Man Determined To Wrest Weather Control From Nature

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
Washington—UPI—For better or worse man seems determined to wrest control of the weather from indifferent nature. It is a risky business. If he tries it before he is able to do it right, he may visit disaster on the planet or large areas thereof. And if one nation should hit on means to alter weather and climate before others did, that nation would own what Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), has called "the ultimate weapon."

Possessed by another, "such a diabolical weapon," could "bring the United States to her knees," Anderson has said.

Anti-Castro Attack In Havana Foiled

Havana—UPI—Police guards foiled an armed attack by an anti-Castro band on the Soviet embassy residence shortly before Maj. William A. Morgan of Toledo, Ohio, died before a firing squad for allegedly aiding the enemies of Premier Fidel Castro, diplomatic sources reported.

House Passes Bill On Reorganization

Salem—UPI—The House Monday passed and sent to the Senate a bill doing away with the 60-40 provision in the Oregon school district reorganization law. HB1460 would allow a school district to reject inclusion by a simple majority vote. Under present law, voters must reject by 60 per cent to be able to stay out. Rep. Tom Monaghan (D-Milwaukie) carried the bill.

He believes the United States should give high priority to weather control research. Kennedy interested Anderson recently called on President Kennedy to discuss weather modification, found the President interested, and supplied him with reading material on the subject. Whether this Congress will step up such research remains to be seen. Scientists agree that a tremendous amount of study must be carried out before large scale weather control becomes possible. Several public and private agencies have embarked on such research. The stakes are great, and it appears certain that man won't fail to master the weather for lack of trying.

The weather bureau said recently that with the help of meteorological satellites and basic research "we intend to find the answers" to atmospheric riddles which scientists must solve before they can safely tinkering extensively with the climate. Human beings already are changing weather and even climate to their liking on a small scale here and there. In the Connecticut valley, for example, raisers of shade-grown tobacco stretch acres of muslin over the land, thus creating for their crop a hotter and moister climate than the one provided by nature.

Rainfall Increased

Then there are the rainmakers. In its final report, the old President's committee for weather control said seeding clouds with silver iodide or dry ice when atmospheric conditions were right had increased rainfall 10 to 15 per cent in some western mountain regions. The President's committee went out of business in 1958, but the National Science Foundation has since been financing cloud-seeding experiments on a modest scale. In a 1960 report the foundation said a lot of research remains to be done. But it held out hope that cloud-seeding may be used successfully at least to turn disaster-threatening tornado, hail, and lightning storms into gentle, life-quickeners rains.

The Science Foundation is putting up around $1.5 million (m) a year to finance weather modification studies and about $2.5 million (m) for basic atmospheric research. Many proposals have been made for changing the world's climate. Russians have suggested multibillion-dollar projects to pump warm water into or cold water out of the arctic. Others have recommended that Polar ice be melted by dusting it from planes with heat-absorbing carbon. Scientists have even studied the theoretical feasibility of creating a heat-retaining blanket of fog over the arctic by exploding "clean" H-bombs at appropriate depths. But as Dr. Harry Wexler, the weather bureau's meteorological research director, has pointed out, such meddling might do more harm than good. Artificially sustained arctic fogs, by liberating moisture from ice to air, might increase snowfall and thereby trigger another ice age. Scientists hope no one will ever find out how to melt the Antarctic ice. Wexler once called the Antarctic ice "A sword of Damocles hanging over the human race."

If it were to melt, the oceans would rise 150 to 200 feet and drown the planet's coastal cities.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF FILING APPLICATION FOR A CHANGE IN DIVISION OF WATER
Notice is given hereby that Ray E. Scribner, a water right holder, has filed an application for the approval of a change in place of use and point of diversion of water, from Little Butte Creek. In the Little Butte Creek adjudication proceedings a water right was established in the name of Fryer Ditch Association for the irrigation of 2.0 acres in Tract No. 31, 1870, tabulated under the name of Gladys F. Pearce, and for the irrigation of 2.0 acres in Tract No. 43 (SW 1/4, NE 1/4, Sec. 3, T. 36 S., R. 1 W., W.M.), with a date of priority of Jan. 31, 1870, tabulated under the name of Gladys F. Pearce, and for the irrigation of 2.0 acres in Tract No. 43 (SW 1/4, NE 1/4, Sec. 3, T. 36 S., R. 1 W., W.M.), with a date of priority of Jan. 31, 1870, tabulated under the name of the Catholic Church. These lands are irrigated through the Fryer ditch, the point of diversion of said ditch being located 120 ft. N. and 112 ft. E. from the SW corner of Sec. 35, being within the SW 1/4, SW 1/4, Sec. 35, T. 36 S., R. 1 W., W.M.

The applicants herein, owner of 2.5 acres of the lands above described, with a date of priority of Jan. 31, 1870, and 1.6 acres in Tract No. 31 and 1.6 acres in Tract No. 43, propose to transfer the water right to the Fryer ditch, without loss of priority, to 0.7 acre in SW 1/4, NE 1/4, and 0.2 acre in the NW 1/4, NE 1/4, Sec. 3, T. 36 S., R. 1 W., W.M., and 1.2 acre in the NE 1/4, SW 1/4, Sec. 35, T. 36 S., R. 1 W., W.M., with a date of priority of Jan. 31, 1870, and to irrigate said lands with means of a pumping plant, the point of diversion of said plant to be located 24 ft. N. and 102 ft. E. from the SW corner of Sec. 3, being within the SW 1/4, SW 1/4, Sec. 3, T. 36 S., R. 1 W., W.M.
