there, than with the children.

Well, Pete's coming around. It's a battle all right, as Erna says, but I'll have my son tamed soon and he'll be a child to be proud of - not a brat like the others.

I've been over to those pre-kindergarten sessions at the University. I've answered all the questions. And they've had a good look at Pete and me. Now they want me to promise to attend a class twice a week. I'm not making promises. I expect another child in six months. As to Pete, how can perfect strangers understand him better than his mother?

The Council: Beatrice's adamant resistance to the urging of her cousin and the counsel of Peter's future teachers leads us to believe that she fears criticism and is on the defensive.

Evidently there is something in her background that makes her feel she must be the perfect mother of a perfect child, or else she's a failure. This must have been revealed to the school personnel, both from brief face-to-face contact with her, and from observing Peter in play situations with other children. While Beatrice is hammering "obedience"

Sun Satellite Starts Third Year

Pasadena, Calif. - (UPI) - The United States' first successful moon probe, Pioneer IV, has begun its third year in space.

The tiny 13-pound cone-shaped satellite has traveled an estimated 11 billion miles since it was launched into a wide orbit around the sun, according to the jet propulsion laboratory of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena.

Scientists said Pioneer IV has nearly completed two orbits of the sun and currently is about 80 million miles from the earth. It will remain eternally in a solar orbit, said scientists.

Pioneer IV was launched March 1, 1959 from Cape Canaveral, Fla., for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by scientists from the jet propulsion lab and the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, Huntsville, Ala.

Scientists said the tiny space probe sent back valuable information on radiation in space before its radio batteries died.

Television Class Offered by SOC

Ashland - Sponsored jointly by the general extension division and Southern Oregon college is a combination course of history of the pacific northwest which offers two student options: television instruction plus on-campus instruction; and television instruction plus correspondence work.

Thirteen one-half hour programs will be presented on television station KBES-TV beginning March 22 at 4 p.m. and continuing every Wednesday. A regular one-hour class will be conducted on campus each Monday of the spring quarter. Off campus students may either attend on campus meetings or prepare equivalent work by correspondence.

Dr. Frank Haines, SOC professor of social science will be the instructor and will appear on KBES-TV March 15, a week prior to the first class presentation, at 4 p.m., to discuss the course and its enrollment procedures.

Extension enrollments will be handled by GED. They will also provide a viewers guide at a regular charge and transportation necessary to attend the course.

According to Dr. E. C. McGill, assistant to the president and coordinator of research at SOC, "It is worth looking at the technique because this involves the use of TV and regular classroom instruction in a combination approach to learning."

Dirksen Urges Faith in Economy

Washington - (UPI) - Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has called on the Kennedy administration to "fling away the crying towel" and show confidence in the nation's economy.

The Illinois senator said the business recession would come to an end if the Democratic administration would "cease talking like doomcrats."

Dirksen said "All that is needed is to translate people's wants into purchasing action and that requires only expressions of confidence in high government circles."

Grange News

Butte Falls Grange will hold regular monthly business meeting Monday, March 6, at 8 p.m. in the community hall.

The February business meeting of the HEC was held at the home of Mrs. Ben Fulton. Mrs. Carl Harman, Mrs. Earl Rensen and Mrs. Ed Curtis were guests.

The bazaar committee reported a successful year, and turned $125 of proceeds over to the Grange.

Kizzie Edmondson has recovered sufficiently from a broken ankle to resume her library and city duties.

Next HEC meeting will be March 14 at the home of Mrs. Henry Wright.

Applegate Grange The Upper Applegate Grange home economics club will hold its meeting at 12:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 8.

On Feb. 28 the Upper Applegate Grange news reported that the former Southern Oregon Livestock yard in Phoenix was purchased recently by the Jackson County Stockmen's association. It was purchased by the Rogue Valley Livestock Auction Yard corporation. There is no connection in the purchasing between Jackson County Stockmen's association and the newly formed corporation, Irene E. Culy, Grange secretary said.

Congress Moves on Kennedy Program

Washington - (UPI) - Congress was set to take giant steps this week toward enacting President Kennedy's legislative program.

The House Ways and Means committee was expected to approve today Kennedy's first-step plan to stem the overseas drain of dollar and gold reserves. The bill would cut from $500 to $100 the amount of duty-free goods Americans may bring back from abroad.

The full House planned to vote Tuesday on the first money measure of the new Congress, a $773.5 million supplemental appropriation bill. And Wednesday the chamber was scheduled to pass a $305 million bill to aid needy children of jobless workers.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield (Mont) forecast Senate action later in the week on the feed grain measure, which would hike price supports on corn and certain other grains in exchange for reduced production.

Vandals Here Flatten Tires on Ten Cars

Medford police were kept busy early Saturday checking on vandalism to over 10 cars in Medford. Vandals had let air out of the tires.

The valve cores had been loosened to allow the air to leak out slowly. No known damage resulted to the tires. Police believe a number of other such incidents occurred Friday night or early Saturday morning which were not reported.
